To the Editor of The Enterprise Sherrill's Ford, N. C., March 4, '92.-A man run a saw mill

A long time ago. If I'm not mistaken. For short his name was Joe. Sawing is a hard job.

And it makes him blow.

And oftimes the water Got mighty low. Of course his progress By this, was very much impeded, And a good shower of rain

Was all that he needed. He sent up petitions For the Lord to raise the creek. The force the water now had Was entirely too weak.

His prayers were answered, But when the shower came He had his saw to sharpen And get in proper frame.

The creek rose sufficient, And time passed on And before he got ready The water was all gone.
