J. Hadley Mayer Will With Marry Miss Whitsett

(Greensboro News Sunday)

Mrs. William Thornton Whitsett, of Whitsett, announces the engagement of her daughter, Carrie Brewer, to Joseph Hadley Mayer, of Greensboro. The marriage will take place in late June.

This engagement will be of cordial interest in all parts of the state, both families being prominently known in North Carolina. The bride-elect is the younger daughter of Mr. Carrie Brewer Whitsett and the late Dr. William Thornton Whitsett, of Whitsett. Her father was an eminent educator, lecturer and historian, one of Guilford's best beloved and most influential citizens.

Miss Whitsett completed three years of study at Woman's college of the University of North Carolina and has a wide circle of friends in Greensboro. She is a native of Whitsett.

The bridegroom-elect is the elder son of Judge and Mrs. Johnson J. Hayes, of 1511 Alagdale road, Irvin park. His father is judge of the United States court, middle district, and for several years has made his home in Greensboro.

A native of Wilkesboro, Mr. Hayes attended Wake Forest college and the University of North Carolina. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The marriage, which had been planned as a formal church ceremony June 30, will, due to the recent death of the bride's father, be a very quiet and simple service at the Whitsett home. It will take place on the date originally set.

Mr. and Mrs. Marley are former residents of Wilkesboro and have many friends here who note the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with pleasure.

Rev. N. T. Jarvis, of Roaring River, filled the regular appointment of the pastor at Sweet Home last Saturday at 2:30. Rev. W. F. Lawrence preached Sunday.
