Today and Tomorrow

ADVERTISING . . . The Times I have just been looking over the 150th anniversary edition of the London Times, founded in 1785. The Times is the most independent and one of the most prosperous newspapers in the world. It has never tied itself up with any party or group of political leaders, but has given its powerful support to whatever person or party seemed at the moment to be in the best position to further the interests of the people of England, and had the soundest program.

Explaining its independence, The Times points out that it is due to its great variety of advertisers. A newspaper must have support outside of what it gets from sales of the paper. It can only get that support from political subsidies or from advertising. If it accepts a subsidy it cannot be independent. But no single advertiser can be powerful enough to influence the paper's policies.

Advertisers don't care what a paper's policies are; they only want to know that it reaches readers who are able to buy their wares. American newspapers generally understand and are guided by that principle, but the London Times was the first to discover it.

SILVER . . . Foods. A great many people are professing surprise that the higher price of silver resulting from our national policy of remonetizing the white metal is causing economic distress in China. I question the extent of that distress: I think it more likely that it is the bankers in the treaty ports who are in distress than the people of China generally. But leaving that aside, the real purpose behind the Government's silver program, as I understand it, was not to benefit China but to protect the industries of the United States against the inflow of cheap textiles and other commodities which the low price of silver made it possible for the Orient to ship in here over the highest tariff wall we could erect.

I am inclined to agree with Earle Martin, editor of the Cleveland News, that a prime move toward solving our agricultural problem would be to prohibit entirely the importation of any food, clothing or raw materials which we can produce in the United States.

HEALTH . . . very good. Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, of the U. S. Public Health Service, reports that the nation's death-rate for 1933 was the lowest yet. That seems to blow up the common charge of the uninformed that thousands of people are dying of starvation in the United States.

Dr. Cumming doesn't say so, but I have a shrewd suspicion that more people die every year from overeating than from undernourishment.

Incidentally, don't get the surgeon-general mixed up with the attorney-general. Their names are very much alike. The head of the department of justice is Homer S. Cummings (with an "s").

Worry kills more people of middle and advanced age than all of the infectious and preventable diseases. So the recent convention of Life Insurance presidents was told. Old age pensions might prolong many lives. My own observation leads me to believe that nobody really knows much about keeping himself in good health until he has reached the age where whatever he does doesn't matter much.

PEACE . . . and war. I met the young son of a friend the other day, all dressed up in a gorgeous uniform. He had just been promoted Captain, he said, of the Knickerbocker Greys, the cadet corps which serves as a training school for officers of New York's Seventh Regiment.

"Don't they teach you in school that war is wrong?" I asked him.

"Not on your life!" he replied. "My school teaches that every good citizen ought to be ready to fight. Gee! I hope I'll get a chance to go to war some day!"

The boy may have his wish. If there's anything to the law of averages. In the past 158 years the United States has been engaged in six major wars, averaging about 26 1-2 years apart. The last one ended late in 1918. That would make the next one due about 1944.

The history of human progress is after all, mainly a history of war. Put two contradictory national cultures in close juxtaposition and sooner or later they'll fight.

"DON JUAN" IS DOUG'S MOST LAVISH FILM

"The Private Life of Don Juan," which brings Doug Fairbanks to the Liberty Theatre Monday and Tuesday, clinches the athletic star's long-standing preference for films with Spanish themes and backgrounds, which began with "Mark of Zorro" and followed through in "Don Q," "The Gaucho" and "The Black Pirate." The most pretentious production is the sensational success, "The Private Life of Don Juan," a swashbuckling romantic comedy from the pen of Frederick Lonsdale. Doug and Benita Hume are shown above from a scene in the picture and Doug is his old self again. On the same program, Cab Calloway and his orchestra will be seen in their latest comedy, "Jitterbug Party."

Glenn H. Church Is Wreck Victim

Elkin Man Was Brother of Mrs. Numa S. Forester, Jr., of This City

Elkin, Jan. 27.—Funeral services for Glenn Hege Church, 28, who met instant death Thursday in an auto accident near Emporia, Va., were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were held at the home of the parents of the deceased, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Church, on Gwyn avenue. Interment was in Hollywood cemetery.

Mr. Church had been employed by a Virginia motor company for some time. The accident occurred when the car in which he and a business associate were riding left the road and struck a tree near Emporia, Va. His companion was said to have been drinking.

The local man was thrown nearly 30 feet by the impact and suffered a crushed skull. The driver was thrown into an icy ditch, and was seriously injured. The body was sent here early Friday morning.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Church, three sisters, and two brothers, Mrs. Robert Smith, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Numa S. Forester, Jr., of North Wilkesboro; R. Edward Church, Mrs. Paul Price and Clay Church, of Elkin.

State Poultry Growers Have Ideal Conditions

North Carolina is well adapted for poultry production on a large scale, says Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at N. C. State College.

The climate is conducive to poultry and the soils produce economically the basic feed such as corn, wheat, oats, and barley. The fisheries on the coast supply an abundance of fish meal and menhaden oil. The well developed milling industry is another advantage, he says.

Another important factor is the nearness to markets, he points out. The State itself is a large consumer of poultry products and the large metropolitan markets are within an overnight haul.

But the industry will not thrive, he adds, unless poultrymen follow the methods of scientific and progressive poultry raising.

One of the most important factors is that of breeding, he says. Among the important characteristics transmitted from parent to offspring are egg size, persistency of production, early feathering, and early maturity.

Good breeding is not an accident, but the result of careful studies of the flock, trap-nesting, record keeping, pedigreeing, and careful management.

There is a shortage of superior hatching eggs, Dearstyne says, and small flock owners have an opportunity to market all the eggs they can produce from high grade birds. If the flock is inferior, Dearstyne recommends that all eggs be sold for food purposes and chicks from superior eggs be used in starting next year's flock.

If he does this, the poultryman can then enter the superior egg market and command the higher prices paid for high grade hatching eggs.

Large Number of Stills Are Destroyed in North Carolina

Raleigh, Jan. 24.—Federal agents captured more stills, in North Carolina during the week ending January 12 than in any of the other three states and District of Columbia which compose the fifth district of the alcohol control division, T. E. Patton, acting investigator in charge of this state, announced today.

Tar Heel stills also led in capacity and the most mash, 57,400 gallons, was seized in this state, leading all others in the district combined.

Twenty-seven stills were destroyed in North Carolina as compared with 16 in Virginia, 11 in Maryland, four in West Virginia and none in the District of Columbia.

Let Exemptions Stand

Vigorous opposition to a sales tax on essential foods, under consideration of the General Assembly, was voiced yesterday by Dr. R. L. Carlton, Winston-Salem health officer. "If our legislature votes a tax on bread and milk, as it now appears will be done, it will be a disgraceful act," he said.

Sales Levy Breaks Records in January

Heaviest Collection For Single Month; Fiscal Year Receipts Are Ahead of Last Year

Raleigh, Jan. 26.—The state's 8 per cent general sales tax, now the hub of discussions by the legislators, has broken all records in January for collections for a single month, while receipts for the current fiscal year are 44.19 per cent ahead of a year ago.

The tax which a group of its opponents proposed to supplant with revenue from liquor sales today before the joint finance committee of the general assembly has netted the state $4,583,134.90 since last July, or an increase of $1,265,457.76 over the $3,317,677.14 to February 1, 1934.

The January collections to date total $873,016 as compared with $811,000 for the entire corresponding month in 1934, setting a new record for a single month's receipts. The record stands to increase considerably with five days remaining this month for collections. Officials estimated today the tax will yield more than $1,000,000 before February 1.

FEEL TIRED, ACHEY—'ALL WORN OUT?'

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

IS a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorders permit poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisons. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amounting when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remotest substitute. Secret drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.
