"FINAL DECISION."

How insolent have the People of this country been to pronounce upon the villainy of Ninian Edwards, without waiting for the "final decision" of the House of Representatives! What madness has seized upon the people, thus to think for themselves? The public opinion has been unalterably made up and pronounced against N. Edwards. You hear him denounced in every honorable company. See with what withering contempt and indignation he was toasted and gibbeted on the Anniversary of our Independence!

But how dare the people to think for themselves! How dare they forestall the "final decision" of their "public servants"? What audacity in the people, thus to decide upon the evidence; to decide, without the assistance of the House of Representatives; and to decide, too, in opposition to the dictatorial admonitions of Messrs. Adams, Calhoun & Co.

But seriously speaking, how can these Secretaries expect to arrest the torrent of public opinion? To make use of the words of an intelligent correspondent, "do these Honorable gentlemen think the people cannot come to a just conclusion when all the facts of a case are placed before them? Do they wish the people to remain passive spectators for six or eight months, and then to adopt the report of Congress, when in the mean time they are called upon to exercise the elective franchise in one of the most important cases which can come before them, and which they cannot do understandingly without first acquitting or condemning Mr. Crawford? Do they wish Mr. Crawford's character to labor under the imputations cast upon him by Mr. Edwards, until the Presidential election is over, when the intelligent committee too to whom the subject was referred, have declared the charges to be groundless? No, sirs, that will not do—the people will think and act for themselves; they require not the dictation of these Secretaries, to do what is right. The master spirits begin to shew themselves; and ere long this poor Ninny will be found to be nothing more than the "cat's paw in the hands of the monkey."

Even if the extraordinary letter of these three Honorable gentlemen had been spread before the people, in season to affect the last glorious Anniversary, it would scarcely have arrested the generous flow of public sentiment against the conduct of N. Edwards. On their own account, these gentlemen have reason to rejoice at the delay in the circulation of their letter. Had it gone out among the people, these gentlemen might have come in for their share of the public indignation. They might have been toasted themselves—and they might have felt how very impotent even the "public servants" may be to arrest the independent opinion of an independent people. The nation's up—and it will not be in the power of any man or set of men to screen N. Edwards from their just indignation.
Richmond Enquirer.

Great Acting.—The celebrated actor Ninian Edwards, having been engaged for the Season, is performing on the Washington Boards in good style. His powers are various, and good judges are greatly puzzled to determine in what line he most excels. Some think him capital in Col. Stephenson, whilst others deem him better in the part of Mrs. Lucy Stephenson, the Colonel's wife. The passage is very touching where he speaks of his husband's having gone to Kentucky for their daughter. There are those who prefer him in the part of the Director of the Edwardsville Bank, who was still a director at Washington, notwithstanding he had resigned at home. Some again consider him very tender, in an interview between the Mexican Ambassador in expectancy and Gen. Noble, when he says "Noble, I shall not forget you." And then, extending his hand, adds, "I pledge you my honor I am not the author of A. B." Some, passing by all these personations, think his best piece of acting was with Mr. Wharton, which was a specimen of the terribly impressive. "He would be dead if he knew any thing about that dead A. B. plot." Such are the astonishing powers of Mr. Ninian Edwards, who, for a few days past, has been playing the ventriloquist, by so casting his voice as to make it appear as if it came from Mr. Agg. This greatly exceeds the performances of the celebrated Mr. Rannie, who could never get beyond the making of a dead pigsqueak. Matthews, it is reported, has been engaged to return to the United States; but it will, from appearances, be a bad job for him, as Mr. Edwards, it is said, can assume more shapes and tones than Matthews can, and therefore must eclipse him.—WASH. C. GAZ.

FROM THE NATIONAL ADVOCATE.

Two dollars.—Those who wish to enjoy a cool half an hour, are recommended to pay a visit to the foot of Courtlandt-street precisely at the moment when the rival steam boats are about starting for Albany.—The Olive Branch taking Jersey city in the way, to avoid running down the Court of Chancery. The fare is reduced to two dollars, a price so moderate as to come within the means of every industrious person; and even our daily laborers make up Sunday parties with their families. "Vell my ducky, ve vill go to Pekeepsy to-morrow; only a dollar—by the living jingo how cheap; lets take the biled beef and cowcubmers and little Dick, so ve vill, and be down on Monday morning bright and early."

Each boat has runners or suitors, who pay suit to the numerous passengers passing down Courtlandt-Street. "This way, Sir; this way to the Olive Branch, Sir; no monopoly, free trade and sailor's rights; low pressure; sails like the wind."

"For Albany, Sir; this way to the Chancellor—old Fulton Company, Sir; finest boats in the world; spacious and airy; no bursting of boilers; no running races. all safe and smooth; this way, Sir." Ding dong goes the bell of the Chancellor; too-too-too, goes the bugle of the Olive Branch at the same time. Carriages rattle down the wharf and are actually jammed in between carts and wheelbarrows; the passengers heated, hurried, and hungry, press for each boat; whizz goes the safety valve, "waiter where's my trunk?—stop for my wife, Sir—can't, Sir—commadore, what number is my birth? births all taken, so are the settees—O, dear—O, la—how hot it is—help me on board—buy oranges, sir?—here Mr., you forgot to pay the coach—a dollar, Sir—don't forget the boat black, Sir—where's my law books? Vaitair, diable mem porte, you ave lost my portmantel—I shall go to de Spring—last veek visant my chemise—oh, ventre bleu—stop de boat—go to the Washington Hall for my petit objects—O, dem—The decks are crowded, and the round top as thick as bees—only two dollars—and in this confused and unpleasant state both boats push off, leaving a crowd of breathless passengers on the wharf, having arrived a moment too late. Such are the pleasures and economy of opposition.

TAKEN UP,

AND committed to the Jail of Stokes County on the 10th ult a Mulatto man; who sometimes says his name is Daniel and belongs to John Billips in Lauenburg, Virginia; and at other times, he says his name is Daniel Stion, and is a free man. But on his examination before the Justice of the Peace who committed him, he said he was a slave, and belonged to John Smith of New York. It appears to be impossible to make him tell the truth as he tells different tales every time he is examined. He says it has been five years since he ran away. He is about 27 years of age, 6 feet 1 inch high, his ears are cut off close to his head, which he says was done by a Sheriff in Missouri, but will not tell particularly for what offence. He can write a tolerably good hand, and has a vlad down look.

The owner is requested to come forward, prove property, pay charges and take him away; otherwise he will be dealt with according to law.
