

COMMUNICATION.

FOR THE BALLOT REGISTER.

From all the information to be collected, neither of the candidates for the Presidency can get 131 votes in the electoral colleges...

New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-Jersey, Maryland, Illinois and Ohio, will vote for Adams.

After a few ballots, it will be seen that Jackson can get but six states, and the states of Pennsylvania, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana will vote for a Jeffersonian Republican rather than a turncoat Federalist...

Mr. Clay will be in Congress, and his influence will be given to Crawford. Jackson's report of the retreat of the Kentucky militia at Orleans, wounded the people of that state to the quick.

I am asked, if a state votes for one of the candidates in her electoral college, will the Representatives of that state, although their judgments and opinions are different, vote according to their opinions or the opinions of a majority of the people of their state?

He arrived at New-Haven on Saturday morning about the hour of 10. He was escorted into the city by the horse guards and mounted volunteers; he was received by the Mayor and corporation on his arrival: Gov. Wolcott addressed the General in a short but expressive speech...

ral college is not a rule for the representatives, unless it coincides with their judgments. A fair interpretation of the constitution will show, that such a thought never entered into the heads of the makers of it.

VISIT OF LAFAYETTE.

Throughout our country, the arrival of Gen. LAFAYETTE has diffused a general joy. It has been announced by Salutes, in almost all our towns and villages, and welcomed in so many different ways, that it would be in vain to particularise them.

The National Advocate furnishes a particular account of the General's journey and reception, through Connecticut, of the nature and general effect of which, the following brief extract gives us a lively picture:

"Every cottage and farm-house near enough to the road for its inhabitants to be apprized of his near approach, was emptied of its inmates, who lined the way-side, their countenances gleaming with the most animated curiosity, while they bowed with respect and gratitude. The hardy sons of toil 'leaving their ploughs in the half-furrowed fields, and casting aside their implements of husbandry,' at the sound of 'the General is coming,' were seen rushing to the road side waving their hats with enthusiasm, and giving vent to their feelings, in shouts and buzzes.

The following extract from a letter also furnishes, by a single example, an illustration of the scenes which presented themselves along the whole of his route:

"At the house of the Hon. John Davenport of Stamford, the General remained half an hour, and received the visits of many hundreds of persons of both sexes. A salute was fired, the bells rung, and this beautiful town with its ray inhabitants, particularly distinguished for many handsome women, exhibited all the life and gaiety of a city. Hundreds of ladies and gentlemen for ten miles round visited this town to see and pay their respects to Lafayette etc.

"The Connecticut troop which met the General at the line, accompanied him thro' Stamford, and would proceed until they met the escort provided further East; and many citizens of Stamford set out on horseback to attend him to the next town.

"On the whole route the bridges and gates were free to all passengers.

"I heard of no accidents on the road except one: a gentleman had his leg broken at Haerlem.

"The General travelled so fast, that many persons could not get a sight of him in their own town; but many of them, on learning that he was to stop at the next, set off in haste to overtake him; and, in some instances, where they missed him in the next town, still pressed forward on foot. I saw a great number of lads, many without hats or shoes, who had walked and run for eight miles to see him."

The General arrived at New London about 11 o'clock on Sunday morning, where he attended divine service at the Presbyterian church in the forenoon, and the Episcopal church in the afternoon. He dined with Judge Perkins, and proceeded on his journey towards night with the expectation of reaching Plainfield, (about 23 miles this side of Providence,) the same evening to lodge.

The citizens of Hartford were greatly disappointed when they learned that LA FAYETTE would not take that place on his way to Boston. The Mirror gives the following as an instance of the anxiety to see the General:—"A gentleman who lives about forty miles from this, writes to his friend here to let him know when the General is expected, and if, necessary to send an express at any expense whatever. Such we believe, is the general feeling of the people of Connecticut."

The following, from the Boston Evening Gazette of Saturday last, is the prelude to the account, which we shall have, in a day or two, of the splendid and at the same time heartfelt reception which the General is to receive at Boston:

"The Governor's Aids (Cols. HARRIS and EVERETT) left town this morning, with a letter of invitation from His Excellency, in a coach and four, and barouche with four beautiful white horses, together with out-riders and a baggage wagon, for Rhode Island, where they will receive the Marquis LAFAYETTE, and conduct him to the seat of Governor EUSTIS in Roxbury, on Monday afternoon. On Tuesday, he will be escorted to this city, and after being received by the Executive, in the Council Chamber of this commonwealth, he will probably go to the spacious and elegant apartments prepared for his reception in that delightful residence at the corner of Park and Beacon streets, known by the name of the 'Subscription House.'"

It appears from the following correspondence, that he has determined to be present at York Town, on the 19th October, to celebrate the Anniversary of the Capture of the British Army.

RICHMOND, (Va.) 10th Aug. 1824.

Gen. Lafayette: SIR—I have the honor to enclose to you certain resolutions entered into by the Volunteer Companies of the borough of Norfolk and city of Richmond, requesting the favor of your company at the town of York, in this State, on the 19th day of October next, to attend the celebration of the Anniversary of the surrender at that place of the British army to the combined armies of America and France.

With sentiments of most profound esteem and affectionate regard, I am, sir, your obdt. servant, JAMES PLEASANTS, Jr. Governor of Virginia.

New-York, August 13, 1824.

SIR—I have been honored, on my arrival, with your kind letter, August 10th, inclosing those flattering Resolutions of the Volunteer Companies of Richmond and Norfolk. The pleasure and gratitude they could not fail to excite, is still enhanced by the sense of my obligation to the citizens of Virginia during an arduous campaign. Happy I will be to have the inexpressible gratification to meet them at the place and on the anniversary of the day which closed our labors.

Your Excellency's obdt. servt. LAFAYETTE.

Among the omens auspicious of the arrival of the revered LAFAYETTE, says the New-York Gazette, was that of a rainbow, formed subsequent to the shower of Sunday, the base of which rested on Fort La Fayette, and completely enveloped it in a most brilliant effulgence. The General was at that moment on the piazzas of the Vice President's house, and this singular coincidence being remarked to him, he observed, "this day has been full of happy omens to me in arriving among those who have treated me with so much unmerited kindness."

In the New-York Statesman, we find the following anecdote which certainly deserves to be repeated and remembered. Mr. Hurley, a hatter, having presented to Gen. La Fayette a handsome cocked hat, Mr. George Washington La Fayette sent to Mr. H.'s shop to procure a hat for himself. This was immediately furnished—but when payment was offered, Mr. Hurley declined, saying that all the hats he could supply the La Fayettees with, were paid for forty years ago! As neat and well-timed a compliment as could be paid.

Mr. Crawford & Mr. Gallatin.

THOSE friendly to the Election of Mr. Crawford & Mr. Gallatin for President and Vice President of the United States, as recommended by the late Congressional Caucus, are requested to meet at Mason Hall in Orange County on Saturday the 18th day of September next, to express their approbation of the National Nomination, and to use all honorable means to promote the interest of

A FRIEND TO REFORM. August 14, 1824. 30-31.

State of North-Carolina.

THE Public Treasurer, in conformity to the custom, and as a mere matter of course, rather than from a belief there is any the least necessity for such measure, would hereby respectfully remind the Sheriffs and other Revenue Officers of the State aforesaid, that the Time is fast approaching, and indeed is now at hand, (say the 1st of October next) when the Laws require that their public accounts shall be balanced and closed for the present year.

Treasury Office, Sept. 1, 1824.

The attention of the Sheriffs and of the late and present Clerks of the several Courts of Record in this State is hereby and particularly invited to the Act of the last Assembly for the promotion of Agriculture, &c.—Chap. 8.

For Sale.

IN the Village of Chapel Hill, in which the University of the State of North-Carolina is located, Four Acres of fertile ground with the following Improvements thereon, viz. a Dwelling House containing six rooms, with a fire place to each, besides a large dining room in the Cellar, having also a fire-place, and Pantry. The Cellar room calculated to dine thirty-five persons—together with all the necessary Improvements, a Kitchen, Smoke-House, Stables, &c. and likewise a Well in the yard, affording the best water in the place.

As the Subscriber is determined to leave this place shortly, she will sell the aforesaid premises on the most accommodating terms. Any person or persons disposed to purchase would do well to call and view the premises immediately, as delay may lose a good bargain, and at the same time as to further particulars, any information wanted can be had.

From this situation being on the best market street, and from the construction of the buildings, the convenient location thereof to college, and the eligible site, this property has a decided advantage over any other in the place.

A Teacher Wanted

In Farmwell Grove Academy, Halifax County. AS this situation, after the present year will be vacant, in consequence of the removal to the west, of Mr. McLean, the present Teacher, the trustees are anxious to employ a suitable person to take charge of the Institution. Satisfactory testimonials of character and capacity will be required. The tuition arising from this school, has exceeded six hundred dollars, and I believe, except for a part of the first year, has never fallen under five hundred dollars per annum. Persons who may be desirous to contract for a situation of this kind, will direct their communications to Col. H. G. Burton, Halifax. This Academy is situated in a healthy part of the county, has good spring water and excellent society.

Halifax, July 24, 1824. J. GRANT. 74-75.

TAKEN UP,

AND committed to the Jail of Stokes County on the 10th ult. a Mulatto man; who sometimes says his name is Daniel and belongs to John Billips in Lunenburg, Virginia; and at other times, he says his name is Daniel Ston, and is a free man. But on his examination before the Justice of the Peace who committed him, he said he was a slave, and belonged to John Smith of New York. It appears to be impossible to make him tell the truth as he tells different tales every time he is examined. He says it has been five years since he ran away. He is about 27 years of age, 6 feet 1 inch high, his ears are cut off close to his head, which he says was done by a Sheriff in Missouri, but will not tell particularly for what offence. He would write a tolerably good hand, and has a vlad down look.

The owner is requested to come forward, prove property, pay charges and take him away; otherwise he will be dealt with according to law. JESSE BANNER, Jailor. Germantown, July 7th, 1824. 71-6m.
