Federal Income For Year Passes Billion Dollars

Collections Exceed Those of Like 1933 Era By $271,000,000

Washington, Oct. 8.—The nation's rising revenues for the current fiscal year today passed the billion dollar mark—$271,000,000 ahead of 1933—and treasury officials looked about for omens of recovery that would further increase the gain.

Although conflicting developments obscured the view, signs that were interpreted in government circles as encouraging were not lacking.

From acting Governor Thomas of the federal reserve board came word that the quality of applications for direct federal loans to industry was improving. The September 26 total of $7,676,000 of outstanding and approved loans commitments was increasing steadily, he said.

At the same time, the reconstruction corporation reported that its direct industrial loans approved under the new law, plus similar advances through mortgage companies under old authority, had reached $31,860,825.

Demand For Small Coins
Freight car loadings for the week ending September 29, as reported today by the American Railway association, showed a normal seasonal rise of 1,527 cars above the preceding week, although 24,539, below the same period last year.

Some government officials were inclined to place emphasis on a report from the mint showing a greater demand for small coins than at any time since December, 1929. The output for September was 44,253,229 pieces with a value of $4,355,069. In some circles the fact that these had gone into circulation with virtually no increase in the mints' reserves was pointed to as a sign of improving business.

Treasury officials were especially pleased with today's reported rise in income tax receipts from $165,044,918 to $216,739,304 and the $66,000,000 gain in miscellaneous internal revenue which brought the figure to $489,000,906.

Methodist Delegates Hear Unity Stressed

Baltimore, Oct. 10.—American Methodism's three branches, united here today to celebrate the founding of the parent branch 150 years ago, heard church leaders speak for unification and prepared for tomorrow's "unification day" program.

More than 1,200 delegates and hundreds of visitors heard Rev. James H. Straughn, D. D., Baltimore minister and Maryland church leader, warn the churchmen that "laymen are becoming utterly weary of dissensions in the Methodist family."

Though the celebration was planned primarily in commemoration of the sesqui-centennial of Methodism, the note of unity has been sounded by leaders of all three branches of the church. The four-day meeting is expected to result in great progress towards a united church.

Charlotte Ford Branch Reopens

The Ford Motor Company has reopened its branch at Charlotte, North Carolina in order to extend and improve its service to dealers in North and South Carolina and through them to the public. This move on the part of the company is seen as an indication of its faith in this section and is a reflection of the substantially improved economic conditions which now prevail throughout the southeastern part of the country.

The formal opening was celebrated at a luncheon on Wednesday, October 10th, at which H. C. Doss, of Ford Motor Company headquarters at Dearborn, introduced the new management to as many dealers in the territory as could attend.

W. C. Patterson, long connected with the Ford organization and recently assistant manager of the company's Chicago branch, has been named manager of the Charlotte branch. He will be assisted by N. A. Oliver, who formerly held a similar position with the company's Norfolk, Virginia, branch.

The Charlotte branch, covering all of South Carolina and approximately half of North Carolina, will coordinate dealer activities in this region and strengthen the company's service set-up to the advantage generally of Ford owners in this territory.

The new arrangement will also be instrumental in insuring rapid deliveries of new equipment to business firms requiring trucks and commercial cars as well as to purchasers of passenger cars.

The re-opening of the Charlotte branch comes at a time when this territory has shown substantial gains and when not only Ford business, but commercial activity of all kinds, has been very favorable throughout this region of the country.

The significance of the Ford Motor Company branch to Charlotte and to this section of the south is obvious. Not only will it necessitate the employment of additional persons by the Ford Motor Company in Charlotte, but it will add one more to the already impressive list of large companies maintaining branches in this section. Moreover, it will testify once again to the regard in which American business holds one of the south's most important and most progressive business centers.
