

Commencement Prizes Offered

Business Firms Offer Attractive Awards For Wilkesboro District

Six coveted prizes offered by business firms of this city are expected to stimulate much interest in the Wilkesboro district seventh grade commencement to be held at the courthouse in Wilkesboro Saturday.

M. F. Bumgarner is chairman of the literary program committee and he has written the following letter to principals in the district. The letter explains fully the contests:

With the fine assistance of our county and high school superintendents and six business firms of North Wilkesboro, six generous prizes have been secured for our recitation and declamation contests to be held at the courthouse on Saturday, May 4. Please see that one boy and one girl from your school is prepared to enter the respective contests and to compete for these prizes. Six boys and girls will be the proud winners of these prizes—why should not yours be among the number? Please do not forget to send me the names of your representatives as soon as possible, so that I will have them ready for the program.

The participants in the class exercise were selected from those making the highest grades in the state examination. They are as follows:

- Peggy Semers, valedictorian. Baxter Davis, salutatorian. Charlotte Harvell, president's address.

Milton Ferguson, poet. Anelia Ballew, prophet. Bobby Laws, testator.

These business firms in North Wilkesboro have generously donated prizes for the contest:

- Recitation Contest: First prize, Bank of North Wilkesboro, $5.00. Second prize, J. C. Penney Co., 3.00. Third prize, Spainhour-sydnor Co., 1.00.

Declamation Contest: First prize, Deposit & Savings Bank, $5.00. Second prize, Prevette's store, 3.00. Third prize, Abshers, Inc., 1.00.

I am sure we are going to have a grand time at our Wilkesboro group commencement on May 4. Let each of us turn every stone necessary to make the literary program a real success.

HELEN HAYES AND ROBERT MONTGOMERY IN "VANESSA," AT LIBERTY THURSDAY

Robert Montgomery and Helen Hayes in "Vanessa: Her Love Story"

Two of the cinema's most brilliant stars Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery, came on to the screen of the Liberty Theatre, one day only Thursday in one of the season's outstanding photoplays. It is "Vanessa, Her Love Story" adaptation of Hugh Walpole's saga of the spectacular Herries family. Brimming with romance, rich with the idealistic sweetness of the last generation, the story tells the tender tale of a woman who, loving a young man with all the blind adoration of youth, is persuaded to accept marriage with another. Attention is brought by the management of the Liberty that "Vanessa" is playing only one day, Thursday and your plans should now be made not to miss seeing this very fine attraction.

'World's All Right' Is Delightful Play

Presented By Local Talent at School Auditorium Thursday and Friday

"The World's All Right," master stage production presented in the school auditorium on Thursday and Friday nights under auspices of the American Legion and Auxiliary, proved to be highly entertaining to the audiences.

The scene of the play was woven around the efforts of a radio station owner to carry on his business and the leading role was enacted by Howell Gabriel. The substance of the play was made up of "programs going on the air" with over 100 local people making a stage appearance.

Although all parts of the play received much favorable comment from spectators, it is quite probable that the "Bill Billies" were considered outstanding and mention of all the parts making good impressions on the audiences would take considerable time and space. The play was ably directed by Miss Louise Moore, representative of the Universal Producing Company.

Wilkes County Girl Wins First Place In Contest

Building and Loan League and the pastor of the First Methodist church. Response was made by Watt H. Gragg, of Boone. This meeting was enthusiastic and of much benefit to the building and loan cause of this district.

Wilkes County was honored by having one of its daughters, Miss Annie Lou Ferguson, of Boone, and a student of the Wilkesboro high school, win the first prize in the Keesler Memorial District Contest, which will permit her to participate in the State League Contest which will be held in Winston-Salem the 28th and 29th of May. At that time she will be one of ten boys and girls who will have a chance in the essay contest to win the first prize for the State of North Carolina. Miss Ferguson is the daughter of E. S. Ferguson and is graduating from the high school in Wilkesboro this year. Wilkes county should be proud of this fine young lady and it is hoped that she will be the winner of the first prize in Winston-Salem. The Keesler Memorial Contest is sponsored by the State Building and Loan League and the purpose of same is to encourage home building and thrift and the essays made by the high school students are usually on these subjects. J. B. Williams, secretary-treasurer of the North Wilkesboro Building and Loan Association, was the county chairman for the Keesler Memorial Contest and all high schools were asked to participate but only two entered the contest—North Wilkesboro and Wilkesboro high schools. Other contestants in the district contest were young ladies from Watauga, Burke and Alexander counties, all of whom made splendid talks and deserve honorable mention.

A bill introduced in the state senate some time ago by Senator Carson of Alexander county, and which has passed both houses, takes Alexander county out of the 17th judicial district and places it in the 15th.

Taking Alexander county out of the 17th judicial district leaves only five counties: Wilkes, Yadkin, Davie, Avery and Mitchell.

Woman's Club In Wilkesboro For Better Housing

degree of success for which we all hope.

"In the great housing movement in which Great Britain has been engaged for a number of years—which has proved highly successful, women played the most important part. Fewer than 50,000 homes were built in the United States last year, with a population of more than 120,000,000 while England built 300,000 homes with a population of only 40,000,000. Women who spend 85 per cent of American income are more responsive to moral features of the program, but they play an equally important and vital part in the economics of the situation.

"Women fully realize that better homes mean better morals, and that nothing can so enrich the lives of a family as a comfortable, roomy and home-like home. Attractive and convenient homes is very likely to keep youngsters off the streets. Little sister should be allowed to have her room freshly papered and painted, which will inspire her to become dainty and domestic. Rough and tumble boys should have adequate space in which to play. This can be accomplished by transforming the attic or basement into play rooms at extremely low cost, yielding large dividends.

"Aside from children, house wives have doubtless wanted to add another room or bath room to meet the needs of the family, or probably they have wanted a gas range, an electric range or refrigerator, or even paint or re-roof the entire house, or install a heating plant, an air conditioning plant, or improve the grounds around the home by building a lilly pool or adding shrubbery—all those and other things can be done under the Modernization Credit Plan."

Miss Harris states that Mrs. R. H. Latham, president of the Federated Womens Club of North Carolina, Mrs. J. H. Highsmith, secretary of the Women's Clubs of North Carolina, Dr. Jane McKimmon, of State Agricultural College, Raleigh; Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, Jr., of Charlotte, together with innumerable womens organizations are working whole heartedly toward the development of a gigantic Federal Housing Program in North Carolina.

Home demonstration agents are taking the better housing message into rural sections where they have found excellent cooperation among women. In this way approximately 80,000 farm people will be reached during the year, according to a statement made by Dr. Jane McKimmon, assistant director of the extension service, who is making every effort to coordinate the services of her department with the Federal Housing Rural rehabilitation.

Home Chair Beats Brown-Williamson

Local Fans Treated To Exciting Extra Inning Game On Fairground Field

North Wilkesboro's baseball aggregation had the game in the bag against Brown and Williamson from Winston-Salem here Saturday afternoon until a number of plays were fumbled and the visitors tied the score, but in the tenth inning the locals came through with a hitting attack that won the game all over again.

Carmichael worked beautifully on the mound and had allowed only two hits and one run until the freakish seventh inning, when four errors and one hit accounted for three runs and put the game on ice.

Although Carmichael had pitched a wonderful game it was necessary for him to retire in favor of a pinch-hitter and Crook came in from outfield to pitch the remainder of the game, holding the visitors to one hit and no runs.

Thompson, first man up in the ninth for the home team, got on base and reached third. The squeeze play was on but failed and the side was retired Brown and Williamson went down in order in the extra frame and two were out for the locals when Harold hit and Troutman singled just behind him. Osborne, who helped put the game on ice by two fumbles in the seventh, redeemed himself beautifully with a hot single that scored Harold and ended the game.

Thompson hurled well for the visitors but his team was not able to garner hits to win a ball game. No earned runs were scored for Brown and Williamson.

Score by Innings: R.H.E. H. Chair 010 300 000 0—5 8 6 B. & W. 000 010 300 0—4 3 2 Carmichael, Crook and Isenhour; Thompson and Frazier.

2 COLLEGE GAMES HERE THIS WEEK

here Thursday afternoon.

Teague started on the mound for the home team and was relieved by Crook, who held the college team in check sufficiently for the locals to hold the big end of the score. However, playing was somewhat erratic, the local team making four errors to 3 for Appalachian. Home Chair garnered 12 hits to 11 for the visitors.

As new material is gathered by Manager H. V. Overcash and the old players are whipped into form the team takes on the appearance of a formidable ball club and it now appears that any team that beats them this season will have to play better baseball than has been witnessed in these parts during the past decade.

Present plans call for a team that will really delight the baseball fans in North Wilkesboro and vicinity and record breaking crowds should attend the college games Friday and Saturday.

New York, April 23.—A machine which can take the "hang-over" out of whisky was announced to the American Chemical society today. The apparatus is something new in machine age principles. It operates like a spiral sea shell set to spinning. It extracts from liquids substances ordinarily inseparable.
