Getting His Wants
Canon City, Colo., June 21.—Leonard Belongia, 25, the Minnesota farm boy who wanted to die ahead of time, was executed tonight in Colorado's lethal gas chamber. Smiling, Belongia walked from the death house to the gas chamber, joking with the warden and the prison chaplain. He appeared anxious to die the ordeal ended so he could join, in death, two companions, who were executed three weeks ago tonight.

MAD DOG IS KILLED HERE
Albert Byrd Shoots Rabid Mongrel In North Wilkesboro
A mongrel cur in the throes of hydrophobia fits was killed on the lawn of J. V. Baugness' home in this city Saturday morning by Albert Byrd.
The dog, a stray which no one was able to identify, was having fits and was causing considerable excitement before Mr. Byrd caused its most sudden demise. However, it could not be learned whether or not it had bitten other dogs.
Several days ago the police department here issued a warning for people to keep their dogs confined. Any stray dogs found running at large about the city will be shot in order to prevent an epidemic of rabies.

Duke Power Co. Extends Lines To Rural Areas

Three Extensions Now Under Way; Serve 30 Additional Patrons
OTHERS CONSIDERED
Much Interest Shown In Rural Electrification By People of Wilkes

Three branch electric lines into rural areas are being added to the North Wilkesboro branch system of the Duke Power Company and several other lines are being considered. It was learned today from M. G. Butner, manager of the local branch.
A mile extension is being added to the Boomer line and will serve 15 customers. A three-quarter mile branch line from Millers Creek southwest will serve five additional patrons and a short branch from the present Boomer line will carry electric service to four or five families.
Much interest is being shown this year in rural electrification. Mr. Butner said, and lines will be rapidly built this summer into communities where the homes are numerous enough to warrant the investment.
Many of the central communities in Wilkes are now being served by the Duke Power company through the local branch system and the interest being shown in rural electrification indicates that hundreds of additional rural homes will have the advantages of electricity this year.

Pomona Grange Meets Tuesday

All Members Requested To Attend Meeting To Be Held At Courthouse

All members of the Pomona Grange are urged to attend this meeting.

Calls Attention to City Ordinance

Mayor Issues Warning About Dogs Running Loose; Cites City Law
Mayor R. T. McNeill, in a statement issued Saturday for publication, called particular attention to the ordinance compelling dog owners and keepers to have their dogs vaccinated and warned that all dogs running loose and not displaying tags showing that they have been vaccinated will be killed.
In order to impress upon the people the fact that vaccination of dogs is required by law he called attention to the state-wide law compelling vaccination and the city ordinance of the town of North Wilkesboro, which is reproduced herewith:
All persons owning any kind of dog of the age of six months or more, or those who have possession, and keepers of any kind of a dog of the age of six months or more, whether the owner of the dog or not, shall have said dog or dogs vaccinated to prevent rabies, and the vaccination of said dog or dogs shall be given according to the directions and instructions of the manufacturers or some duly licensed veterinarian or physician.
That all persons immediately after having said dogs vaccinated shall place on said dog a tag furnished by the party doing the vaccination and shall wear said tag, and shall file with the clerk of the town of North Wilkesboro a certificate of vaccination, and said certificate shall be recorded by the clerk in his office, and shall be prima facie evidence that the owner or owners or keepers of a dog or dogs have complied with this ordinance, and any dog found running at large in the city limits of North Wilkesboro, without a vaccination tag or certificate for its vaccination being on file with the clerk of the town of North Wilkesboro, shall be subject to being shot.

On the relief rolls a year ago, Braddock reached the throne by outpointing Max Baer here June 13. Braddock is the fourth "James J." The other three were, James J. Corbett, James J. Jeffress, James J. (Gene) Tunney.

THIS WEEK LAST CHANCE FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS AT LOW PRICE

Several Hundred May Yet Renew Subscriptions To Journal-Patriot At $1.00 In the State and $1.50 Out of the State; Price To Be Raised On July 1

This week marks the last chance for people to subscribe or renew subscriptions to The Journal-Patriot at the present low price of one dollar per year in North Carolina or $1.50 to subscribers living outside of the state.
As was announced near the first of June, the subscription price to The Journal-Patriot will be raised 50 cents per year after June 30, making the last day for taking subscriptions at the present low price Saturday of this week, June 29.
However, any letter containing money, check or money order for subscriptions and bearing a postmark of any date in June will be accepted on arrival at the present subscription price in force until July 1, at which time the price will be $1.50 in North Carolina and $2.00 outside of the state.
Announcement of the change of price to take place on July 1 was made on June 3 in order to give people ample opportunity to renew subscriptions at the low price. The offer was made liberal enough to apply to any subscription expiring in 1935 and hundreds have taken advantage of the offer.
However, a study of subscription records shows that there are yet several hundreds of subscriptions which have expired or will expire during the remainder of this year which have not been renewed since the announcement was made and this is an invitation for all those to act this week if they desire to affect the savings at the present rate.
The raise in subscription price is necessary because of high cost of materials and operating expenses and even when the new prices on Journal-Patriot subscriptions go into effect the price will be lower than that charged by other semi-weekly newspapers and by a great number of papers published only once each week.

Lecturer Teells "Spiritual Life Day" Program

Be Held at Moriah's Chapel Near Grandin On June 30; All Day Program
The Moravian Falls Methodist church will observe "Spiritual Life Day" on the fifth Sunday, June 30, at Moriah's Chapel, near Grandin.
The day's program will open with the regular Sunday school at 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. C. Gentry, will speak on "Individuals Co-operating in Making More Spiritual Church." At 11:30, W. G. Haymaker will discuss the subject of "Making Sunday Schools More Spiritually Minded." At 12:15 Prof. T. E. Story, principal of Wilkesboro high school, will speak on "The Spiritual Training of Our Children in Our Public Schools."
The hour from one until two p. m., will be devoted to a picnic dinner and all who attend are asked to add to this feature of the program with baskets well filled with good eats.
At two p. m., Mrs. J. L. Wolts will discuss "Spiritual Life Group in Missionary Societies." This will be followed by an address by Rev. H. K. King, former missionary and now pastor of North Wilkesboro Methodist church, on "The Spirit of Christ Among the Nations." The closing number on the day's program will be "Some Experiences on the Mission Fields," by Mrs. H. K. King.
Mrs. M. J. Beardlee left this week to visit relatives in Detroit and Bay City, Mich. She expects to be away several weeks.

Health Officer Urges People To Take Precaution

Against Spread of Infantile Paralysis; Around 200 Cases In the State

CONTAGIOUS DISEASE

Asks That Children Be Kept Away From Crowds and Public Gatherings
In an interview with a representative of The Journal-Patriot Dr. A. J. Eller, county health officer, urged the people of the county to take precautions lest their children contract infantile paralysis, the disease that maims perfectly normal children, makes them cripples for life and often results in death.
The warning from the health officer comes along with the news that there are around 200 cases of infantile paralysis in North Carolina at this time and one case has been reported in Yadkin county. So far there has been no recent cases of the disease in Wilkes and every effort will be made to keep down its spread.
Infantile paralysis is contagious and the most effective means of prevention yet prescribed is to keep children away from public gatherings and places where they are likely to come in contact with a child that has already contracted the disease. It can be passed from one to another by means of drinking cups and in other ways, according to health authorities, and parents will run a grave risk in carrying their children on trips and in public gatherings.
It is thought that if people will exercise the proper care and caution the danger of a widespread epidemic will be over by August or late summer.

Dr. Eller, health officer of the North Carolina board of health, has issued warnings about the spread of the disease and has offered advice to any who are suspected of contracting it.
Dr. Reynolds said "absolute rest should be given all persons suspected of having the disease. He added that any massage or manipulation of the patient would be harmful, and advised against any sufferer with a mild case getting up too soon.
He said there were three stages of the disease. The first, he said, was an acute infection with fever, and he warned anyone having such symptoms to remain quiet and consult a competent physician. The second stage, as outlined by the health officer, comes in four or five days when the patient displays signs of nervousness, and then paralysis itself, sets in, he said.
Dr. Reynolds revealed figures showing that of the cases so far this year, 85 per cent of the sufferers have been under the age of 10 years, 58 per cent coming under the five-year age.

Buster Williams Taken At Still

Federal Officers Get Man and Still In Call Community On Thursday
Buster Williams, resident of the Call locality, was arrested in a distillery raid by Federal Revenue Agents J. W. Hurst and C. F. Kirksley Thursday. An average size still and a considerable quantity of materials for liquor manufacture were destroyed.
Williams was given a preliminary hearing before Commissioner J. W. Dula and held for November term of federal court under bond of $500.

$25,000 Fire At Roaring River

Roaring River Casket Company Burned To Ground; Loss Partially Covered
Fire of undetermined origin completely wiped out the plant of the Roaring River Casket Company about two a. m. on Wednesday morning.
The manufacturing plant had an estimated value of $25,000 and was completely destroyed by the flames. Insurance on the property will cover about fifty per cent of the loss, it was reported here.

A revival meeting will begin Sunday morning, June 30, in the Wilkesboro Methodist church, according to an announcement today by the pastor, Rev. Seymour Taylor.
At the morning service Sunday the holy communion will be observed.
Rev. Grady Dulin, of Peachland, will arrive Monday and assist the pastor in the meeting, which will continue for ten days or two weeks. The church and pastor extends a cordial invitation to attend all the services.

Plan For County-Wide Singing 4th

Wilkes County Singing Association Expecting Best Session In Its History at the Courthouse in Wilkesboro on July 4
Wilkes County Singing Association is expecting the best session in its history at the courthouse in Wilkesboro on July 4, at was learned today from L. Bumgarner, chairman and J. A. Gilliam, secretary.
The county-wide singing association was organized a few years ago and sessions are held each July 4th and Thanksgiving Day at the courthouse for all singing classes, quartets and others who render sacred music. The public has a most cordial invitation to attend and all singers are asked to take part in the day's program, which will begin at ten o'clock.

CANCEL PLANS FOR 4-H SHORT COURSE

The spread of infantile paralysis in North Carolina has led to indefinite postponement of the 4-H short course which was scheduled to be held at State college the latter part of July.
The state board of health has announced that the danger period will not be over until after August, at which time it will be too late to hold the short course this year.

Milk, Gasoline Are Exempted In 1935 Revenue Act

Deputy Collector of State Revenue Calls Attention To Changes In Law

MUST FILE RETURNS

Privilege Taxes Were Due on June 1; Penalty Added If Not Paid This Week

General sales tax law enacted by the 1935 state legislature will go into effect next Monday, July 1.
The present sales tax law will expire on June 30. The principal difference between the present law and the law going into effect on July 1 is the removal of a number of staple foods from the list of exemptions and sales tax must be paid on all sales with the two exceptions of liquid milk and gasoline, which is already covered by a tax of six cents per gallon.

Must File Returns

J. R. Rousseau, revenue collector with headquarters here, calls particular attention to all firms, corporations and individuals who are required to pay sales tax to make complete returns of the tax due up to July 1 immediately after June 30, when the present law expires. They are required to make this final payment of sales tax under the present law as soon as possible after June 30 regardless of whether they have been filing returns monthly, quarterly or semi-annually.

Privilege Taxes Due

All privilege or occupation taxes levied by the state were due on June 1 and many have not yet paid. Mr. Rousseau is calling attention to the fact that penalties will be added to these levies if not paid prior to July 1.
Changes in Sales Tax
Changes that are of interest to everybody in the mercantile business are incorporated in the new sales tax law. The law requires a payment of three per cent on all sales unless sold to merchants for resale. If sold to merchants for resale the seller must pay a tax of $10 to the state and one-twentieth of one per cent on all wholesale sales. However, the $10 payment is credited to the wholesaler on his one-twentieth of one per cent sales tax. Under the revenue act of 1933 in force until July 1 the wholesaler paid a minimum privilege tax of $12.50 for each period of six months.
May Get Information
Any persons who are in doubt about state revenue laws and who do not know what taxes are levied are asked to see Mr. Rousseau, who maintains an office in the Deposit & Savings Bank building.

Two Are Drowned

Kinston, June 21.—Nouse river, a mile from the Caswell Training school, was dragged today for the bodies of Wm. Pleasant, 18, and George Harrington, 13, missing inmates of the institution. Their disappearance yesterday afternoon and today officials concluded, after their clothes had been found on the bank of the river, that they drowned while bathing.

Boarding House Privilege Taxes

Under 1935 Revenue Act Are Now Due; Must Be Paid Prior To July 1st

Under the 1935 revenue act of North Carolina a privilege tax is levied on all boarding houses and tourist homes. This tax was due on July 1 and must be paid before July 1, according to a statement issued by J. R. Rousseau, deputy collector of revenue located here.
In order to avoid penalty this tax should be paid at once and any who are not familiar with the provisions of the new levy may see Mr. Rousseau at his office here.
