

Raleigh Academy.

The following is an Abstract of the Report of the Trustees, at the Examination which closed on the 9th instant:

MALE DEPARTMENT.

Taught by Mr. Larnston.

John Scott and John Savage were examined on Reading, Spelling, and Public Speaking. John Scott excelled in Speaking; in Reading and Spelling they were nearly equal.

James Boylan and Robert Hardy, in the same studies were approved. James Boylan was considered the best speaker.

James Avery, Fielding Turner, Joseph Gorman, Robert Brown, James Callum, Geo. Polk and Robert Smith on Reading, Spelling, Writing & Oratory. They read with great facility in the English Reader. Their writing was approved; no distinction. Joseph Gorman is the best Speaker.

Part of this class, viz. Joseph Gorman, James Avery, Fielding Turner and Robert Smith, were examined in the Latin Grammar, as far as the Verbs, and were highly approved.

Robert Burton, Devereux Hopkins, William Savage, Bruce Scott & Rash Haywood were examined on Historic Saccæ. The two first excelled. N. Hill, a member of this class, was absent with leave.

The same class stood on the Latin Grammar, Reading & Spelling, Arithmetic Writing and Oratory. On Grammar, R. Burton is best, Bruce Scott and Wm. Savage next best. In Reading, Spelling and Arithmetic, Devereux Hopkins and Robert Burton were best. In Writing, all were equally approved. In Oratory, Burton and Hopkins are rather best.

Samuel Nichols, Thomas Forster, Caswell Price and Edward Cobbs, stood on Selectæ Veteri, Latin Grammar, Reading & Spelling, Arithmetic, Writing and Oratory. On Selectæ Veteri, the whole class did themselves credit; in the Grammar, all were so perfect no distinction could be made. Samuel Nichols is the best Speller and Arithmetician. In Penmanship, no distinction. Caswell Price is the best Speaker, and T. Forster the next best.

Frank Mitchell was examined on Murray's English Grammar and Exercises, and gave entire satisfaction.

Alexander Gorman and Wm. Ragan, members of this class, were absent on account of sickness.

Taught by Rev. Dr. McPheeters.

Henry Dudley and Samuel Brown were examined on Spelling and Public Speaking. Henry Dudley is the best speller, and Samuel Brown excelled in the delivery of his Oratory. John Fulton, a member of this class, was absent with leave.

Christopher Dudley and Wm. Marcellus stood on Reading, Spelling and Public Speaking. Their merits are considered equal. C. Dudley was also examined on Blair's Catechism, and Wm. Marcellus on Latin Grammar through the Verbs, and both performed well for beginners.

Robert Haywood, Henry Bond, Samuel Boylan, Rufus Polk, Julius Guthrie and John Stuart, were examined on Selectæ Veteri, Latin Grammar, Reading and Spelling, Arithmetic, Scripture Recitations, Copy Writing and Oratory. On Selectæ Veteri, the merits of the class were nearly equal. If any preference were given, it would be due perhaps to H. Haywood, H. Bond & S. Boylan. On the Latin Grammar, all acquitted themselves pretty well. In Reading & Spelling, the preference is due to Rufus Polk, Julius Guthrie, and Henry Bond. In Arithmetic, all acquitted themselves satisfactorily for beginners. Their Scripture recitations deserved praise. In Writing, Henry Bond and Samuel Boylan's copies were highly praised. In Oratory, R. Haywood, H. Bond, S. Boylan and Rufus Polk excelled.

James Henderson, James Granberry, Monroe Pinckney, Joel King, David Dudley, Pleasant Henderson, Wm. Haywood, Robert Martin and Thomas Beckwith, were examined on Viri Romæ, Latin Grammar, Arithmetic, Scripture Recitations, Copy Writing, Reading, Spelling and Oratory. [Oscar Hinton, a member of this class, was absent on account of sickness.] On Viri Romæ, these students may be considered of two grades. In the first, James Henderson stands alone; the rest forming the second grade, are so nearly equal, that no distinction was made. In Latin Grammar, all were very perfect. In Arithmetic, D. Dudley, Monroe Pinckney, Joel King, James Granberry, T. Beckwith, R. Martin and James Henderson, have advanced farthest, and are best. The rest were approved. In Scripture Recitations, their performance was satisfactory. D. Dudley, Monroe Pinckney and Thomas Beckwith were deemed the best Writers; James Henderson, Monroe Pinckney and D. Dudley are the best Readers and Spellers; and Monroe Pinckney, D. Dudley, James Granberry and Robert D. King, are the best Speakers, in the order named.

The same class, (with the exception of James Henderson and Pleasant Henderson,) was examined on the Greek Grammar, and all were approved, without distinction.

And also, with the exception of the above two students, and Wm. Haywood, the same class was examined on Geography, in which study, D. Dudley excelled.

Henry Cannon, Henry Hawkins, & Needham Price, were examined on Caesar's Commentaries, Ovid's Metamorphoses, Latin Grammar, Reading and Spelling, Arithmetic, Geography, Scripture Recitations, Copy Writing and Oratory. On Caesar's Commentaries, the distinctions were in the order of the names of the students. N. Price had had been interrupted in his studies by sickness. On the Grammar, H. Cannon was considered best. The Reading of all was approved. In Spelling, their merits were as follows: Price, H. Hawkins and H. Cannon. In Arithmetic, N. Price and Henry Hawkins, who had been longest at the study excelled. In Geography, H. Hawkins is entitled to the first distinction. In Scripture Recitations, all acquitted themselves satisfactorily. All produced very neat copies of Writing, and were considered about equal. In Oratory, Wm. Haywood, Price & Henry Cannon with the exception of N. Price, were approved.

FEMALE DEPARTMENT.

Taught by Mrs. Goodwin.

Eliza Bobbitt, Julia Boon, Ann Cobb, Mary Cobb and Helen Shaw, were examined in Reading, Spelling and Brown's Catechism. Helen Shaw is the best Reader and Speller, and Julia Boon is thought rather the best in the Catechism. Ann Blount, a member of this class, was absent with leave.

Sarah Smith, Susan Gilmore, Margaret McPheeters, Priscilla Shaw, and Ann E. Manly, stood on Spelling, Reading, Writing and Catechism. Ann E. Manly is the best Speller; Sarah Smith, Susan Gilmore and Ann E. Manly, were most approved in Reading; and the whole class passed well in their several Catechisms. Penelope Daniel, a member of this class, was absent with leave.

Melissa Bobbitt, Rebecca Bell, Mary Ann Callum, Emily M. Filton, Maria Haywood, Lydia Jones and Eliza Pullen, were examined on Spelling, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Geography and Catechism. The four first named young ladies were deemed the best Spellers; Mary Ann Callum, Emily Filton and Melissa Bobbitt, the best Readers; Rebecca Bell, the best Writer and Arithmetician. In Geography, Melissa Bobbitt is entitled to the first distinction. Lydia Jones and Maria Haywood, to the second. On the Catechism, all were approved.

Mary Williams, Virginia Smith, Maria Long, Matilda Bobbitt and Laura M. Burgess, were examined on Spelling, Reading and English Grammar. In Spelling, all passed well. Virginia Smith was deemed the best Reader. On Grammar, all were approved.

Mary Williams, Virginia Smith and Maria Long, were examined on the Geography of North and South America, and were found very correct.

The three last mentioned young ladies, and Laura M. Burgess, produced neat specimens of Writing. No distinction.

Virginia Smith, Maria Long and Laura M. Burgess, stood well on Arithmetic. Miss Smith was deemed the best.

Mary Williams, Virginia Smith, Maria Long, Martha Eppes, Cynthia Hill, Mary Pleasants, Matilda Bobbitt and Olivia Potter, passed a very satisfactory examination on Scripture History.

Mary Pleasants, Martha Eppes, Cynthia Hill and Olivia Potter, were examined on Spelling, Reading, Cowper's Task, English Grammar, Geography, Natural History, Arithmetic and Writing. In Spelling, all were remarkably correct; their Reading was also highly approved; they were found correct in all the Rules of Grammar. To Geography, they appeared to have paid great attention. On Natural History (on which study Matilda Bobbitt was added to the class) so satisfactory an examination has seldom been witnessed. Their merits were in the following order: Martha Eppes, Mary Pleasants, Matilda Bobbitt, Cynthia Hill and Olivia Potter.

This class had advanced farther in that useful branch of study, Arithmetic, than any of the preceding, and were approved. Matilda Bobbitt is deemed best.

Each of the above students produced very neat copies of Writing, in which no distinction was made.

Mary E. Foreman was examined with the Senior class, in Spelling, Reading, Writing, English Grammar, Geography, History, Rhetoric, Scripture History, Arithmetic, Parsing and Composition, and acquitted herself in each to the satisfaction of the Trustees.

Maria Louisa Goodwin was also examined with the Senior class in all their Studies, viz: those mentioned above, with the addition of Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Moral Philosophy, Logic and Chemistry, embracing the complete course of Studies prescribed for the Female Department, and in which she passed with entire approbation; but in consequence of her youth, was not a candidate for the Honors of the Institution.

Taught by Miss Benedict and Mr. Wetmore.

Elizabeth A. Avery, Margaret A. Beckwith, Celestia A. Goucke, Maria L. Hunter, Eliza T. Parsley, and Ann M. Washington, were examined on Reading, Spelling, Geography, English Grammar, Arithmetic, Scripture History, Parsing and Writing. Ann Washington, and Eliza Parsley were considered the best Readers; Eliza Parsley the best Speller. In Geography, Margaret Beckwith had the first distinction, and Maria Hunter and Elizabeth Avery the second. In Grammar, Ann Washington excelled; and Margaret Beckwith and Eliza Parsley were next best. In Arithmetic, Celestia Goucke and Ann Washington were best, and Margaret Beckwith was approved. On Scripture, Eliza Parsley excelled. In Parsing, Ann Washington and Eliza Parsley merit distinction. Celestia Goucke and Margaret Beckwith produced the best specimens of Writing. [Maria Harris and Mary A. Perry, members of this class, were absent with leave.]

Harriet B. Boon, Lucinda A. Bell, Rosa Gilmore, Lucinda D. Haywood, Hawkins H. Lockhart, Fidelity Price & Pherbe Seawell, were examined on Reading, Writing, Spelling, Arithmetic, Parsing, History and Scripture Questions. Much praise is said to be due to this class generally, for their attention to and improvement in their studies. On reading Cowper's Task, Pherbe Seawell, Rosa Gilmore and Lucinda Bell, deserve the first distinction. In Spelling, Harriet Boon and Pherbe Seawell are best. Fidelity Price produced the best specimen of Writing, and those of Harriet Boon and Pherbe Seawell were next best. Fidelity Price and Hawkins Lockhart deserve the first distinction in Arithmetic, and Harriet Boon the second. In Parsing, Ann Washington was examined with this class, and to her was awarded the first distinction; and to Fidelity Price, Harriet Boon and Hawkins Lockhart the second. In History, Fidelity Price had the first distinction; Hawkins Lockhart, Harriet Boon, and Rosa Gilmore the second. In Scripture, all were approved.

Mary M. G. Allen, Cary Ann Gholson, Margaret C. Haywood, Adelaide Hunter, Jane S. Hunter, and Frances G. Marshall, were examined on Reading, Spelling, Copy Writing, Arithmetic, Parsing, Logic, Chemistry, and Scripture History. In Reading, Thompson's Seasons, Frances Marshall and Cary Ann Gholson had the first distinction. In Spelling, C. A. Gholson and Adelaide Hunter were best. Frances Marshall is the best Writer. In Arithmetic, Mary Gatin and Frances Marshall had the preference. In Parsing, all were approved well, but Mary Gatin was thought to excel the first, and Cary Ann Gholson and Frances Marshall the second distinction. On Grammar, Cary Ann Gholson and Mary Gatin were deemed the best. Frances Marshall second best. Ann Gholson merits the third and Adelaide Hunter the fourth.

the second distinction. On Scripture History, Mary Gatin and Frances Marshall were most perfect. Cary Ann Gholson was second best.

Penelope E. Putney, Eleanor C. Rabotom and Ann E. Dunn, members of this class, who have not succeeded well had they been examined, were absent with leave.

Eliza L. Bond, Caroline W. Bell, Sarah J. Coman, Sarah H. Puffon, Rebecca J. Haywood, Eliza C. King and Tabitha Savage, were examined on Reading, Spelling, Copy Writing, Arithmetic, Parsing, Logic, Chemistry and Scripture History. On Reading, Thompson's Seasons, though all the class read well, Eliza Bond and Tabitha Savage were considered best. In Spelling, all were perfect. The writing of the whole class was good. Rebecca Haywood's was best. Tabitha Savage is the best Arithmetician. Eliza Bond, Sarah Coman and Caroline Bell, are entitled to the second honor. On Parsing, Thompson's Seasons, the whole class did themselves great credit. The first distinction is due to Rebecca Haywood; the second to Eliza Bond and Tabitha Savage. In Logic, Eliza Bond had the first distinction. In Chemistry, Caroline Bell and Eliza King were considered best, though all acquitted themselves well. The whole class appeared to have paid great attention to Scripture History. Sarah Coman and Eliza King obtained the first distinction.

The following young ladies produced Compositions, which were highly approved, viz: Cary Ann Gholson, Frances Marshall, Sarah Fulton, Caroline Bell, Sarah Coman and Tabitha Savage. Those of Miss Marshall and Miss Gholson, obtained the first distinction. Miss Fulton was not examined with her class, in which she has always maintained a respectable standing.

THE SENIOR CLASS.

MARY E. W. EPPES, JACKY G. DENN.

These Young Ladies having passed an approved Examination on the following Studies, viz: Reading Prose and Poetry, Spelling, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, Elements of Natural Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, Astronomy, Rhetoric, Logic, Chemistry, History, Composition and Scripture History, which embrace the course prescribed by the Trustees for the Female Academy, it was resolved that they are each entitled to receive a Certificate and Gold Medal, as Rewards of their Industry, Talents and Virtuous Conduct.

They were accordingly conferred upon them. The Exercises of the Academy were then suspended until the first Monday in January next.

From the Albany Argus.

We have avoided hitherto all notice of the unhappy and fatal occurrence, which took place at Kinderhook, on the 19th inst. because we were unwilling in the then imperfect state of our information, to contribute to the possibility of misleading the public in relation to it. The matter having undergone a course of judicial investigation, and all the facts having been made public, it may be proper to state briefly what the circumstances were.

It appears by the depositions, that during the annual exhibition at the Academy in Kinderhook, an affray commenced between Eber Crandall, a youth about 16 years of age, son of Mr. Jos. E. Crandall, of that town, and two or three of the students, in the course of which young Crandall received a mortal wound in the abdomen, inflicted with a jack-knife, by Charles Tayloe, a student in the institution, of about fifteen years of age. Tayloe was immediately arrested; and after undergoing an examination before two magistrates, was committed to the jail of the county. The unfortunate Crandall lingered until the 23d inst. when he expired. A coroner's inquest was summoned over the body, who returned a verdict of manslaughter against the accused. We have not ventured to give the particular circumstances of the affray, as detailed in the depositions; the delicacy and difficulty of doing this impartially, must be apparent to those who are apprised of their contradictory nature.

The friends of Tayloe being desirous to have him admitted to bail, application was made on the 23d inst. to the Supreme Court, for a habeas corpus, which was granted, as of course, the warrant of commitment not charging a criminal offence. The court however, ordered notice to be given to the district attorney of Columbia, to the end that the depositions taken before the justices might be examined, and such proceedings had thereon as should be proper. The prisoner was brought up on the 24th, when the habeas corpus was returned. Crandall had died in the meantime, and the deposition taken before the justice, together with the inquisition taken before the coroner's jury, and the depositions of the witnesses examined by them, were all delivered to the court. The counsel for the prosecution having given notice that they should oppose the admission to bail, yesterday was assigned for the argument, when the case was fully and very ably argued by Messrs. B. F. Butler and Williams for the prisoner, and Messrs. J. Wilcoxson, district attorney of Columbia, and the Attorney-General for the people. The ground taken by the prisoner's counsel, as we understand, was, that it appeared from the depositions, that the offence, if it amounted to manslaughter, was of so mitigated a character, as to render it a fit case for bail. The court have the matter under advisement, and will probably decide it during the term.

The case is an unfortunate one in all respects. The deceased was the son of a respectable inhabitant of the town of Kinderhook; and the accused is the son of Gen. Tayloe of Virginia. The affair is the source of poignant affliction to both families. The Kinderhook Herald states, that a serious consideration of the subject by the Trustees of the Academy, has resulted in the expulsion of the several students who were instrumental in originating or promoting the tumult.

Notice.

THE Subscriber having qualified, and obtained letters of Administration in Northampton County Court, N. C. on the estate of Mary Munger, dec'd. and by the last will and testament of Elizabeth Briggers, a certain legacy was bequeathed to said Mary Munger during her natural life, and after her death to be divided among several persons specified in said will: now it appears that a certain Joseph Grizard, if living, is entitled to a certain distributive share of said legacy. This is therefore to give notice to the said Joseph Grizard, or any persons claiming under him, to come forward and receive their distributive share of said legacy, as I hold it ready to pay it over to the person entitled to receive it; on failure to do so, I shall otherwise dispose of it, and plead this notice in bar of their recovery.
