Charge Public Show Was Made Of Trial Of Bruno

Los Angeles, July 14.—Criticism of the conduct of the Bruno Hauptmann trial is contained in a report to be presented tomorrow to the American Bar association by its committee on cooperation between the press and the bar.

The committee said that "to treat a simple trial as a public show, as was done in the sensational trial of Bruno Hauptmann, is to cheapen life itself by causing people generally to underestimate the life of the criminal, and to increase the morbid desire of sensation seekers."

"Leaders of the bar and the news-writing agencies who are sincerely interested in the preservation of American institutions should join forces and consider ways and means of preventing a repetition of such incidents as occurred in the Bruno Hauptmann trial," the resolution stated.

They should take steps to minimize the possibility that in the future, other lawyers and publicity seekers may feel that a precedent has been established which can be followed with impunity," the resolution added.

TOOTH NEWS DENTAL DIVISION NORTH CAROLINA STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Our Present Mouth Health Program In North Carolina

By PAUL JONES, D.D.S. Chairman, Executive Committee, N. C. Dental Society

IT is most gratifying to know that North Carolina is greatly interested and awake to the necessity of a mouth health program, especially among the children of our State. A few years back only the most alarming evidence of disease invasion was ever called to the attention of our government. In fact, those in authority were more attentive to the problems of agriculture such as hog cholera, cattle tuberculosis, and tick fever. Even now our farmers are ordered to destroy the farrowed hogs and turn under crops, showing the changing viewpoints under different stresses.

But miracles never cease, and the dawning of a new thought takes hold; today the health of the human animal is predominant. His bodily predisposition to disease and deterioration is of so much concern to our State government that today North Carolina has on the statute books laws insuring the rehabilitation of diseased bodies and the proper observance of hygiene, and our commonwealth is recognized as a most enthusiastic exponent of health for its citizens.

DR. PAUL JONES

The indifference to oral health is still more noticeable than its observance or correction. Teeth, in the days past, were considered a gift from the Creator, like the fingers and toes, and like these should give no more trouble. In fact the digital organs were more fortunate and, consequently, healthier because of being seen. (Pride is a driving monster.) Sometimes the fingers and toes came into contact with soap and water; not so the teeth. Hidden from public display, they chopped and ground the material to sustain the body. With their duty done, the cleaning of the teeth was deferred to that more convenient time which never appears, and the mouth's arch enemy, fermentation, commenced its destructive work.

service. We are greatly indebted to those in our medical society and our dental society for this vision that seized and held them during the formative period of this movement which is now so well grounded and sponsored through our government. Often I have wondered if our intelligent citizens, as well as our State government, fully realize the debt owing the two professions of medicine and dentistry in their sustained efforts through all these years to make our people health conscious as well as healthy.

It is with much pride that I mention the present fulfillment of these aspirations in the operation of our mouth health program. Through the Dental Division of the State Board of Health Dr. Branch and his staff of dentists have done a noble and glorious piece of work solely in the interest of the health of our people. They have emphasized the need of mouth care among our school children, and they have carried the story of healthy teeth in healthy mouths in a telling and most effective way, so much so that we in private practice can note the improvement in the mouths of our young school boy and girl patients.

This, basically, with the attending evidences, was the cause of the beginning of mouth hygiene and health as we know it today. Persistently and effectually the sponsors of this health movement have labored for recognition. Our statesmen had to be educated in the belief that childhood was the beginning of manhood and womanhood, and that their health had to be considered before that of cattle, swine, and horses. Cooperation with the ones seeking a mouth health program for our children was a demand not to be denied—a utilitarian as well as an altruistic

I am heartily in accord with the dentistry program as directed by Dr. Branch for North Carolina, and should like to see the activities of this department enlarged rather than any part of them delegated to inexperienced local units. I would like to see North Carolina the healthiest state in the Union and its people possess the best treated teeth in the world.

FARM QUESTION

Can I cut my lespedeza for hay and still harvest a crop of seed from the same land?

A.—Yes, if you cut the hay early enough. Get the cutter bar high so that the crop can grow out again and the lespedeza will make sufficient growth to produce seed. However, one usually does not secure a commercial crop of seed when a crop of hay has been harvested. Enough seed is produced to reseed the same land or to harvest for use on the home farm.
