

VOL. I. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19, 1884. NO. 4.

THE TWO LIGHTS. [Blackwood's Magazine.]

"When I'm a man" is the poetry of youth. "When I was young" is the poetry of old age. "When I'm a man" is the poetry of old age. "When I was young" is the poetry of old age.

COKE. LEADER IN TWO HARD-FOUGHT CAMPAIGNS.

Eloquent Orator—Practical Business Man—Active, Sensible, Well-Informed Democrat. The leader of the Democracy of North Carolina in two hard fought campaigns...

Captain Coke was born on October 4, 1840. Mr. Coke was a distinguished gallantry in the Army of Northern Virginia...

In some respects the work of the General Assembly at its session of 1876 was more important than that of any other that ever met in North Carolina...

Captain Coke also distinguished himself in the Senate, and gave evidence of his great foresight which so eminently distinguishes him...

Things are forgotten with vast rapidity in these days, and a night picture of what responsibility and labor was entailed by this position may be lost of place.

In 1876 Vance had made his triumphant progress through the State, and had been swept into the Governor's chair on a tidal wave of popular enthusiasm.

WHICH THE STATE WAS THEN ENTITLED. In a word, the Democracy had won everything that could be won.

This was a somewhat glorious result, but it does not become marvelous until the whole circumstances are considered. In the campaign of which we are speaking...

As far the history of Captain COKE as a campaign leader had been that of a man of large industry, who had lavishly given labor, time and money to the party...

The crisis was not to be trifled with. His effect as an orator was seen by the way he had been at work, and in the very flood-tide of the occasion...

When we go back to the campaign of 1876, we find it was a battle between two very different classes of men. It was a battle between two very different classes of men.

It is in the campaign of 1876, in the eyes of the people, that the large measure by which the Democracy were defeated...

It is in the campaign of 1876, in the eyes of the people, that the large measure by which the Democracy were defeated...

The Good Old Doctor. (Correspondence of the Raleigh Register.)

Dr. J. M. Worth, State Treasurer, for the handsome contribution to the relief fund received to-day by the good old doctor.

THE UNIVERSITY. ONCE MORE THE PRIDE OF THE STATE.

How it Educates—Whom it Educates—And What its Children are Doing for Us. The University of North Carolina is one of the few institutions of the State...

It is true we do not find in its classrooms students from the banks of the Savannah, the Tombigbee, the Mississippi, the Tennessee, the Brazos, as were found...

Some of the Scotch Crofters who have been located near here do not seem to think that the part of the moral victory exactly like a paradise, while others appear to be very well pleased.

What is Wanted of Wilmington. (Wilmington Star, after Col. Pardee.)

Col. Pardee had been in Onslow county. He had visited Catharine Lake and the remarkable springs near there.

A BULL RUN INCIDENT. General Tyler the Teller of it. [New York Post.]

A singular occurrence happened at that battle that has never passed into history.

Generous, Benevolent, Busy. [Wilson Advance.]

Generous, Benevolent, Busy. In conversation with the late Mr. J. M. Carr on the train Monday night, we said to him:

THE RAILWAY SYSTEM. IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS.

The railway system, in the development of the agricultural interests, in the gallant but futile struggle of the great civil war...

LAURINBURG. The Good that is in Fire. (Correspondence of the Raleigh Register.)

LAURINBURG, N. C., March 10, 1884. LAURINBURG seems to be unfortunate in the way of fires, but every time a lot of old frame buildings gets burned down...

But the fire of 1881 involved all in one common calamity, and the necessity for the effort to retrieve their fortunes...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

FAYETTEVILLE. ITS OLD-TIME PIONEER RAILROAD.

One of "The Dispensed Abroad," who has returned to the old Town Well, Tells the Tale. (Correspondence of the Raleigh Register.)

ASHVILLE, March 12, 1884. A few days since a paragraph in a Fayetteville paper met my eye which carried me a long way back into the past...

THOMASVILLE. Some time this month G. A. Thompson will put up a steam saw mill and sawing mill on the banks of the Yamacraw river...

HICKORY. For the past six or eight years Hickory has been noted for her thrift and enterprise...

REYNOLDS. Everything seemed to be lively and brisk, and we think Henderson one of the fastest growing and best business places in North Carolina...

NOT LOST. But Gone Before. [Western Paper.]

FOUND AT LAST! A Good Word For Mother-in-Law. [New York Sun.]

A half-elderly married couple were looking through a "house for sale" up town. The good lady would not believe that the doors were solid black walnut...

A VERY SMALL PARAGRAPH. But a Big Lump of Sense. [Newspaper Waiver.]

PROSPEROUS TOWNS. WILMINGTON. SOMETHING IN STORE FOR THE RADICALS.

NEWTON. Newton, which now has a population of about twelve hundred, is situated on the Western North Carolina Railroad...

WILMINGTON. SOMETHING IN STORE FOR THE RADICALS. I know you will pitch into the Radicals in old-fashioned style...

Excitements? Yes, we have one now and then. The latest is a circus on the streets in the shape of a gorgeous advertisement for a new line of niggers...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

ADVERTISEMENTS. STATEVILLE FEMALE COLLEGE.

(Correspondence of the Raleigh Register.) STATEVILLE, N. C., March 8, 1884.—I do not know how it was possible for me...

LENOIR'S EXPOSITION PLANS. [Kinross Free Press.]

The citizens of Lenoir have resolved to make their exhibit with individual subscriptions. The Association has resolved...

PEE DEE IMMIGRATION. [Wilmington Star.]

Mr. J. L. Cooley has just received the appointment of Immigration Agent of the Seaboard Air-Line, embracing the Carolina Central, the Raleigh and Augusta Air-Line, the Raleigh and Gaston, and the Chesapeake and Potomac Rivers Railroad...

STATEVILLE FEMALE COLLEGE. (Continued from page 1.) STATEVILLE, N. C., March 8, 1884.—I do not know how it was possible for me...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...

LAURINBURG. (Continued from page 1.) The good that is in fire, and the good that is in fire...