EXTRACT.

The following extract is the concluding sentence of an oration delivered in Charleston, S. C. on the 4th July last, by James L. Peigne. It only has its parallel in an address once delivered by a candidate in the eastern part of this State:

My father went in the perilous voyages of the Cape of Good Hope with the immortal Cook, and there encountered the scorching heat and effulgent sun of the Frigid Zone; but it would be indelicate in me to eulogize his virtues—his kindred spirit has taken its flight with the immortal Byron, & rests in holy communion with the dead.

Veni, Vidi, Vici.
Come, then, expressive silence, muse his praise.

Reiterated and enthusiastic bursts of applause were then bestowed by an admiring audience, upon the distinguished orator, who, with that modesty which gives lustre to his other virtues, and with emotions of gratitude that did honor to his heart, won new laurels in the field of eloquence, by the following exquisite and appropriate reply:

I have already deplored the circumstance, so unfortunate, not only for the whole of this country, but even for this audience, that the mental diamonds with which I have been gifted by a bountiful nature, have not been sufficiently polished and burnished by an early education. It is true, that on this occasion, I have excited your highest admiration, and filled your minds with ecstatic rapture, at my astonishing eloquence; but had I been early trained to walk in the paths of learning, then, indeed, would you behold me like the Peacock, strutting in his beautiful plumage, when his tail is wide expanded, excelling in beauty and grandeur, all that can be discovered in the circumambient air on the surface of this terraqueous globe, or in the waters of the "cravey deep." But I forbear, and crave your indulgence on the present occasion:

"And if I've chanc'd to fall below
Demosthenes or Cicero,
Don't view me with a critic's eye,
But pass my imperfections by."

Toast.—The name of Milton, who has been an associate with those of Homer and Virgil. Cannot one be found in modern times to be united with those of Demosthenes and Cicero.

Note.—It is presumed, that in answer to the above, the name of PEIGNE will resound from every tongue.

THE LOST CHILD.

Greensburgh, (Pa.) Aug. 26.
Fifty years ago, Adam Nicely settled at the foot of the Chesnut Ridge, Ligonier Valley, where he has continued to reside ever since. Mr. Nicely is now more than eighty years old. When he commenced clearing this little spot of land in the then wilderness, he had three or four sprightly and interesting children, who were their father's hope and their mother's joy. Not long after this period, two of them, one evening left their lonely habitation for the purpose of gathering strawberries. They were followed by their little brother Jacob, without the knowledge or consent of their parents, and who did not return with the other children—nor was he seen by them. The alarm was immediately given and the neighbourhood scoured, but the search proved ineffectual.—For two weeks, with intense anxiety of mind, and feelings that cannot be described, the unhappy parents sought their darling little Jacob in the wilderness—he could not be found. It was at length concluded that he had fallen a prey to the ruthless panther.

Some time since, Mr. John Wolfe, a young man who formerly resided in Ligonier Valley, emigrated to the State of Ohio. Having occasion to return lately on a visit to his friends, he stated, that during his travels he had become acquainted with a white man near Fort Seneca, who lived after the manner of the Indians, and who stated that, when very young he had been taken from his parents in Ligonier Valley, by a party of Indians, and had continued with them ever since. When this information was communicated to old Mr. Nicely, he concluded that this man must be his son Jacob, who had been lost so many years. Under this impression, notwithstanding his age, he made the necessary preparations to visit him; and succeeded in finding and once more beholding his darling son.—Jacob Nicely resided near Fort Seneca, and though comparatively more civilized, still his habits and manners were not dissimilar to those of the Indians who surrounded him. And from the resemblance of his features to those of the other members of his family—the time and manner of his capture—the recollection of his name by himself, along with other circumstances—all conspired to convince Mr. Nicely that he is indeed his son. Thus it is that Providence has in his own way, after many years, restored a lost child to his affectionate parents, before their gray hairs descend to the grave. Jacob Nicely is soon expected on a visit to his relatives.

EXTRAORDINARY MAN.

There is a man residing in Pottsgrove township, Pa. about three miles from this borough, by the name of Henry Hatfield, who has been blind from his youth, caused by the small pox: he is a very respectable citizen, and a few years ago purchased a small tract of land, and now keeps a public house—he is married, and has several children. Besides keeping a public house for a livelihood, he makes baskets of all descriptions of a superior quality. What is most singular with him is, he will go alone as far as six miles from home with his axe, into a large wood, where he will single out saplings or small trees, such as will answer his purpose for making splits, &c. he will cut them down into such lengths as will suit; he will then hide his axe in the bushes or leaves he may meet with, and start off to a neighboring farmer, employ his wagon and horses to haul his wood home, and then return and take his axe from the place he had secreted it; this he will do without a living soul near him. This information we have from persons who have often seen him do the like. We ourselves have repeatedly seen him a considerable distance from home, travelling in the public road, and have asked him if he knew where he was and which way he was going; he always answered correctly. His neighbors and acquaintances he recognizes as soon as spoken to. He is the best performer on the violin in these parts, and can keep the instrument in as good order as any other person. He is a subscriber of ours, and very often calls himself at the office to receive his paper.—Pott. Times.

MELANCHOLY SHIPWRECK.

The Salem Gazette gives the following extract of a letter from Capt. R. E. Orne of the ship Sally, of Salem, dated Flushing, July 3, 1825.

"I arrived at this place 30th ult. after a very rough passage of 53 days from Havana. The ship performed very well indeed until the 26th ult. at half past 1 A. M. in lat. 49 10, N. lon. 15 30, W. with a fine breeze from NNW. studding sails set, and sailing at the rate 7½ knots; a vessel was seen directly ahead, so near when discovered that it was not possible to avoid each other; we accordingly encountered, steering directly opposite courses, with the combined force of both, or 11 knots—carried away our bowsprit head, cut water, studding sail booms, fore-sails, &c. and opened the wood ends from the lower water up, the width of a man's hand. The strange vessel proved to be the brig Malta, of London, Capt. William Perkins, from Bristol, bound to Montreal. Our jib-boom took between his fore rigging and foremast, which caused her to swing along side of us, where she remained fast for the space of several minutes; when clear of each other, her sails hanging aback, she dropped astern and instantly sunk under our larboard quarter. The second mate, a passenger and two seamen, were providentially saved by getting on board the Sally before the vessels parted. The ship was immediately braced by, and the boats got out in order if possible to preserve the lives of the rest, but only one boy was found clinging to the round house, which disengaged itself from the wreck. Out of 12 souls on board only 5 were saved. The Capt. and his wife, the wife of the passenger, 1st mate, and 3 seamen were lost.

An intimate friend of the celebrated historian Hume, asked him what he thought of Mr. Whitfield's preaching; for he had listened to the latter part of one of his Sermons at Edinburgh. "He is, Sir," said Mr. Hume, "the most ingenious preacher I ever heard: it is worth while to go twenty miles to hear him." He then repeated a passage towards the close of the discourse, which he had heard. "After a solemn pause, he thus addressed his numerous audience:—'The attendant Angel is just about to leave the threshold, and ascend to Heaven. And shall he ascend, and not bear with him the news of one sinner among all this multitude, reclaimed from the error of his ways?' To give the greater effect to this exclamation, he stamped with his foot, and with gushing tears, cried aloud, 'Stop Gabriel! stop Gabriel! stop ere you enter the sacred portals, and yet carry with you the news of one sinner converted to God.' He then, in the most simple, but energetic language, described what he called a Saviour's dying love to sinful man, so that almost the whole assembly melted into tears. This address was accompanied with such animated, yet natural action, that it surpassed (said Hume) anything I ever saw or heard in any other preacher."

SIMONIDES being asked by Dyonysius the tyrant, what God was desired a day's time to consider it before he made his reply. When the day was expired, he desired two days; and afterwards, instead of returning his answer, demanded still double the time to consider of it. This great Poet and Philosopher, the more he contemplated the nature of the Deity, found that he had waded but the more out of his depth; and that he lost himself in the thought, instead of finding an end of it.

ELEGANT COMPLIMENT.

There scarcely ever was a finer compliment paid to a lady, than that which Dean Swift addressed to a wife, who was always praising her husband: "You always are making a god of your spouse, But that neither reason or conscience allows; Perhaps you may think 'tis in gratitude due, And you adore him, because he adores you. Your argument's weak, and so you will find, For you, by this rule, must adore all mankind."

FREDERICK OF PRUSSIA.

This monarch had a great idea of the value and utility of experience. A very young man having presented to him a petition, requesting an important appointment, Frederick wrote underneath it—"Turn to the Bible, and in the 10th chapter and 5th verse of the 2d book of Samuel, you will find these words: 'Tarry at Jericho until your beard be grown, and then return.'"

Cape-Fear Navigation Company.

WESLEY WHITAKER.
Raleigh August 29. 86 3t

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, on the 10th inst. without a fault, a Negro Man named DAVE, about 32 years of age, is about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high, slender made, yellow complexion, down look when spoken to, speaks not very quick when spoken to; has not good eyes, on account of having wild hairs in them at times. It is probable Dave will try to pass for a free man; he has travelled a good deal with the wagon in different parts of this state and Virginia, and don't lack for want of sense. I have been told that he has gone to Virginia to see his father; and that his father lives on Meherrin, Va. near Gholson's Bridge. His father, I have been told, is of Indian descent, and is a free man; his name is said to be Kinchen Tucker; and he will no doubt conceal him, should Dave get there. When he went away he had good clothes, and dressed equal to any servant; he had a new fur hat on, and forty or fifty dollars in cash, about forty of which was in specie. I purchased him of a Mr. Ross Hutcheson, living within six miles of me, a man who raised him. I will give the above reward if taken out of the state, and if taken in the state, twenty-five dollars if put in any jail so that I get him again.—Should said negro man Dave be taken up information can be given me by letter, addressed to Hillsborough, or to Pleasant Grove, Orange county, N. C.
JOHN B. VINCENT.

Roanoke Land for Sale.

THIS tract is situated in Halifax county, North-Carolina; it lies on Roanoke River between Mush Island and the Town of Halifax, not more than three miles from the latter; its upper side near the river being less than a half mile from Mush Island. From a survey of the present year the probable amount of acres is fourteen hundred eighty-three and a half, though the deeds by which the said survey was made were not very explicit, neither did they include the whole tract of land. The land, except a small portion, is of very good quality, and out of said small portion a spot might be selected which in Halifax county would be called a healthy and handsome site for a residence. The sale will take place on the tenth day of November next, in Petersburg, Va. before the door of Niblo's Tavern. Any person wishing to purchase said land privately can learn the terms by application to Nelson & Minge, of Petersburg, Va. There is a young man living on said land who will at any time shew it to such as wish to purchase. The land will be sold to the highest bidder, at reserve, the purchaser paying fifteen thousand dollars cash, and the balance of the purchase money on the first day of January, 1827.
DAVID MINGE.

Notice.

I HAVE lost the Certificates of five shares of the Capital Stock of the Bank of Cape-Fear, viz. Nos. 111, 112, 113, 114, & 115—And I shall, at the expiration of 3 months, from the date of this notice, apply for new Certificates of said Stock. All persons pretending to have any claim to said Certificates are hereby notified to make known their claim.
LUCY CUTLAR.
Wilmington, June 15, 1825. 73m w

30 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, three Negro Men, viz. Frederick, Tom and Pompey.
FREDERICK, of black complexion, about 18 or 20 years of age, 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high—of thin visage, speaks slow when spoken to, no visible mark as I recollect of except I think that his right fore finger is stiff—he absented himself on the 20th of March last.—Frederick is from Virginia.
TOM is of a tawny complexion, 30 or 35 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, blink eyed, and as well as I recollect is lame in his left leg, occasioned when small by the white swelling, and a scar on one of his wrists, occasioned by a cut of a knife. Tom is from North-Carolina.

POMPEY, is very black, and some of his front teeth out; about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, has a scar over one of his eyes, or on his forehead, and speaks very quick when spoken to. Pompey is from Charleston, and formerly belonged to John Billings of that place. I think it very probable that they have free passes given to them, as it has been practised in this vicinity.

The above reward will be paid to any person who will deliver the said Negroes to me living in Fairfield district, S. C. or lodge them in any jail so that I get them.

JOHN HARRISON.
August 5. 81m 2n

25 Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber in Lexington, Georgia, in March last, a Negro fellow named ISHAM, about 20 years old, 5 feet 4 or 5 inches high, very fleshy, stout heavy made, full face, lively and free spoken, contracts his eyes a little when he looks at you, and left handed. This boy ISHAM, I bought of a man who signs his name Clement Townsend, in January last. Mr. Townsend told me he bought this boy in Raleigh, North-Carolina, at Sheriff's sale, that he was raised about Raleigh; the boy told me he was raised in Raleigh, and was hired in that place to a merchant several years, & that Mr. Townsend bought him of an estate of a lawyer who de- ased near Raleigh a year or two ago.

If Mr. Clement Townsend sees this advertisement, I will thank him to drop me a line and say, who he bought this boy ISHAM of, as I have heard of this boy being in South-Carolina, making his way to Raleigh I expect.

I will give Ten Dollars reward to have him secured in any Jail, so I can get hold of him, or the above reward of Twenty-five dollars, to any person who will secure him in a Jail in Georgia. From some circumstances, I am led to believe that this boy may be in the possession of a white man, who induced him to runaway—and will offer him for sale. I will give Fifty Dollars reward for the detection of the Thief.
