MORE OF THE DOINGS OF THE LATE DEMOCRATIC LEGISLATURE.

The question of where did the Democratic majority which controlled the late Legislature of this State nome from, has become interesting to naturalists. Divers theories have been brouched about the origin and genealogy of the concern. The "Herald" office has been searched, but no trace of their pedigree can be found therein, to prove anything like or chronicle of the lineage of blooded horses, was ransacked in vain for any record of the sires and dams of these Democratic lawgivers. Patience, even that of the most determined and persevering genealogist and naturalist; was about giving out, when, in a happy moment, it was discovered that they were the progeny of the Maltese Jacks which Gen. Edney, late a Democratic Senator, imported some years since. Certain it is, if this fact is a fact, the descendants of these "Knights of Malta" (!) have proved true to the lineage of their sonorous and somewhat extensively-eared ancestors.

OFFICE OF SECRATARY OF STATE OF N. C. Raleigh, March 29, 1859.

The above section, being section 6 of Schedule C of the Revenue I aw, was inadvertantly omitted in the copies of the Revenue Law which were fecently printed and sent out from this office by di rection of the General Assembly. #### DEPRECATORY.

For some time past, we have been grieved for having reasons to think that the Standard was losing the confidence of its party. The simplest suggestions of the duty and policy of its party-suggestions which in by-gone days would have been gladly received, and man's origin upon them. The "Stud Book," implicitly acted upon, now seem to excite suspicion-to awaken a fear that they are not given from pure and disinterested devotion to the good of the party, but that the giver is after something-that his purpose either to promote some scheme of his own, or to runish somebody who has thwarted him.

> A few days ago, the Standard came out it an article urging the holding of nominating Conventions in every Congressional District. This was, as we thought, a very simple suggestion, and one entirely void of anything calculated to awaken suspicion or alarm. We were mistaken, however, for "A Working Man," in the last Standard, goes full tilt against any Convention of the Democracy in the Cane Fear District. Should this writer's views be carried out, Mr. Winslow will of course, stand as the Democratic candidate. and any longing for Congress on the part of Mr. Ashe, or any other Democrat wishing to serve his country, must be buttoned up.

To "a Working Man" the Standard replies deprecatingly-disclaims any intention "to assume authority," was simply for holding Conventions in all the Districts, its own included, &c., &c. Whether Mr. Branch will relish this suggestion remains to be seen. He has been in Congress for some time now, and here are some of his party who would like to be fingering $3,000 a year, and mileage, &c. Why hould the Standard desire a Convention in this District? Is it not perfectly satisfied with Mr. Branch! If it is, why the So the tax on non-resident brokers was im- idle ceremony of a Convention ? If it is not, posed after all, and it is now our purpose to why doesn't it come out and state its objecshow, and make every reader with half an eye tions to Mr Branch and the reasons of its mined by the Democracy, then the dominant party, to remove some of the "basement story officers," as they were called, from office. These officers were purely ministerial, and up to that time their politics had been wholly disregarded by the Legislature, no matter which party was in the ascendancy. To carry out their purpose, the Democracy held a caucus and pominated for the office of First as well as gentleman-John W. Thompson, of Wheeling. The two Houses agreed upon the day for going into the election, and just British Periodicals. as the vote-a vote which would have electof July speech, in which he had denounced hall, resigned. slavery, and spoken of insurgent' slaves as heroes entitled to the sympathies of the world. This annunciation caused a great deal of excitement and confusion, and the dominant party at length broke up the joint order for the election, by carrying a motion to adjourn without having the civility to ask the Senate for its concurrence in a postponement, or annulling of said joint order. After this, Thompson was ignored by the Democracy of the Legislature," but the Democracy of the Pan Handle district took him up the ensuing spring and sent him to Congress, and subsequently, when Judges were made eligible by the people, he was elected a Judge of the Circuit Superior Court.

THE WESTERN DEMOCRACY AND IN-TERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The Western Democracy are sadly disgruntled by the failure of the late overwhelmingly Democratic Legislature to do anything for Internal Improvements in the Western part of the State. We make the following extract from a late number of the "Asheville

The talk about home markets, North Carolina towns, State pride, &c., sounds quite pretty, and answers an admirable purpose in rounding of Fourth of July orations, school boy compositions and so forth; but we beg to assure our down country friends that we of the mountains have tried it entirely too light, especially for hard working men. We have concluded to try something more substantial, and confidently expect to grow sleek and fat by the change.

There is no necessity, however, for pursuing the subject further. The die is cast-cast under pro test from the western people -- the State has deliberately said if we get a connection with her the boon-say ten, fifteen, or fifty years.

Often and over again during the canvass last summer did we warn the West that no matter who might be made Governor, and no matter how large a majority the Democracy might have in the Legislature, they Capt. SILENCE GIVES CONSENT .-- THE STANDARD DIVIDED FROM ITS

A few days since we charged that the Standard, by thoroughly endorsing Mr. Buchanan's administration, had separated itself from the Southern Democracy, and given in its adherence to the Northern protective tariff and Pacific Railroad division of the party. This charge has not been denied by the Standard, and we construe its silence into a confession of its truth. The Standard, then, we repeat, is divided from its party South. Yes, and divided from its party in coming contest, has sailed for Europe to re- this State, for it has done what the Democracy of the late Legislature would not do.

RIBLE SUFFERING. Mr. Samuel Dunber, passenger from Havana on the steamship Karnak, which arrived at this coast of Jamaica. It appears that the intelligence of the disaster had not been made public before the closing of the mails for New York, but that the news arrived from a port on the south of the island, a short time before the sailing of the Karnak, and Mr. Dumbar accidentally came into possession of the main facts, and what we state rests solely upon his authority. The British war steamer Jasseur, which was ying at Jamuica, on the 1st inst. received orders to set out immediately on a cruising voyage, and directly sailed from that port. On the night of the 4th inst., she struck a hidden rock to the northward of Jamaica. The pumps were immediately manned and kept working until day-light, when it was discovered that the water was rapidly gaining, and that it would be impossible to keep her up but

The captain ordered a raft to be constructed. and to this were attached the two boats belonging to the vessel, and the men, sixty in number all went aboard, with such scanty provisions as they were able to secure from the sinking

A heavy gale set in soon after the men took to the raft, and they had not been out above two ours when ten men were swept overboard and drawned. All efforts to rescue them were hopeless, the men had all they could do to prevent being washed away after them.

The captain seeing it was useless to cling longer to the raft, took nineteen men with him in the smaller boat, and the mate the remaining twentyrine into the larger one. It was considered use less to attempt to keep together, and the captain said they would each make the best of their way to land, without reference to each other. In a short time the boats were separated by the wind, and the larger boat, containing thiry men, bas not been heard of since and it is believed to have been lost

The little provisions the men on the small boat had taken with them were soon consumed, and the wretched party was subjected to the double suffering of cold and famine. At last, when all were completely exhausted and perishing, the boat was driven to a port on the southern coast of Cuba, and the entire party survivel. The government immediately sent out two vessels to cruise in search of the missing boat; but their search had proved fruitless.

Later advices from Havana confirm the above statement. Nothing has been heard from the missing boat.

"THE WANDERING AFRICANS."

The following extract from a letter received vesterday, by the editor, from a highly respectable cirizen of Telfair county, will be found to contain full particulars of the recent arrest of Africans in Worth county, and the circumstances under which they were discharged from custody by the United States deputy marshal:

"John F. McRae, of this county, deputy United States marshal, having been instructed by the marshal to capture any Africans he might find passing through the country, was informed there were thirty-six in charge of one or two men on their way to the Alabama line. He summoned a posse of ten men, some of our best citizens, pursued and overtook the negroes in Worth county, arrested them as deputy United States marshal under his instructions, and brought them to Jacksonville, and put them in jail, and sent an express to the marshal at Savannah reporting the arrest, and his action in the matter. The negroes remained here until the answer from the marshal came, which stated that he had telegraphed and written to the authorities at Washington, and had received no answer respecting the Africans then known to be in the country; that the Government knew of the Africans being in the State, and had given him no orders, and that his advice was to turn them loose and let them proceed on their way .-When this letter came, and as the arrest had been made by the authority of the United States, and in good faith, the negroes were released, the person in charge of them paying for the provisions they consumed, and medical attention to those that were sick. One or two of those assisting in arrest retook the negroes and demanded payment for their outlay and trouble, threatening to carry the Africans to Gov. Brown if it was not paid. A $1. compromise was made to the satisfaction of the parties, and 'the last of the Wanderer's cargo' were allowed to depart in peace. The negroes dis-liked very much to leave, as they had been treated very kindly by the citizens."-Savannah Republican, March 23.

APPALLING CATASTROPHE! LOSS OF THREE THOUSAND LIVES!

Near Taganrog, on the Sea of Azoff, a catas-trophe occurred about the beginning of February last, which involved a loss of life unparalleled except by memorable earthquakes or volcanic erupions. It appears that some three thousand in habitants of Taganrog, re'ying upon the promise of fair weather m de by the genial atmosphere and cloudless sky proceeded to the Azoff Sea to indulge in the sport of fishing beneath the ice-favorite pastime of that region. The atmosphere continuing serene, the party were lulled into a feeling of security, and ventured further than usual upon the ice, in the hope of obtaining a good hau!. Suddenly a breeze sprung up from the east which, growing boisterous by degrees, whilled the loose snow and particles of ice in all directions, and before long succeeded in detailing the ice from the shore. The large ice field then broke into numerous pieces, and with their terrified and nelpless human freight drifted towards the oper sea. No assistance could be rendered the unhappy beings by their frantic relatives on shore, a vithin two hours not a sign of life was visible upon the surface of the sea. On the following lay a cake of ice drifted in shore upon which we five of the unfortunates, three of them dead, and he other two numb and insensible. The two later, a girl and an old man, were restored by means of the usual appliances, the girl, however survived but a few hours; the man recovered but lost the use of his tongue—a consequence, pro-bably, of the fright caused by the scene he had passed through.
