Why burn the woods? This is a question that farmers should ask themselves every day, says R. W. Graeber, extension forester at State college. "The practice of burning off woodlands is one of the most harmful customs we have inherited from the days of 'frontier farming'," Graeber declares Fires burning through timber ands kill young seedlings, seriously damage saplings, and check the growth of big trees, he points out, to say nothing of the destruction of humus and leaf matter in the soil. Sometimes big fires kill even the mature giants of the forest. A study of one forest area which has been ravaged by three fires during the past 20 years showed that the growth of the trees had been set back a total of 11 years. Burning off broom sage does

Judge J. Crawford Biggs Resigns Post as Solicitor General; to Practice Law

Washington, March 16 .- Following reports that such a step might be looked for in the near future, Judge J Crawford Biggs today formally tendered his resignation as solicitor general of the United States. In communicating his resignation to the President, Judge Biggs pointed out that he had notified the attorney general a year ago of his intention to relinquish his official duties this spring. Judge Biggs is to engage in the practice of law in this city. His duties in the justice department will probably be performed in the future by Stanley Reed, RFC attorney, who aided the government in presenting the gold cases to the supreme court. Judge Biggs informed North Carolina friends that he expected to be relieved of his departmental duties within the next few days, and it is understood that he has established a lucrative and attractive law connection here.

Water Removes Salt Rat Odor Fron: Corn

The objectionable rat odor frequently found on ear corn at this time of year can be removed by soaking the ears in salt water. Salt water also increases the palatability of both the grain and the cob, says R. H. Ruffner, professor of animal husbandry and dairying at State College. A soaking solution can be made by putting in one teaspoonful of salt for each gallon of water, he says. Corn placed in soak at one feeding time will be ready for use at the next.

Since all animals need a certain amount of salt in their diet. he continues, the salt absorbed by the corn and the cobs will have a beneficial effect on the stock.

"Pains Gone," Says Lady, After She

Had Taken CARDUI In describing how her health improved after she had taken Cardui, Mrs. Ralph R. Courtney, of Wytheville, Va., said: "I was run-down and suffered from pain in my side. I wanted to feel well and get rid of the pain in my side, so I sent for Cardui and began taking it. By the time I had taken three bottles of Cardui I was feeling much better. The pains had gone. I am very glad to recommend Cardui to other young women." . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician, #1 a bottle, at drug stores.
