GLAD TO HEAR IT .- We learn from merchants round town that business is beginning to brighten up smartly. We are glad to hear it, for it has been awful dull for a month passed.

AUCTION SALE .- There was an auction sale on Craven street, between South Front and the river this morning, at 10 o'clock, at which several hundred bushels of oats were sold at 55 cts. per bushel. A couple of horses were put up, but as they did not bring as much as the owner thought them worth, they were bid in. One of them, a fine animal, was run up to one hundred and seventy odd dollars. The other to one hun-dred and one dollars.

PABDONED .-- The following citizens of this State have been pardoned by the President, under the first and thirteenth sections of the Proclamation of amnesty, viz: Gens. Bradley T. Johnson and W. R. Cox. and Messrs, H. K. Burgwin, J. G. King, W. F. McKesson, Alfred Williams, J. G. Cook, A. M. Lewis, W. B. Rodman, J. W. Hall, G. G. Lynch and Geo. W. Thompson.

Soon the drums will be beating, And the green above the red Shall be waving in the sunshine Over Ireland's martyred dead ; And the dear ould land grows dearer, And its hopes become more bright, As we see the star of freedom Through the gloom of Ireland's night.

Soon that star shall shine in glory, Soon the Saxon's power shall die, And his fleg, black with dishonor, That their country shall be free, Though ten thousand martyrs perish In the cause of liberty.

Then all hail to Jimmy Stephens! Let us take him by the hand, And, forgetting all our quarrels, By his side e'er firmly shtand, For he comes to lead us onward, Sketch of James Stephens.

James Stephens was born in the town of Kilkenny, Ireland, famed for two things: "purty girls" and black marble. He is about forty-three years of age, with a pleasant, gentlemanly appearance, and a keen and piercing eye. He received the benefit of an excellent education, and cultivated the belles letters to a very. great

The liberal sciences, however, formed his favorite study, and we consequently find him adopting the profession of a civil and military engineer, in which his skill and genius won him considerable distinction at an age when most men have scarcely acquired the rudiments in any profession. During the latter years of the repeal agitation, Mr. Stephens was professionally engaged in the Mr. Stephens was professionary engaged as great Southern and Western railway works, at Inchicore, Dublin. At this period he entered into political life with many of the best—and worst—men of this generation. He was in constant attendance at the Young Ireland Clubs, where he was always a welcome and distinguish-ed speaker. From Dublin his professional duties brought him to Thurles in the year '48, and in the summer of that year he paid a holiday visit to his parents at Kilkenny. During this visit, Mr. Patrick Donohue arrived in Kilkenny trom Dublin, and he soon attracted the attention of one or two of the Nationalists of the "marble city" by his vehement denunciation of the government in the coffee-room of the Rose Inn. Mr. Donohue was a total stranger in Kilkenny, and was suspected by the few dlub men who happened to form part of his audience to be anything but a disinterested patriot. He was, ac-cordingly, "persuaded" to appear before the club; but even to that body he appeared to be club; but even to that body he appeared to be unable to give a satisfactory account of himself; whereupon the club appointed a "committee of two" to conduct the suspect before Smith O'Brien, who was at that time busily "takin' notes" in the neighborhood of the Bocks of Cashet. James neighborhood of the Bocks of Cashet. James Stephens formed one of the committee, and this was his first "overt act." A short interview-a very cursory inspection only—was necessary to give O'Brien an idea of Stephens's calibre, and we next find the active young engineer the most clear-sighted and indefatigable aide that sur-
