

This Week In Washington

Washington, August 7. (Auto-entire)—The United States has more aircraft than any other nation, more than twice as many miles in its regular air routes for passengers and merchandise, and its aviators fly more than 50 million miles a year, which is more than twice the mileage flown by the airmen of any other nation. Our Government spends twice as much money as any other in promoting civil aviation. Our Navy has superb flying equipment and a magnificent record. Our Army, however, is poorly equipped in the air, both in material and personnel. Something ought to be done about that.

That is the summary of the report of the War Department's special aviation committee, headed by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and including ten other distinguished men, civilian and military.

No scandals were uncovered by the committee, nothing but the refusal of Congress to give the Army the money it asked for to buy planes and train its officers and enlisted men to fly. The next great war, the report says, will begin with an encounter between aircraft of opposing nations, and we ought to be ready for it.

Dirigibles and Planes

Nothing is said in the report about dirigibles. There is a lot of talk going around that the great dirigible, like the Los Angeles and the Macon, are failures. Navy men don't admit that. The Los Angeles is being retired from service because of age; she was built in Germany and flown to this country in 1923, as one of our prizes of war.

It looks now as if the next Congress will be urgently requested to authorize the building of 2,320 Army airplanes, the number that the Baker committee recommends as necessary. Not that anybody expects the United States to engage in a war with anybody, but just in case.

This Baker report is significant in that it suggests, without saying so, that international relations between the United States and other nations are not all that they should be. Nobody mentions Japan when talking about the next war—not for publication, at any rate—but a lot of people are casting more attentive eyes toward the Pacific than at any time in our history. The President's "amity" broadcast from Honolulu may or may not have the effect of convincing Japan that our intentions toward her are entirely friendly. Everybody in official circles in Washington knows that there is a strong war party in Japan that would like to get into a scrap with us.

Tariff Under Study

That situation is not allayed by the growing restiveness of business men and manufacturers, expressed in some rather hot communications to Administration officials, over the continuing invasion of our markets by cheap Japanese goods. The Administration believes in letting reasonable quantities of Japanese goods in without raising the duties, on the theory that that will result in strengthening the Japanese market for American goods.

The whole scheme of the tariff is under intensive study, by the State Department and other Federal offices. Secretary Wallace is working closely with Secretary Hull in planning where and by how much to reduce tariffs. Not much publicity is being given to their discussions with other nations. They are keeping a great deal of the discussion secret because they do not want to stir up a storm of opposition from American manufacturers who fear their business will be injured. When the final agreements are announced, however, it is likely the storm will burst.

The policy on tariffs, so far as any part of it has been disclosed, is to ditch the old "protective" tariff principle entirely, or almost entirely, and by letting foreign goods in free of duty or nearly so, create reciprocal markets for American surpluses in the countries so favored. In one sense it is the old "reciprocity" scheme fathered in the first instance fifty years ago by James G. Blaine, and later strongly advocated by President McKinley. Because something of the sort was sponsored by those two stalwart Republicans, the present Administration thinks a good deal of the curse will be taken off.

The Trade in Goods

As it is figured out here, we must lure in about $200,000,000 a year more of foreign goods than we now import, in the hope of selling more than that volume of American goods abroad. There are about 600 manufactured commodities very highly protected by present tariffs. Rates on many of these are expected to be reduced. There is where the shoe will pinch hardest. At the other end of the scale, there are about 400 commodities which we do not produce, on which tariffs can be

The whole scheme of the world's development was changed by the course of nature. As the ice began to melt, people followed it back northward. It is still receding and population is moving farther northward every year.

In more recent times the drought which turned the mid-Asian plateau into a desert drove great hordes of Asiatic people westward into Europe. The Turks, the Hungarians and the Finns are among the survivors of that old Asiatic stock.

It is not likely that any such great movement of population will occur in our time, but it is possible, if the drought continues.

MORGENTHAU DEFIES BOOTLEGGING CROWD

Washington, Aug. 6.—Secretary Morgenthau today told the nation's bootleggers if they licked him he was not only willing to "admit it" but "I'm also willing to go home."

That the secretary of the treasury doesn't anticipate quitting his job was evident with the announcement of the supervisory personnel of alcohol tax units in 15 newly organized districts, and disclosure that 1,301 enforcement investigators were already in the field.

The unit's total force is to be brought up to 5,000 to see that all sellers of alcoholic beverages pay Uncle Sam the tax.

In the past the treasury's efforts against bootlegging have been attended by quite a bit of difficulty, but Morgenthau said flatly that even in the days before prohibition "we have absolute evidence that the treasury didn't really try to enforce the law."

"I'm not leaving a stone unturned to suppress the manufacture of non-tax paid liquor," he added, "we haven't really got started."

"If the bootleggers lick me at this job, I'm willing to admit it. I'm willing also to go home."

The tax unit is headed by Arthur J. Mellott, deputy commissioner of the internal revenue, with Capt. William R. Sayles, assistant deputy commissioner in charge of the regulative section. A chief for the permissive section has not been chosen.

All the investigators, Morgenthau said, were already civil service employees, having been in the prohibition bureau or the old treasury bureau of industrial alcohol before these agencies were consolidated.

Promotions to administrative positions, wherever possible, have been made from the ranks, the secretary told reporters.

The administrative posts pay from $3,800 to $6,500 and investigators' salaries run from $2,600 to $2,900.

RESIDENT OF SURRY IS FATALLY WOUNDED

Mount Airy, Aug. 5.—Frank Potts, 48, Surry county man, was shot and fatally wounded, allegedly by Arthur Wright, 30, at Wright's home in the Pine Ridge section of Surry county this afternoon. Following the shooting Wright was so badly cut with a knife wielded by Amos Potts, 21-year-old son of the slain man, that his recovery is doubtful. Ill feeling of long standing between Wright and the elder Potts is said to have led to the tragedy.

New Zealand's death rate is only one-half of that of the United States.

trification is one of the big objectives of the state Grange and every one interested in securing this modern convenience for their homes, school houses and churches should lend their cooperation. Pomona Master J. M. German advises us that he attended a farmers meeting in Raleigh last week and that prospects are very encouraging for the State Grange Convention to be held in North Wilkesboro next year.

RFC ESCAPES BITTER CRITICISM AS MONEY ROLLS INTO COFFERS

Washington, Aug. 6.—While few loans are being made to private industry, as authorized by Congress, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, directed by Jesse Jones, of Texas, is about the only major activity of the government that is not under sharp criticism from partisan sources.

The corporation is being given considerable prominence, due to the fact that the flow of money, just now, is in repayments instead of out. In other words, the loans being made to aid agriculture, banks and trust companies, railroads, mortgage loan companies, building and loan associations are being repaid more rapidly than new loans are being made.

Business Trend Index

In one way operation of the corporation is a correct index to the business trend. As a lending agency it is required by law to have loans adequately secured.

The heavy borrowers have been banks and trust companies, with railroads a good second. During the fiscal year ending June 30 the corporation advanced $1,615,000,000 in loans in excess of the repayments; however, in July it received in repayments $116,000,000 more than it loaned. It is not expected that the inflow of funds will continue to show an excess over outgoing loans, but there is belief that as payments become due they will be met promptly.

Canada is larger than the United States and Alaska combined.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath and taste, gas, distension, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, pills, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all. Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25¢ at drug stores. Refuse "something just as good" for it may gripe, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. © 1933, C. M. Co.
