CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

We do wish somebody would invent a method of taking the bark out of dogs. Their infernal howls and cries all the night through are terrible!—Pat.

We're your man neighbor; you have but to offer the inducement and we will furnish a young man, accoutred thrown in, that will scare the dogs so bad there won't be any left for sausage meat.

Use Meadows & Co's Ess Jamaica Ginger.

Recd Boys.

Can some of our young friends send us the solution of the following? Said a male to an ass, "If I take one of your bags, I shall have twice as many as you, and if I give you one of mine, we shall have an equal number. With how many bags was each loaded?"

German Study, or office Lamps, at Meadows & Co's.

Personal.

We had the pleasure of receiving a visit from John Robinson, Esq., of the Goldsboro News on yesterday. His report of the public sentiment in Wayne is such as to encourage Republicans to renewed efforts in this District. There are many Democrats in that county who will not take cross in their hands.

Take your prescriptions to Meadows & Co's day or night.

A Nice Operation.

While the Rev Steamer Stevens was preparing to start on a few days since, it was discovered that the key securing one of the propellers to the shaft had broken and dropped off, leaving the wheel loose and in danger of doing serious damage should the engine be moved. The shaft was some three feet under water, and could not be worked at without docking the vessel; an expensive and dilatory operation; but Capt. Abbey and his officers, with that energy and zeal which characterizes them, determined that both the time and expense should be saved if possible; they therefore removed all portable weight from the after part of the ship to the bow, got the anchor and chain all well forward, even lifting the large anchor from the bottom, and holding the vessel with a small keel. Finding all this insufficient, Capt. Abbey then caused the boats to be hoisted under the bows and so ingeniously arranged, and pumped them full of water, which last ingenious maneuver expedited the climax and brought the shaft within a few inches of the surface. In that position, a new key was fitted, and driven securely home, setting the wheel back to its proper position, as solid as ever, and saving the government many dollars.

We take pleasure in thus giving Capt. Abbey the credit such meritorious conduct deserves. Many of our readers will now understand the citizens' appreciation which the Stevens' presented during the week of Thursday last. Many thought her preparing for a plunge to the depths of the river.

Superior Court.

Bryant Higgins was arraigned before the court yesterday upon a true bill found by the Grand Jury, charging him with the killing of Alonzo Brewer, the witnesses were examined and the testimony went clearly to show that he was justifiable. Upon the motion of his counsel a verdict was entered of not guilty of the charges set forth in the true bill, the Solicitor asked it be entered, which was accordingly done.

Louisa Moore, one of the regular attendants on the Police Court, was arraigned on the charge of larceny. She was charged with stealing ten dollars from a man named Gaskins and found guilty. This one by the Superior Court is depriving the Mayor of his friends, and the empty City Treasury of an occasional Sad to contemplate.

Robert Dixon was convicted of larceny. Dixon is a penitentiary thief. Alas, Dixon we fear you are gone where you will stick for some time longer than to penitentiary.

The following named persons convicted of larceny were brought before Judge Clarke at 3 o'clock yesterday and sentenced: Alfred Redick, convicted of larceny and sentenced to six months hard labor; Robert Dixon, convicted of larceny was sentenced to nine months hard labor; Harriet Nelson, convicted of lareny was sentenced to four months imprisonment; Louisa Moore, convicted of larceny, was sentenced to four months imprisonment, and last, but not least in the category, was that of the ill-fated old man; Hardy Jones, convicted of murder. He was sentenced to be hanged in the jail yard on the 25th day of October next. When the sentence was pronounced the old man's lips seemed to move touchingly and say, "God have mercy." The court room was crowded, mostly colored, and as the last word of the sentence passed the Judge's lips there was one spontaneous groan and shudder of sorrow and horror from the crowd. Mr. Houghton, counsel for the prisoner, took an appeal to the Supreme Court which was granted, and there the case hangs for the present.

Our City Fathers have woken up at last, and are evincing the right spirit by removing the old worn out pumps which have been a disgrace to the city and a public nuisance for many years, and replacing them with substantial, easy-working and cheap ones, viz: the "Cyclober." These pumps throw out more than double the volume of water the old ones did with less labor, and are cheaper if they last but one year as we learn that it will cost less to put in new pumps, warranted for one year, than it has cost, heretofore, to keep the old in good repair. Mr. George Allen is the contractor for furnishing the new pumps, and we congratulate our citizens upon the certainty of having good water, free from animal life, for one year to come, at least.

STATISTICS.

Statesville had frost last Friday.

33 new dwellings going up in Raleigh.

Good water power within one mile of Goldsboro.

The Messenger says it will be impossible to complete the new hotel before the 13th of November.

Judge Warren was stricken down with paralysis a few days ago.

The residence of Mr. Isham Hicks, of Duplin, was destroyed by fire recently.

The Eagle says: "It is rumored that Hickory is to have three more churches in a short time. What a good place it ought to be!"

Charles N. C. has an International Money Order Office.

Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina meets in Charlotte on the 9th proximo.

Some accountants a few days ago cut the abdomen of a horse belonging to a Mr. Killet, of Greene county.

The Barque Ansel, which arrived at Wilmington a few days ago, gives an account of a hurricane at sea, in the Wilmington Star.

Mayor French must have a fearful job on hand. An exchange says he is engaged in cleaning and painting Lambert.

One day last week a small colored boy living at Mr. Abram Winkler's, fell from a load of hay on the prongs of a pitchfork which he held in his hand, and one of the prongs pierced entirely through his neck. He is still living and will probably recover.

Strait Democratic Paper.—On our table we find the first number of the Asheville Democrat, which boasts the name of O'Connor and Adams. The Editor is Mr. Sila Flournoy; the Democrat presents a neat appearance; the editorials are well written, and the Greeley coalition is handled with gloves off. Success to the new organ.

The Spectator says: We observe a call in the Goldsboro Messenger for a mass meeting to be held at Snow Hill, on Tuesday, of the first week of Greene Superior Court, to discuss the feasibility and take the necessary steps for building a railroad from this place to Goldsboro. For several reasons Goldsboro would be the best point for the terminus of a road from here. It is at the junction of three roads and the Greenville branch would pass through Greene county, thus giving the benefit of the assistance of two counties and probably also the aid of one or more of the roads uniting at Goldsboro. We hope Pitt will be well represented in the meeting, and that some practical result will be arrived at. We must have a road, and the Spectator will work earnestly for the success of any and all efforts to supply this need.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

The Reading (Pa.) Journal says: "We know of no Grant man in the whole county that will vote against Hartranft, and we are quite sure that Hartranft's vote will be the largest ever cast for Governor by the Republicans of Berk."

The Richmond Enquirer is disappointed at the news from Vermont and Mass., but says, in closing a jeremiad against New England: "As we must gain political power through the peaceful means of the ballot before we can bring these hangy saints to terms, and to do this we must work."

What better endorsement of Grant's administration, asks the Boston Globe, could be asked for than is found in the fact that when he was inaugurated a hundred dollar six per cent gold bearing bond was worth $92.72 while to-day it is worth $100, and is eagerly sought after in the money markets of the world?"

A wealthy citizen of Hartford, Ct. authorizes the Courant to make the following proposition: "I will bet $5,000 that Gen. Grant will be our next President if he lives. I will also bet $5,000 that he will carry the State of New York, both bets to be taken together, or I will substitute Connecticut for New York—money to be deposited in bank in Hartford."

We give below an extract from a speech of Col. Williamson, of Louisiana, delivered to the Gen'l Grant. Col. Williamson is one of the most intelligent, and one of the wealthiest planters of Louisiana; he was a gallant soldier, and is probably the most popular man in the State with the ex-confederate soldiers. We quote him to be the soul of honor, and some of our friends of the Col's stamp will remember what we predicted to them two years ago. We welcome the Colonel to the fold; and we know the kind of men that are going to follow in his wake. L. M. Adams, Jr. gives Grant and Wilson thirty thousand majority. New Bern.

COL. WILLIAMSON.

His Speech in San Francisco Declaring his Preference for Grant.

"When Horace Greely was nominated by the Cincinnati Convention, when he was afterward induced and nominated by the Baltimore Convention, and when the office to which I was nominated in my State was offered for the purpose of inducing me to see that it was for the best interest of the country to elect Horace Greely, I could not accept the situation; I could not see it in that light. There are thousands of men in the South who think as I do on this subject, who like myself, seeing that the alternative which is presented, is whether we must vote for Horace Greely or for Gen. Grant, will do the honest thing and vote for Grant. When the war was ended we had lost all but honor, but that was intact. When the people of the South, who have lost all in the struggle, are willing to vote for a man who has never fought them like a man, but who has used his talents and powers in vilifying them and in mis-representing them, in stirring up discord and strife, then they must have lost their honor, and that I hope will never be said of Southern men. I do not think they can vote for this man who has been sowing the seeds of sectional strife, the harvest of which we have sadly reaped. Ever since 1840 until he has become an aspirant for the Presidential chair, he has continually misrepresented our people and our character. If he had come upon the battlefield and fought us, as did General Grant, we might have forgiven for this; but the man who stood a long way behind the line of soldiers and muskets, trying to make the people believe that the people of the South were barbarians, that we were uncivilized, and that our women were not virtuous—him we cannot forgive. This miserable low bargain made to sell out our party and our principles, is so obvious that it stinks in the nostrils of all Southern men who profess to be honest and honorable."

Another extract from the same speech:

"Colonel Williamson declared himself a life-long disciple of Calhoun, and boasted of his exploits as a practical secessionist. Deep indignation pervaded the assembly while he declared that he had nothing to recant; that he felt no sorrow for the part he had taken on that issue, and no tears to shed for what he had done during the war. But when he announced that he would as an unrepentant rebel cast his first vote for the war for General Grant, he received a perfect ovation. The San Francisco papers say that the audience fell silent with enthusiasm, and followed their loud cheers with tremendous applause, which continued several minutes. When he alluded to the abuse which Greely had heaped upon his people and his section, the audience were indignant, and when he said it was dishonorable in a Southern man to vote for the traitor of his section, they manifested an affecting sympathy for the wronged South. They made it very evident that loyal distrust of unrepentant rebels is confined entirely to the rebels who voted for Greely, and that it is in their fear, and not the Confederates who support him."

Be Careful.

In these days, when tight hats, hot air, and sedentary occupations, cause the hair to fall out, it is a matter of no little importance to know which of the hair preparations, no of any value. The majority, as has been frequently proved by the first dermatologists, or hair-doctors, possess little or no merit. Such being the fact, it is consulting to those who are afflicted to know that there is one good article, which is recommended and used by the first medical authority, and has stood every test, many years. This preparation is HALL'S VEGE-TABLE SCISSOR HAIR RENEWER, a truly scientific compound, which is unquestionably the best preparation of the kind now before the American public. It will restore to gray hair its original color, cleanse the head thoroughly, cure all eruptions of the scalp, and will always restore the hair so long as any germs remain, as they almost invariably do, until extreme old age has destroyed the root. The original article is made by R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.—Ferry's Press, Jan. 23, 1868.

HAIR-ALIVE.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain, but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure to their more robust and energetic fellow beings.

In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid state of the digestive system, which is the source of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs resting and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterwards into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to), but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitter. Do not waste time in administering temporary remedies, but strike the system up by reimpregnating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their vitality and support.

By the time that a few doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with it the capacity to digest what it craves. Recovery and the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve, and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery phlegm with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

Symptoms of Catarrh.

Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of nasal passages, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, acid, thick and tenacious mucus, purulent, mucous, bloody, putrid, offensive, etc. In others a dryness, dry, watery, weak or inflamed eyes, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, sores from ulcers, constant desire to clear nose and throat, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, tickling cough, hoarseness and insanity.

All of the above symptoms are common to the disease in some of its stages or complications, yet thousands of cases annually terminate in consumption, and end in the grave without ever manifesting one-third of the above symptoms.

No disease is more common or less understood by physicians. The Proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay $500 reward for a case of Catarrh which he cannot cure. Sold by druggists.

The Justice of the Peace rendered by the public years ago in favor of the Mexican Mustard Lincture must be apparent to all who have used that famous preparation or seen it used. Its healing influence is irresistible. The most obstinate forms of neuralgic or rheumatic disease are totally cured by it, and that in an inconceivably short space of time. External injuries or sores, whether of man or beast, as well as all equine or human maladies for which a liniment may be used, are speedily remedied by its use. Remember it is not merely a palliative but an eradicator of disease.
