ADDRESSES TO LA FAYETTE AT WASHINGTON.

By the Mayor of Washington :

General: In beholding you again in our country, after a lapse of forty years, and in the Capitol of our nation, on the vestibule of this magnificent temple, dedicated to its liberty, and at the door of that tent which, for eight years, formed the principal habitation of the achiever of our freedom, that tent in which you have so often partaken of his cares, and participated in his councils, the citizens of Washington feel emotions beyond the power of utterance.

The gratitude and admiration which have been exhibited by our countrymen, since your arrival in the land which your exertions contributed to render free, are evidences of the estimation in which we hold him who bravely and generously aided in the attainment of the blessings we now enjoy. But the admiration and gratitude already displayed, cannot exceed what we feel on this occasion, nor what the whole American nation must feel in beholding the associate of their Washington, and the brave defender of their country. The splendid and disinterested actions of your youth have been deeply interwoven with the memory of the old, and transmitted to the young of the present day. Actuated by the principles of our glorious Revolution, and animated by the example of its illustrious Chief, we have rejoiced to behold you, in every condition in which destiny has placed you, the same undeviating and unchangeable friend of liberty and of man.

We will refrain from enumerating all the disinterested and splendid services you have rendered to our country; but permit us particularly to refer to that awful period, when, commanding in chief in the commonwealth of Virginia, you foiled the most renowned Captain of our enemy, confining him to the narrow precincts of Yorktown, where he was soon compelled to surrender to the combined arms under Washington of the U. States, and of our good friend and potent and magnanimous ally, Louis the Sixteenth, King of France; in which memorable siege you acted a leading and distinguished part.

With these recollections, we welcome you, with our whole hearts, to the metropolis of our Nation, created since you left us, out of a wilderness—a city especially founded by our people as the permanent memorial of their liberty. To render it at the same time, the perpetual monument of their grateful veneration for the pure, wise, brave and consummate leader of our armies, and founder of our Republic, they bestowed on it the immortal name of Washington; under whom you learned the art of war; under whom you became a great and mighty prop to our cause, always commanding the confidence of your chief in the hours of gloom and peril; and after our country's freedom and safety had crowned your united efforts with imperishable glory, enjoying his steady, sincere and unvarying friendship to the latest moment of his life.

To which the General replied in the following affectionate and impressive terms:

The kind and flattering reception with which I am honored by the citizens of Washington, excites the most lively feelings of gratitude: Those grateful feelings, sir, at every step of my happy visit to the U. States could not but enhance the inexpressible delight I have enjoyed at the sight of the immense wonderful improvements, so far beyond even the fondest anticipations of a warm American heart, and which, in the space of 40 years, have so gloriously evinced the superiority of popular institutions and self government over the too imperfect state of political civilization found in every part of the other hemisphere. In this august place, which bears the most venerated of all ancient and modern names, I have, sir, the pleasure to contemplate, not only a centre of that constitutional union, so necessary to these states, so important to the interest of mankind, but also a great political school, where attentive observers from other parts of the world may be taught the practical science of true social order. Among the circumstances of my life, to which you have been pleased to allude, none can afford me such dear recollections as my having been early adopted as an American soldier; so there is not a circumstance of my reception in which I take so much pride, as my sharing those honors with my beloved companions in arms: Happy am I to feel that the marks of affection and esteem bestowed on me, bear testimony to my perseverance in the American principles I received under the Tent of Washington, and of which I shall to my last breath, prove myself a devoted disciple. I beg you, Mr. Mayor, and the gentlemen of the Corporation, to accept my respectful acknowledgments to you and to the citizens of Washington.

The General was then invited by the Mayor of Georgetown to visit that town.

To which the General replied in a few words, that Georgetown was an old acquaintance of his, where he had found many valuable and esteemed friends, and he would visit it with the greatest delight, and thank its citizens for their kind regards.

After this, John Brown Cutting, Esq. delivered a short Address and Complimentary Poem, in a handsome and appropriate manner: To which the General replied as follows:

While I embrace you, Sir, and make my acknowledgments to those of our Revolutionary comrades, in whose name you welcome me to this Metropolis, be assured that I reciprocate those kind expressions of attachment, which from them are peculiarly gratifying. And although, in doing this, it cannot be expected that I should command such beautiful language as you employ, yet I speak from the bottom of my heart, when I assure you that the associations of time and place, to which you allude, exalt the interest which I shall ever feel in your prosperity, and that of every meritorious individual who belonged to the Revolutionary Army of the United States.

A Runaway Taken.

WAS apprehended by Robert Gordon and committed to the Jail of Greenville County this day, a black negro man about five feet 3 or 4 inches high, about 30 or 35 years old, well set, of an open countenance, has the scar of a swell or cut a little above the left instep and says his name is Edinborough and is called Ned, that he belongs to Sandy Merton Hassell, whom he left the night after he passed Hillsborough, on his way to Alabama, in company with his uncle Benjamin Hassell. ### Notice.

THE subscribers, by virtue of the last Will and Testament of their father, Stephen Sneed, senr. dec'd, offer for sale the "Grove Tavern, in Williamsborough." It consists of a long range of two story Buildings, containing an elegant Ball-room, a very good Cellar, and thirteen other apartments, most of them with fire places a back House, containing a good Dining-room, Lodging-room and Kitchen; a Smoke-house, Corn-house and an excellent Stable. The Garden is in good order, and the whole establishment is very convenient to one of the best Springs known in the country.

Also, a Lot immediately opposite to the Tavern, containing an excellent Store-house at the corner, with a Counting-room and Cellar, and a Piazza on the two fronts of the house. On the same lot is a Coach-maker's shop, a Carriage house and spacious Cellar.

Also, three Lots under one fence and well set in red clover, very convenient to the Tavern lot.

This establishment has been long an approved house of entertainment, and is situated on the main post and travelling rout from the west to Petersburg and Richmond, and from the north and east to the western & southern countries. It is now, and has been for some time, the only house of entertainment kept up in the town. The great advantages of pure air and water, the wealth, gentility and sociability of the town and neighborhood, added to the certain prospect of gain which this stand affords, render it a very desirable situation.

We are desirous to sell, and will give a good bargain and liberal credit.

$100 REWARD.

RUN AWAY, or was stolen from the subscriber on the night of the eighth instant, a bright mulatto woman (slave) and her child, a girl of about four years old. This woman ran away from the subscriber, executor of John Hunt, dec'd, in the summer of 1823, and passed as a free woman by the name of Patsy Young, until about the first of June last, when she was apprehended as a runaway. On the 6th of the same month I obtained possession of her in the town of Halifax; since which time, by an order of Franklin county court, she and her child Eliza have been sold, when the subscriber became the purchaser. She spent the greater part of the time she was run away, (say about sixteen years,) in the neighborhood of and in the town of Halifax; one or two summers at Rock-Landing, where I am informed she cooked for the hands employed on the Canal. She has also spent some of her time in Plymouth, her occupation while there not known. At the above places she has many acquaintances. She is a tall spare woman, thin face and lips, long sharp nose, and fore-teeth somewhat decayed. She is an excellent seamstress, can make ladies and gentlemen's dresses, is a good cook and weaver, and I am informed is a good cake-baker and beer-brewer, &c. by which occupations she principally gained her living. Some time during last summer she married a free man of colour named Achrael Johnson, who had been living in and about Plymouth, and followed boating on the Roanoke. Since his marriage, he leased a farm of Mr. James Cotton of Scotland-Neck, Halifax county, where he was living together with this woman, at the time she was taken up as a runaway slave in June last. I have but little doubt, that Johnson has contrived to seduce or steal her and child out of my possession, and will attempt to get them out of the State and pass as free persons. Should this be the case, I will give sixty-five dollars for his detection and conviction before the proper tribunal, in any part of this State. I will give for the apprehension of the woman and child, on their delivery to me, or so secured in jail or otherwise that I get them, thirty-five dollars; or, I will give twenty-five dollars for the woman alone, and ten dollars for the child alone. The proper name of the woman is PIETTY, but she will no doubt change it as she did before.

I forwarn all owners of boats, captains and owners of vessels, from taking on board their vessels, or carrying away this woman and her child Eliza, under the penalty of the law.

RUNAWAY from the subscriber on the night of the 20th instant, a yellow Man by the name of SAM, (sometimes calls himself Sam Freeman, at others Sam Craven.) He is 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, 24 years of age, bushy hair, his fore-teeth decayed, is sensible and quick spoken, can read and write, and is a Carpenter and Painter by trade, and is also a pretty good Barber. He carried with him a blue homespun suit, also a blue broadcloth coat, a buff colored and a brown pair of pantaloons. I have no doubt he has a free pass, and is aiming to get to some free State. He some years ago ran away, and was apprehended and lodged in Harrisburg Jail, in Rockingham county, Virginia. I will give Fifty Dollars for his apprehension if taken out of the State, or Twenty-five Dollars within the State.

FIVE THOUSAND RECEIPTS
IN ALL THE
USEFUL AND DOMESTIC ARTS
Constituting a complete and universal
PRACTICAL LIBRARY,
And Operative Cyclopaedia.
By COLLETT MACNEZIE.
AS the object of all study, and the end of all wisdom, is practical utility, so a collection of the most approved Receipts, in all the branches of domestic and social life, may be considered as a volume containing nearly the whole of the wisdom of man, worthy preservation. In truth, the present volume has been compiled under the feeling, that if all other books of Science in the world were destroyed, this single volume would be found to embody the results of the useful experience, observations, and discoveries of mankind during the past ages of the world.
Theoretical reasonings and historical details have, of course been avoided, and the object of the compiler has been to economise his space, and come at once to the point. Whatever men do, or desire to do, with the materials with which nature has supplied them, and with the powers which they possess, is here plainly taught and succinctly preserved; whether it regard complicated manufactures, means of curing diseases, simple processes on various kinds, or the economy, happiness and preservation of life.
The best authorities have been resorted to, and innumerable volumes consulted, and wherever different processes of apparently equal value, for attaining the same end, have been found, they have been introduced.
A general, rather than a scientific arrangement has been adopted, because the object of the work is popular and universal, and though likely to be useful to men of science, it is more especially addressed to the public at large. In like manner, as far as possible, technical and scientific language has been avoided, and popular names and simple descriptions have been preferred.
This volume will contain more than 600 pages of closely printed matter; and it is determined to charge it to subscribers at $2 50 per vol. bound—so that it will be one of the cheapest books ever published.
