LORD BYRON'S CORSAIR.

We have hitherto regarded the poem of the Corsair, by Lord Byron, as a work of imagination. It seems however that it is founded on fact, if we may rely on a statement in a publication entitled, "The Life, Writings, Opinions and Times of the Right Hon. Lord Byron, &c. by an English gentleman in the Greek Military service, and comrade of his Lordship," and which has very recently appeared in London.

"Whilst Lord Byron was at Constantinople, a Venetian vessel anchored in the port, where a quarrel ensued between the crew and Turkish sailors and ended in an affray. The Turks were worsted; but the whole population being ready to back them, the Venetians fled precipitately to their vessel, and got under weigh, unfortunately leaving their captain on shore. Assured of instant impalement, if he fell into the hands of the Turks, he entered the residence of Lord Byron, whom he did not even know by sight, and requested his assistance to shelter him, and put him in a way of rejoining his friends.
There was such an undaunted courage and noble confidence in his manner, as instantly gained him the respect and esteem of his Lordship, who promised to protect him at the risk of his own life; the Turks, however, had seen him enter the house, and no time was to be lost in getting him out of it.
A suit of female apparel, belonging to a Greek slave, was procured, and the captain decorated with it, and sallying out thus disguised met with no interruption; as it is the Turkish custom never to look at a female, but rather to turn away on meeting one in their route.
Lord B. followed at a distance, hired a Greek boat, into which they got, and ordered it to put them on board the British frigate. They were only just in time; for they had scarce left the hotel before it was surrounded by the Turkish authorities, and searched from top to bottom; but the bird was flown.
Lord Byron threatened to complain to the British Ambassador of the insult, and talked loudly; but it was only to stifle suspicion. The Venetian remained on board until the ship sailed with Lord Byron on board, and they left it together at the Island of Zea. Here as they strolled together about the Islands of the Archipelago, gratitude and friendship drew from the Venetian the whole of his most extraordinary history. He was the heir of a noble and powerful family, and had fallen in love with a young lady of another family, of equal rank, which, however, as is too frequently the case in Italy, was at mortal enmity with his own. They often met at church where, for a long time, their intercourse was confined solely, to an exchange of glances, which soon convinced them that love was infinitely more powerful in their breasts than family feud. At length they contrived to exchange billets as well as glances, and the violence of their passions, as well as the importunities of Conrad, (for it was he himself!) prevailed on the blushing fair one to admit him into her balcony at midnight. Their love was for a time crowned with every success that heart could wish for; but it was not so secret as they hoped and believed. The lady was engaged in marriage to a cousin, whom she never loved, and of whom, since she first saw Conrad, she could not bear the sight. Jealousy is as quick sighted as love: he watched until one unfortunate night he made a discovery of what was going on between the lovers. He laid a plan, with the other relations of his house, to surprise & wipe out the dishonorable stain upon their family, by the blood of the guilty pair.
In effect, they were nearly surprised together; but hearing an unusual stir in the house at the dead hour of the night, the lovers suspected the horrible fate that awaited them, and escaping by a back way, got into a gondola, and were soon among the Dalmatian isles, on the opposite shore of the Adriatic.—Here they found a solitude of silence and melancholy not ill-suited to the disposition of lovers. Half-destroyed buildings and mouldering walls denoted the fallen grandeur and decay of the Roman empire; the proud remnants of the fallen mistress of the world; now inhabited by wild beasts, or by men scarcely more humanised. At one view to be seen the broken columns and pediments of the palaces of the Caesars, and the clay built huts of the worthless Hey-duks; the luxurious baths of the Roman patricians and the smoky cabins of the Dalmatian boors. But a new—an unexpected danger awaited them; little less dreaded than that from which they had just before so narrowly escaped.

They fell into the hands of a nest of piratical banditti, who made it their practice to rob both by sea and land.
Conrad defended himself and mistress with such desperate courage, as, though soon overpowered, procured him the esteem and respect of the banditti, who eager to possess so courageous a commander, offered him such terms, as, in such a desperate state of affairs, it would have been madness to have refused. His intrepidity at length raised him to the rank of their captain, and they were the terror, not only of the Adriatic, but of the Mediterranean sea.
The daring of those pirates may be guessed from their venturing into the harbor of Constantinople, where, if discovered, certain death, by the most horrible tortures, awaited them. But they disguised themselves and their vessel so well, that they ventured everywhere to gain information, and then pounced upon their unsuspecting prey.
Their principal rendezvous was one of the most barren and inaccessible of the Dalmatian isles, where, if in danger of being overpowered, they could presently cross over to the continent, and elude all pursuit among the crags and precipices of the wildest country in the universe.—Conrad's rival, with a party of his friends, fitted out a stout vessel, and sailed in pursuit of the fugitives, more now through revenge than any other passion. He traced the lovers to their haunts, but found them too strong to be overpowered, and too wary to be entrapped; and was compelled to return with his revenge ungratified."

Fayetteville Academy.

A PRINCIPAL TEACHER is wanted in this institution, well qualified to instruct youths of both sexes in all the branches of an English and Classical Education, and to prepare young men for entrance into the Junior Class of any College in the Union. His moral character, and qualifications for teaching the Greek and Latin Classics, must be undoubted.

It is the design of the Trustees to contract with a Gentleman who will take upon himself the sole management and responsibility of the School, comprehending both departments, Male & Female, supply the same with Teachers of his own choice, & furnish every other necessary, in consideration of which he will be entitled to regulate the price of tuition, and to receive all the emoluments derived from it.

This plan is recommended by the experience, that salary employments do not stimulate to that industry and zeal, which are necessary to the successful progress and reputation of a large School, and has its foundation in that principle of self love, which prompts the exertions most where interest lies, by identifying the interest of the Teacher with the character of the School, thus affording to the public the surest guaranty of having their children faithfully taught.

The Academy lot and buildings are situated in very pleasant part of the town, on one of the principal streets, and in the neighborhood of the Episcopal and Presbyterian Churches. The lot is large, and well shaded in the front yard, which communicates with the street over a stile: The main building and wing are three stories high, with a double Portico in front, and is surmounted with a beautiful Bellry—the length and breadth of the main building is about 65 by 45 feet, divided into large apartments, separated by large halls or passages through the centre.

They are sufficiently capacious to accommodate a School of 200 scholars and a family, and the lot is supplied from a Hydrant in the front yard with good and wholesome water.

Few prospects can be more inviting than the present, to a married gentleman with a family, qualified to assist in the school, or capable of taking boarders, (and such a person the Trustees would greatly prefer) for it combines the advantages of two fold profits, to be derived from teaching and boarding children from abroad. And when it is known that this Academy is situated in a town with a population of 3600 souls, & that there is no Academy within 60 miles of it, in which the higher branches of learning are taught, the striking advantages of this offer cannot fail to make a strong appeal to the interest and enterprise of the first talents in the country devoted from necessity to the vocations of Literature.

The Trustees will lease the buildings, lot, &c. from the first day of January next; when the present lease expires) for one year; after which they will extend the term to any number of years the contracting parties can agree upon.

Letters, post paid, may be addressed to the subscribers at this place.

Treasury Office, 15th August, 1825.

STATE OF NORTH-CAROLINA.

THE Public Treasurer considers it his duty to invite the attention of the Clerks and Sheriffs of this State to the provisions of the acts of the General Assembly, passed in 1822—1823, & 1824, "for the promotion of Agriculture and family domestic Manufactures."

By these acts, the Clerks of the County, Superior and Supreme Courts, and Clerks and Masters in Equity, are required, at the first term of the Courts of which they are Clerks respectively, after the 1st day of August in each and every year, to make a statement on oath, of all monies remaining in their hands, and which were received by them officially, three years or more previous thereto; specifying therein the amount of each separate claim, and the name of the person to whom the same is payable; and if there be no such monies in their hands, they are to make affidavit of the same: which return or affidavit, the Judge or Chairman of the Court before whom it is made, shall cause to be transmitted to the Public Treasurer on or before the 1st of December in the same year, and the said clerks, after making such statements, are to pay into the Treasury, on or before the 1st of December, all the balance so stated to be in their hands.—Every clerk aforesaid failing to comply with these requisitions, forfeits $1000.—to be sued for and recovered by the Public Treasurer, in Wake Superior Court; and is moreover liable for all the monies in his hands as aforesaid.—And on failure to pay over the monies as aforesaid, such clerk may be proceeded against by the Public Treasurer in any Court of record in like manner as defaulting revenue officers.— Every person who has heretofore been clerk of any court of record in this state, is to render to the court of which he may have been clerk, a statement of monies remaining in his hands as aforesaid, and shall account and pay over the same, in the same manner as clerks in office, and under the like penalty for failure—and it is made the duty of the law officers of the state for the circuit in which such person shall reside, to cause a sci. fa. to be issued against him (on his failure to make return and payment) returnable to the Superior Court of the county in which such person resides—on which, the court is to render judgment for the penalty, unless sufficient excuse be given for the failure.

All Sheriffs in office at the time of passing the act of 1825, are required, at the same times, to render a like statement and account in the same manner, under a like penalty.

While the Public Treasurer takes pleasure in testifying to the punctuality of many of the present and former clerks, including some of our most distinguished citizens of the present day, it is with much regret that he is constrained to add, there remain still many who are defaulters under these laws.

Waiving all other considerations, the Treasurer would hereby respectfully suggest to those concerned, that it is certainly far more easy, and will eventually prove to be less troublesome and expensive, to furnish voluntarily and forthwith the returns required by law, than by longer neglect or delay to risk the being subjected to the compulsory process of the courts; which must & will be the certain and inevitable consequence of future neglect or omission.

JOHN HAYWOOD, P. Treas'r.

Congressional Register.

The Register of Debates in Congress, having swelled into a much larger volume than was at first anticipated by the publishers,—its completion has, in consequence, been delayed beyond the period promised to its subscribers. The increased size of the work has been caused, in part, by the addition of a number of interesting public Documents, which were too voluminous for newspaper publication, and by a determination of the Editors to place in the Appendix of the volume, all the Laws passed during the session. The publishers have, however, the pleasure to inform the patrons of the work that it will be completed in the course of two or three weeks, and then forthwith forwarded to them by mail.

To all those who have sent in their names for the work, it will be furnished at the price originally proposed, viz. three dollars; but it is proper to make it known, that, in consequence of the great enlargement of the volume, the price will be raised, to non-subscribers, to five dollars.

30 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, three NEGRO Men, viz. Frederick, Tom and Pompey.
FREDERICK, of black complexion, about 18 or 20 years of age, 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high to, no visible mark as I recollect of—except I think that his right fore finger is stiff—he ab-

Frederick is from Virginia.
TOM is of a tawney complexion, 30 or 35 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, blind casioned by a cut of a knife. Tom is from North-Carolina.

POMPEY, is very black, and some of his front teeth out; about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, has a scar over one of his eyes, or on his forehead, and speaks very quick when spok-living in Fairfield district, S. C. or lodge them in any jail so that I get them.
