A WAR OF MIRACLES.

The war now raging between the South and the North has up to the present period been miraculously in favor of the section which is fighting for its hearthstones and its liberties. Let us go back to the beginning of this confliet, and trace it to the last accounts from the scene of action. The immense fleet sent to relieve Fort Sunter was at the most critical moment blown off the coast by a gale of wind, and before they could return, and make an effort to relieve the belenguered fortress, the batteries of the Confederate State forces had compelled its surrender, and that too without the loss of a single man, or even a single wound received, on the part of the besiegers. But for this gale of wind a bloody battle would have been fought in Charleston harbor. When the captured troops of the Federal Government were permitted to salute the old National flag, the bursting of a gun killed five of the troops engaged in firing the salute.

Not long after the above mentioned transactions, the Federal troops stationed at the Gosport Navy Yard, having the two towns of Norfolk and Portsmouth perfectly at their mercy, in a moment of most unaccountable panie, having mide an ineffectual attempt to destroy the property, the preservation of which they were charged with, ingloriously fled as fast as steam and wind could carry of bureaus are supplied with ad interim apthem from the post at which they had been stationed, leaving an immense quantity of stores and munitions of war to fall into the life, a power of attorney transfers and conhands of the South. There's no telling the value to the South of the acquisition of the Gosport Navy Yard. Had the vandals, iastead of running away from it like a pack of cowardly curs, continued to hold it, there is no calculating the trouble which such a possession on their part would have given to the South. With Fortress Monroe and the Navy Yard in their hands they would have had key to the very heart of the South. Instead of that, however, the South has been supplied with abundant implements and munitions of war, taken from the Navy Yard, and is now engaged in raising from the bottom of the Elizabeth River ships which will form the nucleus of a Southern Navy Coming on down and passing over mino events for the present, we point to the battle at Great Bethel, at which 1200 Sou hern troops, not more than 300 of whom were ever in setion at any one time during the engagement, repulsed with great slaughter a body of more than 5,300 Yankee troops, with the loss on the part of the South of but one man. Never was there such a result since the invention of gunpowder. When we reflect upon the number cogaged on both sides, and that the action lasted upwards of four hours, we canpot help regarding the result as most mirhoulous. In addition to the above there have been divers other instances in which the South have come off best against great odds. As witness the frequent pepperings and repulses which the Pawnee, Harriet Lane and Monticello have received at different poin's, and the skirmishes at Vienna, Phillippi, and Fairfax Court House. Up to the present time the South has not sustained a single reverse, for even at Phillippi, although the Southern troops retreated, in the face of overwhelming odds against them, and after killing several of the enemy, and losing but one or two on our side. Almost every mail brings in tidings of a Southern success. In our last paper we published an account of the most gallant exploit of Col. Ashby, wherein nineteen men (other accounts say seventeen) on our side met and thrashed sixty or seventy of the enemy, killing twenty of them, five of whom fell by the hands of the gallant Ashby, and and in that case it devolved upon him to take wounding and dispersing the rest. Our loss charge of them. Col. Martin, Speaker of was only two killed and one severely wound- Senate, laid the letter before the Senate, ed. In the same paper we published an ac who acquiesced in the propriety of it, and electcount of the action at Mathins' Point, in ed a temporary Speaker (Jo. Reddick) to which Captain Ward of the Yankee steamer preside over the Senate during the tempora- of Arts upon Major Jas. H. Lane, of the 1st Reg-Freeborn, and a number of his men were ry absence of the Speaker. Col. Martin killed, and the Federal troops effectually acted as Governor, signed and issued comprevented from executing their purpose of missions, and afterwards resumed the chair creeting batteries on shore.

The Constitution of North Carolina, section 19, after prescribing the duties and powers of the Governor, says, "on his death, inability or absence from the State, the Speaker of the Senate shall exercise the powers of the absence or inability." very concisely and very plainly, and yet duties or the obaracter as representative of to the extent of its meaning, or the particular Senate, and that the Governor, on his recovmode of energibg i out.

The inability or absence must be well established, and where it does not come under the immediate view of the successor, he should be notified. It is sometimes asked and claimed that the vacancy under any of the above contingencies being once filled, becomes permanent in the Speaker, and not to be again resumed by the Governor when the disability or disqualification is removed.

The words of the Constitution above quoted have in view both a permanent and temporary vacancy, and the mode of supplying both the same; for instance, death, resignation, permanent removal, or acceptance of some disgalifying office, would render the vacancy permanent. While a temporary absence or prostration from disease, would only suspend the office during the disability. In either event the vacancy is supplied in the same way. In the latter case, the Constitution using the words "during such inability or absence," indicates, as plain as words can express it, the vacancy is temporary, and the office is to be resumed again on the removal of the disability. Nothing is more common than the delegation of the dufies of an offic, without the office itself. The pro tem. appointment of a presiding officer belongs to all deliberative bodies. The command of a brigade, regiment or company often devolves on an inferior officer. The good people of this portion of the veraqueous orb were surprised on Monday night at the sight of a brilliant comet with a tail very much longer than that of "our puss." This comet is moving towards the Northwest at the rate of about a million of miles a minute, and we devoutly hope that it will give Lincoln and his hordes a tip-top scare. The approach of this comet was, as far as we know, unheralded. It can be seen in the North Northwestern portion of the firmament, from about dusk until about 11 o'clock. IF The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad was held at the Court House in this city, on Thursday last. We learn that all the old Directors were re-elected - with the single exception of C. L. Hinton who declined. J. B. Batchelor, Esq., of Warren was elected to fill the vacancy.

law establishing such office. And, in private veys the rights and powers of one person to be held temporarily and exercised by another. So our Constitution says the powers of the Governor shall be held and exercised by the Speaker "after the death" or "during the absence" of the Governor. The Speaker does not become the Governor. He still holds his original office, which enables him to exercise the duties of the o her.

This view is confirmed by the fact, that Constitution on the same page which confers the duties of Governor on the Speaker, requires certain qualifications for a Governor which are not necessary for a Speaker. It says no one shall be Governor who is under thirty years of age, and been five years a resident, and held four thousand dollars' worth of real estate, elected by the people at a regular election for two years-disqualified after four years-taken the oath of office before the Supreme Court and Legislature. None of these qualifications are required of the Speaker, and consequently he does not become the Governor, but only exercises the duties thereof, during a disability, or for an unexpired term, and is eligible to be Governor for the next two full constitutional terms, (not counting his temporary Governorship.)

This evident construction of the Constitution has been adopted ever since the formation of the Government. Every precedent furnishes the same confirmation. During the Revolutionary War and immediately after the Constitution was made and adopted, and while every department of the Government was in the hands of the very persons who made the Constitution, Gov. Burke was taken prisoner and carried to Charleston. Col. Martin, then speaker of the Senate, exercised the duties of the Governor for some mon hs, till the return of Gov. Barke, who, on his return, resumed them.
