

Spanish Veterans Back On Pension

Restoration Is Ordered Because of Difference In Treatment

Washington, Aug. 13.—President Roosevelt today signed legislation restoring all pension benefits which the 1933 economy act took away from veterans of the Spanish American war, the Boer rebellion and the Philippine insurrection.

Cost of restoring the benefits has been estimated by the veterans' administration at $44,587,000 a year. Officials expect nearly 50,000 pensioners to be returned to the rolls under the law's provisions. Widows of veterans will gain approximately $8,000,000 annually.

While the President's pen stroke swept away one of his major 1933 economies, officials said enough of the economy act remains to maintain savings of $100,000,000 annually.

They referred to the fact that World War veterans with non-service-connected disabilities were cut from the pension rolls in the economy cuts in the economy act have been modified by later laws and rulings.

The Spanish-American veterans were the first to gain restoration of the old pension rates for all their members, however.

Ideal Marriage Goes On Rocks; Divorce Is Filed

Los Angeles, Aug. 13.—The once widely heralded "ideal" marriage of Joan Blondell, vivacious screen actress, and George S. Barnes, "ace" movie cameraman, was brought abruptly into divorce court today.

The actress sued and listed a variety of complaints—including charges that Barnes immersed himself in a book in the presence of her guests and that he often drove his automobile against her wishes after he had been drinking.

This Week In Washington

Washington, Aug. 13. (Auto-caster)—Congress will stick around Washington long enough to pass the new tax bill, but how much longer than that is anybody's guess. Your reporter has yet to hear of any Senator or Representative who really likes the tax bill as reported out by the House Committee on Ways and Means. It is a case of going along with the President for the good of the party.

Even Mr. Roosevelt's most loyal supporters in the Administration have few kind words to the Treasury Morgenthau, who was quite outspoken last Winter on the necessity of increasing taxes if the Bonus Bill were adopted, politely but firmly refused to make any comment whatever when the Committee asked him for his opinion. He didn't say yes, and he didn't say no. He stood pat on the perfectly sound technical ground that it is solely the business of Congress to enact laws and that the only job of the Secretary of the Treasury would be to collect the taxes under any tax law that they might pass. The taxes levied under this new act will not be collectible until 1937, and a good many things may happen in two years. A lot of things have happened in the past two years.

Other Legislation

It is about 50-50 whether any of the other major measures on the President's program will be adopted before adjournment. Administration leaders, disappointed at the refusal of the House to include the "death penalty" clause in the Utility Holdings Company bill, would just as soon see that measure lay over until next session, in the hope of building up public sentiment for it. The new Banking Bill, with the limitations upon the Government's control of the whole banking and credit situation, which were forced into it by Senator Carter Glass, stands a good chance of early enactment. Whether the Social Securities Bill will come out of conference committee in a form acceptable to both Houses at this session seems a bit doubtful.

The President has not yet appointed the new Labor Relations Board provided for under the Wagner industrial Disputes Law, for the surprising reason, so it is rumored, that he has not been able to find good men willing to serve on it. It is understood here that he has invited ten different men to take the job and each one of them has said "no, thank you."

Politically speaking, as Washington always speaks, the Administration forces are building great hopes for 1937 on the effect of Postmaster General Jim Farley's "swing around the circle." Mr. Farley is regarded here as possessing a peculiar kind of political magic. There are those who doubt that he is as good a politician as the President himself, and many who are certain that Col. McHenry Howe is a still better politician.

The Farley Plan

But Mr. Farley is Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and those who are in his confidence say that he is building the belief that he can line up his campaign for next year in the West and the South solidly against the East.

Party leaders are beginning to concede that the Anti-Administration movement in the States east of the Mississippi is gaining strength. But they are figuring that the President could lose the whole Eastern seaboard, down to South Carolina, plus Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and the remaining states, if they could all be held in line, would elect him.

This combination of the West and the South has been the dream of almost every liberal Democratic candidate since Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan came very near making it. Mr. Farley and his associates are confident they can do it in 1936. Barring accidents, it seems quite possible to the most experienced political observers in Washington. But nobody knows better than Mr. Roosevelt himself that accidents do happen. The Farley plan would not permit the loss of even one important state, such as California.

It is pretty early for political forecasts, with the election still 15 months away, but it is not too early for the politicians to begin laying their plans, and that they are doing most thoroughly.
