STATE PRIMARY BILL KILLED

The House of Representatives did the Democratic party a good service last Saturday in killing the State-wide primary election bill that had passed the Senate.

SENATOR SIMMONS' VOTE FOR LORIMER

Some of the papers that are antagonistic to Senator Simmons have seized on his vote against the resolution to expel Senator Lorimer from Illinois.

and only on one certain day. but it said the Republicans must do the same thing. Every Republican in both houses opposed it.

Yet the Democratic members who so strenuously tried to pass the bill, undertook to lay down the law as to how the Republicans should nominate their candidates. What right has one party to make rules for the nomination of candidates in another party?

The Western Democrats in the House of Representatives last Saturday saved their party from an embarrassing situation in the next campaign.

The Senate committee that examined the witnesses and weighed all the testimony was composed of seven Republicans and five Democrats. Six of the Republican members of the committee signed a report against the expulsion of the Senator.

The facts in the case are about these: The Illinois Legislature was R. Republican. Senator Hopkins had been nominated for reelection in a State-wide primary.

John Fox was allowed $30 for building bridge in Cline's township. Holdbrooks and Seagle were awarded contract to complete bridge at Mt. Creek Mill for sum of $120.

Court cost for February term were ordered to be paid. Lucinda Christopher was allowed $1.00 per month for support.

W. S. Stroupe was allowed $1.00 for service in laying out road near Brookford. Settlement was made with county treasurer as follows:

Those who voted to unseat Lorimer had to conscientiously believe that Lorimer, as the beneficiary of the bribery, must have had knowledge of it.

to the latter conclusion. He would have been unworthy to be a Senator from North Carolina or any other State, if he had voted against Lorimer convinced as he was of his innocence.
