ROARING RIVER. Route 1, May 1.—Rev. Mr. Cockerham preached at Brier Creek Sunday afternoon from the subject "The Journey," in the absence of the pastor, Rev. N. T. Jarvis, who was holding a funeral at Swan Creek. Rev. Marcus Walker, venerable minister of Cycle, also made a talk, after which one was made by Rev. John A. Foster. The congregation was large and the occasion seemed somewhat like another home-coming.

Archie, small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pardue, has been suffering very much for a month with a serious trouble with his eyes.

Mr. Leonard Harris has rented Mrs. W. J. Kinyoun's farm. Rev. A. T. Pardue, of Roaring River, was among those going up to North Wilkesboro on train last Friday. Mr. Pardue, venerable minister and home missionary in the Brier Creek Association, says that he visited more than a fourth of the churches in that association the past winter. The third Sunday he was at Zion Church, near Jennings, with Rev. W. E. Linney.

The Roaring River school is drawing to a close and the students are probably rejoicing, as children always do at the close of school, despite their great devotion to the teachers.

Mrs. Hester Johnson, of near old Eglantine school house, and Mrs. Tommie Fells, of Roaring River, have both been very sick recently, according to reports. Mrs. Johnson underwent a head operation in the Wilkes Hospital, a few weeks ago.

Rev. N. T. Jarvis preached at Dennyville Sunday morning.

Miss Bertie Lee Pardue has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Burrus Gray, near Swan Creek and Jonesville.

Mrs. B. L. Johnson has been ill recently. Doctors diagnosed her malady as stomach trouble.

Mr. Harry C. Martin and son, Mr. Hal Martin, of Blowing Rock, and Mrs. Hal Martin and small son, Charles Leland, of Lenoir, visited Brier Creek church and graveyard, the old Leland Martin place, boyhood home of the senior Mr. Martin, and other points in Wilkes Sunday afternoon. They renewed acquaintance with many old associates, friends and relatives.

Miss Mattie E. Sale and her landlady, Mrs. Arthur West, of Route 1, attended services at Brier Creek Sunday afternoon. This is the last week of Miss Mattie's school and after this she will be at home with her sister, Miss T. Armisa Sale. Some of Miss Mattie's primer class have utilized the longer term to read 10 or 12 pre-primers, primers, and first readers, in school and at home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Greene, of Roaring River, and Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Bentley, of Ronda, attended services at Brier Creek Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. N. T. Jarvis, who has been in poor health for a great many years, but who seemed slightly improved recently, was reported to have been worse near the end of last week, and was taken to Dr. Mitchell, at Wilkesboro, Thursday, and to Dr. Trivette, near Harmony, Saturday. Commencement is going on at Harmony.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of Knoxville, Tenn., visited Mrs. Smith's uncles, Messrs. F. L. and H. E. Parks, at Roaring River, last week-end. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Nora Laxton and lived at Roaring River when a child.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jarvis, daughters, Misses Vena and Zell, and sons, Jay and Lin, of the Cranberry vicinity, spent a few minutes Sunday afternoon at Mr. Hamby's and at Mrs. Laura Linney's and also attended the service at Brier Creek.

Mrs. A. W. Green, of Roaring River, was in North Wilkesboro last Saturday shopping and visiting.

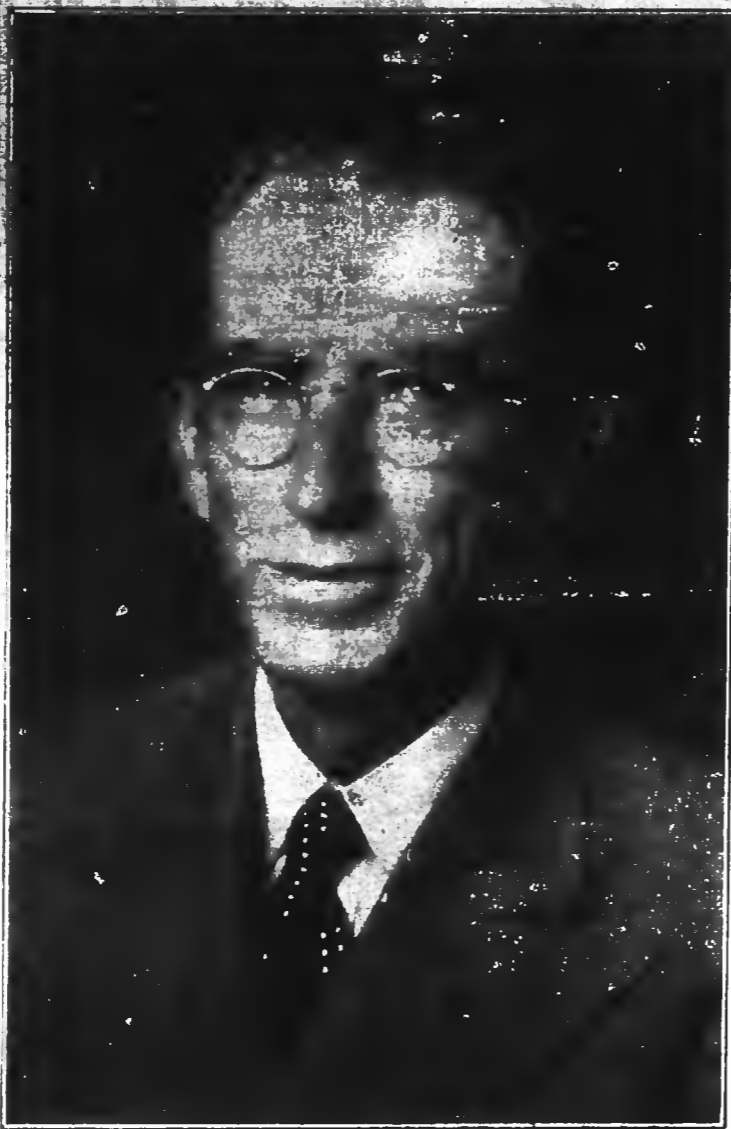

Lillie Parks and Allie Sale, colored, visited their sick aunt, Martha Martin Allen, and her husband, "Uncle Hense" Allen, near Poplar Springs last week. They found the aged darkies pitifully helpless and destitute, as they do not seem to be cared for by any of the benevolent organizations.

Mrs. Laura Martin Linney and daughter, Miss Ruth Linney, walked to service at Brier Creek Sunday afternoon, where they also met with Mrs. Linney's double cousin, Mr. Harry C. Martin, of Blowing Rock, and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Martin and little son.

Miss Ruth Linney was among those in North Wilkesboro shopping between trains last Friday. Mrs. Arthur West, of Route 1, with whom Miss Mattie Sale boards, numbers among her many accomplishments that of being probably one of the most expert women carpenters in the United States and has ceiled most of the rooms in her house. She inherited the talent from her father, who was also a skilled builder. Her husband, who has poor health, recently painted the house.

Rev. Sam S. Jennings To Launch Old Time Revival Here Under Big Tent

The Rev. Sam S. Jennings, of this city, has returned to conduct an old time religious revival and will start his meeting under the big tent on Sunday afternoon, May 12th, next Sunday.

Rev. Jennings has, according to press reports and the hearty endorsement of ministers, found the key note of approach to the people through the richness of his appeal for a turning back to God and a restoration of the old time religion. He is receiving the full cooperation of ministers and Christian leaders in all of his meetings.

The tent is located on the Tomlinson lot just east of the post office, on B street, and the first service begins promptly at 2:30 next Sunday afternoon. The singing of a large choir with special quartet and solo selections will be a feature of this and all services. All singers from all choirs of both city and county churches are expected to take part in the singing. Robert A. Irvin, noted musical director and formerly organist for the First Baptist church in Charlotte, will have charge of the music and direct the "chorus. J. Oscar Barrett, who has had fifteen years experience in the evangelistic field comes with Rev. Jennings as soloist and business manager of the campaign. Coy Sparks is the fourth man in the party whose job is that of property man, custodian and personal worker.

So successful was the meeting which Rev. Jennings has just closed in Spindale, North Carolina, that the ministers of that city gave him a joint resolution of appreciation for the great number of newly converted members added to the various churches of the city. His campaign for the unconverted is absolutely non-sectarian and free from creedism, it is said, and his fight for lost sinners is directed strictly toward the Christ, saviour of mankind.

Comments from the press, pulpit and others follow as given: The Rutherfordford County News: "Dr. Sam S. Jennings is no ordinary evangelist and his earnestness and zeal is an evident factor in his preaching. He preaches the fullness of the cross in a simplified, understandable fashion with Christ and the cross in the foreground of his messages."

Ministers of Spindale: "We endorse the preaching of Rev. Sam S. Jennings and class him as an evangelist free of hyper-emotion."

Miss Pauline Jarvis, of Fairmont, W. Va., is expected home Saturday to spend some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jarvis.

People are urged to attend services Sunday at Antioch and the Roaring River Methodist church and Sunday school at Brier Creek, Oak Forest, and elsewhere.

Mr. Dan Hamby and family moved away Tuesday from Mr. M. M. Mathis place, the old Mitch Church place.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell and infant son are planning to move to the vacant house on Mr. Ransie Staley's place where the late Grover Staley once lived.

nationalism and claptrap, and commend him to other communities as an evangelist sound in faith and an ardent supporter of the church.

A. B. Saleeby, president North Carolina Baraca-Philathea Sunday school association: Brother Jennings is a great preacher who loves the Lord and I commend him to all Sunday school classes as an evangelist, a preacher and a Christian brother."

Rev. Jennings invites all churches and all people of this section, both in and out of the city to his services and issues a special request that all Christians pray without ceasing for the success of the meeting. "I came home to put on an old time meeting with the people and through the people and for the people," said Rev. Jennings, "and it is the peoples meeting," he added.—Contributed.

MAXWELL CONSIDERS SALES TAX CHANGE

Raleigh, May 3.—A. J. Maxwell, state revenue commissioner, is considering a new system for passing the sales tax on the consumer, it was learned tonight.

At his request a section was added to the sales tax machinery bill, passed by the legislature today, which would give him the authority to inaugurate a tax token system.

Under the plan a person making a ten-cent purchase would pay one cent tax but "in charge" two tokens which he could use in payment of the tax on a 20-cent purchase or two additional ten-cent purchases, thereby eliminating the 10 per cent sales tax, if paid on small purchases.

Perseverance Pays
Miss Nell Rash, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rash, of Cycle, might be pointed out as an example of what perseverance can accomplish. She has been out of high school for seven years, has taught five terms and has completed four years of college work at A. S. T. C. in Boone. She received her bachelor of science degree from that institution May 3.

Card of Thanks
We wish to express to our friends our thanks for the kindness and sympathy shown to us during the illness and death of our little daughter.
