And is there a man in North Carolina, who does not wish the Union dissolved, pigeon-livered enough to submit to her locomotive and pulling States out of this Union by force, in order that they may be used as tenders to her purposes and her interests, could have originated no where on the face of the wide earth but in the puissant Nation of South Carolina.

THE GRAND STATE MASS MEETING AT SALISBURY

It will be seen from the annexed letter from Charles F. Fisher, Esq., the courteous President of the N. C. R. R. Co., that an Excursion Train will be run to and from Salisbury during the 11th and 12th of October, the days of the Grand Salisbury Rally, and that those attending will be allowed to pass on the Excursion and Mail Trains for half- pions. fare:

SALISBURY, Sept. 25th, 1860. DEAR SIR : We have never carried passengers on he regular trains to any meetings other than General Conventions for less than full fare : but on this occasion it will no doubt be expected and per-haps it will be best, for us to do all we can to accommodate the people, though in doing so I am assuming a responsibility to do an unusual thing. I will, therefore, leave instructions (having to be absent myself) that excursion tickets shall be issued for the trip-good on the regular mail train, and on an Excursion train which will be run daily-but not on the Express train, as this is occupied by through travel, and would be greatly and unsafely overcrowded. These Excursion tickets will be at half fare

I shall cause the time of trains to be published Yours, Truly, C. F. FISHER. along the line.

THE CHIMES FOR ST. PAUL'S .- The magnificent With a ticket for Breckinridge and anothgift of Judge Perkins and his estimable lady, now of Louisiana, to the St. Paul's church of this city, reached here by way of City Point, on Saturday, from the manufactory of Messrs. Menee-ly & Sons, West Troy, New York. It consists of a beautiful chime of nine bells, the heaviest of which weighs 1,793 lbs., and the rest respectively as follows : 1,332, 902, 813, 507, 414, 301, 263 and 249 lbs. The total weight of the nine bells is therefore 6574 lbs. They each bear the followng inscription :

A member of the firm of the manufacturers accompanied the present and will see that it is properly arranged in the belfry and will also remain for two Sabbaths, for the purpose of initiating its operations.—Petersbrug Epress.

We cannot conceive any more touching and beautiful memorial than the one above described. Every Sabbath the requiem of "the loved one lost to Earth" will be chimed by these solemn bells.

The Committee of fifteen, appointed by authority of the New York Cooper Inititute Union Meeting, met on Monday at the Assay Office and completed a Union electoral ticket, consisting of eighteen Douglas, ten Bell and Everett, and seven Breckinridge men. All but three names are taken from the tickets heretofore nominated, and these three represent a portion of the Breckinriuge interest.

We learn by a telegram from New-Orleans hat the announcement that Gen. Walker had already been shot was premature. The schoones J. H. Taylor has arrived there, from Truxillo on the 13th, bringing 28 of Walker's men and the intelligence that Walker and Col. Rudler were in prison, and to be shot on the ensuing day.

Men under the excitement of a warm political canvass may swear that they endorse Yancey and all that kind of gammon, but the time of sober reflection will come, when if they still persist in endorsing him, they ought to have the manliness to an-nounce themselves disunionists at once. There is no such thing as a Union man endorsing disunion. He is either a patriot, striving to perpetuate this land as a heritage of liberty, frowning down factionists and agitators everywhere, determ ined to save the Union as our fathers left it, giving equal and exact justice to all; or he is an enemy o the Union plotting against its peace and exciting the jealousies and animosities of its people. There is no middle ground. Every wan has got to take his position on one or the other side. As for us, we are for perpetuating the Union to the last syl-lable of recorded time. If the same efforts were made to preserve it, that are made to disrupt it f the same exertions were made to maintain our rights in it, that are used to precipitate the South out of it, then it would live on forever, securing to each section, to every man and to every spe-cies of property equal protection and exact jus-tice. We believe it is stronger than any interest under it, and we believe it will out-live all the olottings against it. > UNION MEN! A WAKE AND TO THE RES-CUE. We find the following article in the Union

Guard, in relation to the friends of Bell and Everett in North Carohna. We call upon our party to rise up in their strength, and go earnestly to work to relieve themselves from the reproach which our friends in other States are justly casting upon us. In every other State where our party is organized, efforts almost superhuman are being made to defeat the enemies of the Union, while here in the Old North State, the home of the 'Old Guard," the friends of Bell and Everett seem dead alike to the sound of danger and the rallying cry of their comrades, which comes to them upon every gale from every quarter of the land.

Wake up, Union men, wake up, buckle on your armor and stand to your guns. Rouse ye, and remember that much is expected of you in "the fight, and that your country calls upon you in this the hour of her sore trial and danger. Prove yourselves worthy of her confidence, and cover yourselves with glory in her defence.

NORTH CAROLINA. - We regret to learn that the friends of Bell and Everett in North Carolina. are by no means so active as they ough' to be. Having recently emerged from an exciting canvass with honor, they have every inducement to enter the field again with the same energy which characterized them on that occasion. The Chairman of their State Committee, the Hon. Sion H. Rogers, has just put forth a spirited address to the Union men of the State, and we fervently hope his wise counsels will not fall upon unwilling ears. North Carolina has been ever true to the Union, and like Washington, her "modesty has been equal to her worth." Calm and unmoved, she has pursued the even tenor of her way, while the surges of disunion roared upon her southern flank, and the waves of abstraction lashed her northern frontier. For ten years, from 1840 to 1850, she never wavered in the good cause, electing in that period five Whig Governors, and sending to the Senate such sterling patriots as Mangum, Bedger, and Graham. How can she be recreant now, when the whole country is aroused for Bell and Everett, and when the whole South

It is contended that the South is secured in the full benefit of the doctrine held by some rights, who maintain that the Constitution, proprio vigore, that the flag of the Union protects the citizen in the enjoyment of his rights of property of every description recognized as such, in any of the States, on every sea and in every Territor / of the Union. The soundness of the general doctrine held on this point, 1 think cannot well be questioned or lisproved; and if the question related to a territory situated as Oregon was, when the United States came into possession of it, property in slaves would be entitled to the protection of the Laws and Constitution of the nited States .- JOHN BELL.

We have never doubted that any one State, le the General Government pursue any course pleases, can dissolve the Union and produce Southern Confederacy. - Charleston Mercury.

The above specimen of mingled treason and arrogance has at least the merit of canof the Disunionists of South Carolina, that her Quattlebums and Commonders, takes it into her sapient and sovereign head to leave Union. Does not the Editor of the Standard the Union, the other Southern States will be now see to what a conclusion his logic leads Kendall. Mr. Kendall's letter is worthy of > Gaston Road has also agreed to pass delegates to the Mass Meeting for half fare. We learn that among other distinguished Union men, Ex-Senator Badger, Ex-Govern. ors Morehead aud Manly, and Dr. R. K. Speed, have consented to attend and address the meeting.

It is not for us to say that it would be dishonorable in a citizen of North Carolina to accept office under a President who had been elected according to the forms of the Constitution. We can answer only for oursel? in this respect; and we say we would not, in any event, or under any circumcumstances, accept or hold office under Mr. Lincoln. But while we say, this, we do not think the mere election of a black Republican according to the forms of the Constitution, especially under present circumstances, would be sufficient cause for disolving the Union. We of the South believe in and intend to maintain the Constitution. With us the words the Constitution are synonimous with the words the Union. They are one and the same. Let us, then, exhaust all the owers of the Constitution in self-defence, or offen necessary, before we proceed to destroy rively, if the existing federal government and set up new governments. The federal government is a government not of numbers, not of discordant and warring sovereignties, but of Constitutional ma-When that government becomes destruciorities. tive of the great ends for which it was established, it will be the right and the duty of the people to abolish it.-Standard. However much the Editor of the Standard may love the Constitution and the Union, we can prove by the remarks which we quote from him, that he is prepared to destroy both. He says he "would not, under any circumstances, accept or hold office under Mr. Lincoln." Why not? Because, of course, the Editor of the Standard conceives that it would be wrong for him to do so. Now, if it is wrong for him to take a merely ministerial office under Lincoln, because Lincoln is a Black Republican or Abolitionist, it would be wrong for anybody, not concurring in sentiment with Lincoln, to accept and hold office under him. This is "inexorable logic," from which the Editor of the Standard cannot escape. And to what does it bring us? Simply to this: that the ministerial offices in the South-the Custom Houses, the Marshalships and the Post Offices, &c.,-must either be vacant, and their operations stopped, or be filled by Black Republicans, Abolionists, Irrepressible conflict men. Now, it is well known that no such characters as the last would be permitted to hold these offices. and more especially the Post Offices in the South, and thus, either a conflict would take place between the Federal authorities and the People of the South which would break dor in it. The ladies will now have Floral Hall to themselves, and we call upon them to exert themselves to fill it up and decorate > it in the most attractive manner. A new building near the entrance, intended for the Executive Committee, will be erected. This is much needed. The track is in fine order for trotting. The Salisbury Brass Band has been engaged for the occasion, and visitors may expect some good music. It will be seen from the advertisement in another column that Mr. P. F. Pescud and Dr. L. S. Perry have been appointed a Committee of Reception, to provide accommodations for visitors. This duty could not have been entrusted to more competent hands. All who desire to come may rest assured of being accommodated.

We are told by Mr. Beckinridge's friends in this State that he is not a disunion-Perhaps he is not now, but what guarantee have we that he will not become one ? But a little while ago he was a warm noninterventionist; now he is equally warm for intervention. This sudden change upon a principle which has been made the issue in the campaign in the South, and the facility of disposition manifested by his acceptance of a nomination from a mere club, show that Mr. Breckinridge is made up of just the materials to constitute him a good tool for the master spirits of disunion and treason by whom he will be surrounded. But what is the use of talking about what he would do if he were elected President ? There is not an inmate of the Lunatic Asylum who does not stand as good a chance for the Presidency as Mr. Breckinridge, and the men of the Cotton States, in whose hands he is, know it.

Hon. Jas. French Strother, formerly member of Congress from the 7th district of Virginia, died in Culpeper county, Va., on Friday. We knew the deceased intimately, and we pay but a just tribute to his memory when > we say, that in all the relations of life he was a most unexceptionable man.

SEVERE THUNDER-STORM. This city was visited between 7 and clock on Thursday night by a severe thunder-storm. The lightning was exceedingly vivid, and we understand struck a tree in the vard of Daniel G. Fowle, Esq., stunning a negro boy who happened to be near by. IF We call attention to the correspon-lyanized into some importance by the suppo ed triumph of his traitorous doctrines, is perambulating the country making Breckinridge peeches. He has also written a few letters, in which he piteously charges that a conspiracy is on foot to break him down, by representing him as a disunionist. He has also had the bravery at the distance of unnumbered leagues from his accusers to charge as "falsifiers" the men who represent his views in their proper light and their inevitable tendency. We ask the question, is Mr. Yancey for disunion ? We shall proceed to answer it, by quoting his own language. In his celebrated "Slaughter letter," he uses the following language :

"No national party can save us; no sectiona party can ever do it; but if we could do as our fathers did, organize committees of safety all over the cottou States-and it is only in them that we an hope for an effective movement-we shall fire the Southern heart, instruct the Southern mind. give courage to each other, and at the proper monent, by one concerted, organized action, we can recipitate the cotton States into revolution." Now, we undertake to say that the man who lon't call that disunionism, has no the capacity to lefine a sentence or judge a plain expression. He declares distinctly that no party, either national r sectional, can save us-meaning the rights of the South in the Union. What then, does he suggest? After thus declaring that it is impossible to preserve our rights in the Union, he proposes that "committees of safety" shall be organized all over the cotton States-as it is only in them, the valiant Mr. Yancey says, he can hope for symathizers in his treasonable designs-by which he can fire the Southern heart, and "at the proper noment, by one concerted organized action, prec.pitate the cotton States into a revolution." Mr. ancey is not willing to trust the forms of law. He insists that it shall be done by secret clubs or committees of safty," and when they shall deem t necessary, then precipitate us into a revolution against the general government. If this is loyaly, then we have heretofore had a wrong impresof the article. If it is not disunion, then we would like to have it defined. The organization which Mr. Yancey propose shall "fire the Southern heart," preparatory to engaging in this warfare against the general govrnment, is styled "The League of United Southmers." From the constitution of this organization, we make the following extracts:

PREAMABLE. "Whereas, Having experenced or the last thirty-eight years, the impossibility f preserving an honorable and peaceable union with our Northern confederates, it now becomes our imperative duty to make an honorable and, f possible, a peaceable separation : and, "Whereas, The dismemberment of the existing union between these United States is inevitable and that all past and existing propositions for uniting the Southern people in one bond of brotherhood are most important for consummating that much desired result : and.

Whereas, The South should sever the existing nion of these States for PAST AGGRESSIONS, BS well as for the prevention of others which must nevitably follow under existing organizations, Resolved, 1. That, with that purity of motive, consciousness of rectitude and noble determination to do right, we recommend and will do ALL WE CAN to bring about an honorable and, if possible, a peaceable separation of the Southern slave States from the Northern free States.

CONSTITUTION. "Art. 1. This organization hall be known as the Great Southern Party. Art. 2. Its objects are honorable and, if possible peaceable dismenberment of the present Confederacy and the formation of a Southern one, securing all the rights, powers and equality to a free, white population that may be exetcised with safety to ourselves and with justice to all other people

Can any man read the above, and say that it is not Disunionism in its worst features? It is distinctly inculcated, that the Union should be dis-enza and at Arezzo, in Tuscany. France, the semi-official columns of the Constitutionnel, protests against this aggression of Piedmont, and asserts that it "will separate it from the Emperor's policy." Austria, too, is again making extensive warlike preparations, having concentrated a corps d'arnice of 50,009 troops in the Mantuan territory. It is officially announced from St. Petersburgh that the Emperors of Austria and Russia are once more friends, and that the meeting of reconciliation between the two Sovereigns will take place at Warsaw.

FOR THE REGISTER. MOUNT AIRY, September, 1860. MR. EDITOR :- It seems somewhat singular to me, that amid all the turmoil, to do, and excitement of the present time, it has never been pointedly brought home to the Breckinridge wing of the Democratic forces, that one of two positions they are compelled to assume. Either they concur with the projectors and leaders of the Richmond movement, which gave their organization birth, and look forward, not unexpectantly, to a dissolution of the Union; or else returning, like dogs to their vomit again, or hogs to their wallowing in the mire," fall back upon the blasted. and repudiated policy of Buchananism of which Mr. Breckinridge is now the sole representative before the Conntry. Yes! they are either Yancey men or Buchanan men, for however strongly Mr. Breckinridge may assert his devotion to the Union, which I for one am willing to believe, (since I do not hold that there is the slightest community of feeling between the Fancevites. and Mr. B., only in so far, that they want a tool and he is willing to be made use of,) he cannot get round the fact, that he was the ardent and devoted supporter of Mr. Buchanan's policy and acts, even to the forgetting of the dignity of his official position, and taking the stump in his behalf ; and that moreover, in furtherance of the fact of their perfect unanimity and agreement, that Mr. Buchanan has done the like kindness by him, virtually nominating him his successor. Time past has very effectually shown that Platforms are one thing, and men are another; and no matter what form of words may be temporarily inscribed upon their escutchen, experience leaves but one of two things to anticipate in case of his election. Either Mr. B. will yield himself to the control of his bottle holders, or else the Buchanan policy will continue, under the auspices of a younger man. Now, sir, I hold that these are the two only positive prospects which the partizans of Breckinridge can present to the Country. We know what Yancey and Rhett, would do if they could, and we know what Mr. Breckinridge has done; and what he or they, or any body else may say, just at this time, isn't worth a pinch of snuff.

Yours, Respectfully, &c.

P. S. Mr. Breckinridge's speech says that he a no Disunionist in sentiment. Mr. Breckinridge's acts have declared him a Buchananite in policy. Those who vote for him, then, are support-ing Old Buch's heir apparent.
