THE RESCUE OF COTTON

Harding Tells What The Administration Has Done for The South.

Washington, April 22.—W. P. G. Harding, member of the federal reserve board, in a letter to J. L. Hughes, of the Southern club of Chicago, a copy of which was made public here tonight, tells at great length what the Wilson administration, through Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, did for the south during the past nine months, which he characterizes as one of the most "desperate" situations that he had ever seen in his 28 years of banking experience.

Among the things done by Mr. McAdoo, as enumerated by Mr. Harding, was his recommendation of a bureau of war risk insurance; worked for a government owned merchant marine and looked with favor upon the establishment of a cash fund of $100,000,000 to be subscribed by the banks throughout the non-cotton producing states out of which loans should be made on cotton.

"Under the conditions that prevailed last fall," said Mr. Harding, "the creation of a fund of this magnitude to be loaned upon a commodity which was then regarded as unmarketable, was a tremendous undertaking, but Secretary McAdoo devoted all of his energy and ability to the task. In the face of enormous odds he was successful, and as soon as it became evident that he would succeed in raising the fund, a demand for cotton, at prices slightly above the loan value fixed, sprang up and this demand has continued without intermission, so that the best grades are now selling in the south at around 10 cents per pound, a price, which in the opinion of experts, is as great as would have obtained had there been no war. While the benefit of the cotton loan was, therefore, confined to its moral effect, it was unquestionably a great factor in restoring confidence and in inviting a movement of cotton which has developed beyond all expectations.

"Having lived in the south all my life and having been engaged in the banking business 28 years before coming to Washington last summer, I feel warranted in saying that I have never seen a situation in the south, apparently so desperate as that which existed last fall, that was worked out as rapidly and satisfactorily; and I wish to say that never before within my recollection has a secretary of the treasury devoted as much time and energy to the solution of southern problems, nor shown such knowledge of and sympathetic interest in the necessities of that section. The relief afforded the south by Secretary McAdoo was intelligent and effective and the spirit of helpfulness was restrained only by the limitations of law and obligations of his oath of office. The deeds and motives of the administration will be more and more appreciated in the south with the passing of time."

LOAN FUND WORKS WELL.

Durham, April 22.—A statement of the showing made at the end of the first year's operation of the employees' loan fund of the Durham Hosiery mills shows that the fund has over $5,000 on hand and that it has made loans amounting to $3,912.19. Of this amount only $7.86 has been lost on account of people getting the money failing to return it.

This is a new feature to the profit-sharing plans of the mills. It has been wonderfully successful, according to the statement that was made at the end of the first year by S. F. Darnell, secretary and treasurer of the loan fund.

The fund was started by the mills, which set aside certain amounts of its profits for the benefit of the employees of the mill. This amount during the past four years has run well beyond the $5,000 mark. A year ago it was decided to start a loan feature in order to put this money belonging to the people of the mill at work.

The Enterprise and a thirty-page War Atlas both for $1.00.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE MAN

The Greatest American of Modern Time.

Whatever fate may hold in store for Wilson, president of the United States, history can never refuse to do him justice when it deals with his conduct of the greatest and most trying crisis that has ever confronted an American executive. We do not even except the frightful test met and passed by the martyred Lincoln, for the latter had a certain course mapped, by himself and others, and followed it. The lamented Lincoln could not have evaded the responsibilities thrust upon him; he made history as it shaped itself before him.

But President Wilson sails an uncharted sea, will only his own counsels and wisdom to guide him. A lightly uttered word, a course taken without weighing in full its probable consequences, may land him on the shoals at any moment. Consider his situation with its endless and ever-going perplexities for a moment, and you will fully realize the splendid calibre of the man who holds the destinies of this nation in his keeping. With the most powerful nations of Europe, each and all of them, viewing the president's every word and deed with jealous suspicion; with their constant tendencies to distort and misconstrue his policies, must we not admit that a truly great sense of justice, and above all, the highest type of patriotism at all times accurate the president and the man? Must we not acknowledge that to be neutral in thought, word, action and principle requires greater courage, and a keener sense of true diplomacy than battlefield or statecraft can ever demand?

With this magnificent example to inspire us, should we not lend a willing ear to the president's constant and heartfelt appeals to his people to the end that they might trust and sustain him until that moment when his policies and principles shall triumph? And that day must surely dawn, a day when Woodrow Wilson will stand revealed as the greatest American of modern times, a leader of his people who stood unflinchingly by the helm in the country's darkest hours, and steered it safely into a port of safety and honor.—Asheville Citizen.

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, The Statement of This Newton Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips? That's the home of backache. If it's caused by the kidneys, use Doan's Kidney Pills. Newton people testify to their worth. Read a case of it:

H. C. Horn, prop. barber shop, College St., Newton, says: "I had pains in the small of my back and it hurt me to stoop; my work which required bending made the trouble worse. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. One box removed the trouble and I have had no return attack."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Propst had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Advt.

The Hay Farmer's Chance.
The average price paid to producers of hay in North Carolina for last month was $17.80 per ton—the highest price paid to farmers outside New England and the North. Similar good prices have ruled in North Carolina throughout the last five years.

There is money in raising it to sell; but an enormous loss in buying it to feed farm animals. In fact, the farmer pays around $30 a ton for hay when he buys it at time-prices. In the census year, more than a third of the farmers in North Carolina bought hay and other feed for farm animals, and spent for that purpose $1,151,000. The feed tax averaged $41.00 per farm. No other tax our farmers paid was heavier than this.—University News Letter.

ABOUT READY TO BEGIN

Britain Orders Cessation of Shipping With Holland.

London, April 22.—Glowing accounts of the strength and condition of the British army and of the great increase in the output of munitions, which it is expected, next month will amount to 25 times what it was last September, given by David Lloyd George, Chancellor, of the Exchequer and Harold J. Tennant, Parliamentary Secretary of the War Office, in the House of Commons, have increased enthusiasm and confidence of the people of England in the war.

Supplementing the Chancellor's statement that Great Britain has more than 36 divisions of troops on the Continent and that the output of munitions has increased enormously, Mr. Tennant today speaking on behalf of the Secretary for War, Lord Kitchener, declared that recruiting had been most satisfactory and gratifying; that the health of the troops was splendid, and that the wounded were in the London hospitals 24 hours after they were stricken in France. He wished to impress on the country the necessity of increasing the supplies of artillery ammunition, adding:

"There is no limit to the amount required."
The frankness of the Cabinet Ministers in making known the number of men at the front, and reports that reach London from various sources have convinced the people that at last the big effort against Germany and Turkey is about to commence. Both in the Aegean and North Seas there are signs of increasing activity. From today all steamboat communication with Holland is stopped by order of the British government.

Taken in connection with the news from Berlin that British submarines have been in the Bight of Heligoland, where the German admiralty lays claim to having sunk one, and perhaps more, this is believed to foreshadow some movement in the North Sea; while there is no longer any endeavor to hide the fact that a big Anglo-French force is prepared to go, as General O'Amade the French commander, has said, "to any point where it is required."

A HOPEFUL FORECAST

Emergence of Spiritual Forces After the War.

President Wilson, in a speech last Thursday, predicted that there would be an emergence of the spiritual forces directly following the war. This belief is common among all thoughtful observers. It is natural that this should be the result. The war was brought on by materialism. This means that the achievement of the intellect produced the conditions that brought on the bloody conflict; and the natural result would be a revulsion against these materialistic forces.

What is meant by this emergence of the spiritual forces? Simply that the affairs of nations will be governed by kindness, good will, unselfishness, brotherly love, temperance, faith and the other fruits of the spirit. This will eliminate hate, oppression, envy, overbearance and the struggling selfishness that results in enmities. This is infusing humanity with a sense of friendship which will take the place of war.

This is no dream. Its culmination will come as quietly as the spring come. It will be an answer to the prayer of humanity and the only promise of a continuing civilization. In no age of the world has mankind been nearer the realization of Christ's mission on earth than it is today. The lesson of it has been costly, but the learning of it will shed a radiance over all the earth.

And the end is not far off. Already the terms are discussed. The only fear is that the anxiety to stop the shedding of blood will result in terms that will embody much of the old materialism that brought on the strife originally. What we want is the brotherhood of nations and the parliament of the world. All else will be mere headache medicine.—Ohio State Journal.

ANOTHER ROOSEVELT RIVER

Progressives Will Not Agree to Return to Stand-Pat Practice.

The Philadelphia Record has observed that "the Republican spirit of reaction which is just now doing so much to restore New York to the Democratic fold, has been hardly less active in a number of Western States, and is exciting general comment. In Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa the tendency has been marked, the G. O. P. showing a much greater interest in grabbing offices and undoing progressive legislation than in anything else. In Ohio this retrograde movement has been especially pronounced. While the G. O. P. Governor seeks to oust Democratic officials solely on the ground that they are 'not in sympathy with a Republican Administration,' the Legislature aims to blot out much of the progress made in recent years."

Two statesmen who have come into a thorough appreciation of these facts are Senator Borah and Colonel Roosevelt. The former's recent statement in Washington, which the correspondent of the New York Sun declares is "one of broad political significance," gives rise to the opinion that Borah "intends to speak his mind plainly against efforts that may be made to commit the Republican party to a pronounced reactionary program and that he desires to be freed of any trammels that would result from his announced candidacy for the nomination." Likewise it is inferred from the fact of the conferences between the two, that the Colonel will soon be found in line with Borah "supporting with all his vigor and resourcefulness just such a move as is now crystallizing within the Republican party."

Manifestly the Progressive element of the Republican party will make a determined stand against the drift toward a return to the political methods of a dead past, and that the split in the party is far from having been patched up. As the Colonel discovered the River of Doubt for the country, he seems to be in a fair way to discover the River of Trouble for the G. O. P.—Charlotte Observer.

WHY WILSON IS NEUTRAL IN W. R.

Not Looking For a Scrap, But Will Not Walk Around Trouble.

"My interest in the neutrality of the United States is not the petty desire to keep out of trouble. I have never looked for it, but I have always found it. I do not want to walk around trouble. If any man wants a scrap that is an interesting scrap and worth while, I am his man. I warn him that he is not going to draw me into the scrap for his advertisement, but if he is looking for trouble and that is the trouble of men in general and I can help a little, why then I am in for it. But I am interested in neutrality because there is something so much greater to do than fight, because there is something, there is a distinction waiting for this nation that no nation has ever got. That is the distinction of absolute self-control and self-mastery. Whom do you admire most among your friends? The irritable man? The man out of whom you can get a 'rise' without trying? The man who will fight at the drop of the hat whether he knows what the hat is dropped for, or not?"

ADMIRE SELF-MASTERED
"Don't you admire and don't you fear if you have to contest with him, the self-mastered man who watches you with a calm eye and comes in only when you have carried the thing so far that you must be disposed of? That is the man you must respect. That is the man you know has at the bottom much more fundamental and terrible courage than the irritable fighting man."

Only one Englishman has ever been elected pope of Rome.

WOMEN'S CLOTHES

If Women Dressed as of Old, Cotton Prices Would Soar.

Men are such inconsiderate creatures. While woman, economical woman, is endeavoring to reduce to nil the amount of her wearing apparel, man, unthinking man, complains of the high cost of living. Some of the skirts of today seem to carry ad infinitum the policy of reduction ad absurdum.

Suppose man, in these war-frenzied times, had to pay for the dresses of the Elizabethan period! With cloth as expensive as it is today only one member of the family at a time could be clothed in regle. We saw some months ago in "the movies" the remarkable pictures of Elizabeth, Queen Bess, as portrayed by Sarah Bernhardt. What dresses she wore!

Fairholt, in his "History of Costume in England," thus describes Elizabeth, according to sketches from Walpole—"a sharp-eyed lady with aquiline nose, red hair, loaded with jewels, an enormous ruff, a baster farthingale (the hooped dress of the period), and a bushel of pearls bestowed over the entire figure."

These and such like were worn by Bernhardt in her impersonation. Panche in a confirmatory note with reference to the dress of good Queen Bess, describes "the great ruff, the jewelled stomacher and the pretentious petticoats strutting out with tremendous importance."
A few days ago we saw in some of the northern papers a portrait of Mary Todd Lincoln, the President's wife, in the frock she wore at the inauguration ball. In those inlustrous days there was enough cotton in one costume of my lady's wardrobe to furnish the gun cotton for firing one of Krupp's vastest Jess Willards' as the biggest guns in the world are now known.

Man, be content. To be sure, some of these latter day costumes make woman as much of a "fright" as in those good old days long gone—but think of the saving as computed in yards of cloth.—Columbia Record.
