

A. F. Kilby Head Yadkin Valley Co.

Ford Dealer Here Enjoying
Successful and Growing
Business

For the past sixteen years Mr. Kilby has been actively associated with the Yadkin Valley Motor Company. At the end of the World War, after terminating his services for Uncle Sam, Mr. Kilby became identified with the organization with which concern he still carries on as president and general manager. The Ford agency in North Wilkesboro has made an enviable record during all the years of its history.

The business is carried on from its own building. The display rooms are attractive and the lighting system is exceptionally well planned. There are two entrances to the main office. Eighteen people are on the payroll of the Yadkin Valley Motor Company and every one of them is imbued with the spirit of service. Mr. Kilby is noted in all this territory for the equal way in which every purchaser of a Ford car is treated. He is known for business acumen and that degree of friendliness and goodwill that goes into making him one of the most popular gentlemen in Wilkes county.

He served in the Engineer Corps during the World War. Mr. Kilby is vitally interested in his "buddies." As past commander of Wilkes Post American Legion, he gave the best in him to further the true cause of Wilkes Post.

"As a native of Wilkes county, one of my most pleasant memories is associated with the appreciation that many tourists who visit this section are appreciating the natural loveliness of Wilkes county. The schools all over Wilkes county are a credit to any community. They are finely managed and have a splendid lot of teachers," said Mr. Kilby.

BABY BOY BORNE BY MOTHER AFTER FALL INTO WELL

Sanford, Oct. 23.—A fine boy baby, weighing over seven pounds, made a most unusual entrance into the world Tuesday afternoon, according to stories circulated here.

His mother, Mrs. Alton Jordan, near Golf, went out to the well in the yard of her home to draw water. Becoming faint, she fell into the well, in which it is reported that there was 10 feet of water.

Being attracted by the cries of the children, the frantic husband pulled up the mother, who had a new baby son along with her.

Both, shivering with cold and drenching wet, were rushed to Lee county hospital where, reports today say, the boy is a fine healthy little fellow and that the mother is doing well.

By mistake Moe Mamek broke into jail at London, O., and explained to Sheriff Gorman F. Clark that he was hungry and thought the fence surrounded a canning factory.

Lomax Active At Yadkin Valley Co.

Is Secretary and Treasurer of Firm; With Business
Since 1930

Mr. C. B. Lomax, son of the late P. A. Lomax, one of Wilkes county's best known merchants in his day, is secretary and treasurer of the Yadkin Valley Motor Co. Other officials of the company are A. F. Kilby, president, and Q. A. McNiel, vice president.

Mr. Lomax moved to North Wilkesboro and became associated with the Yadkin Valley Co. in 1930. Previously he had been engaged in the Coca-Cola Bottling business in Avery and Watauga counties.

Mr. Lomax, in addition to serving his company as secretary and treasurer, is actively in charge of the accounting and parts departments, and plays no small part in the success his company is attaining in the automobile world.

Mr. Lomax is treasurer of the First Baptist church. He enjoys a wide circle of acquaintances in this section of the state.

13 HUNTERS ARE KILLED AS DUCK SEASON STARTS

Kansas City, Oct. 29.—Death stalked the hunter today as thousands of sportsmen opened the duck hunting season. The toll over the week-end and today was brought to 13 fatalities and more than a score wounded among duck, deer and pheasant hunters.

Three were killed in Washington, one in British Columbia, Wisconsin counted three dead, Nebraska two, Minnesota two and Nevada and Kansas one each.

Thousands of hunters, despite new federal restrictions, sought ducks reported gathering on northern lakes in the greatest numbers in a decade. Weather in the central states was too warm for much duck shooting.

Thermometer's Invention Is Credited To Galileo

The invention of the thermometer is variously ascribed to Galileo about 1597, and to various others in the next fifteen or twenty years. The thermometer we still use in the United States, although much of the rest of the world has abandoned it for a better one, was invented a century later by an eminent German natural philosopher and experimenter, Gabriel Daniel Fahrenheit.

Fahrenheit is said to have been the first who used mercury in the construction of thermometers. His zero was the point to which the mercury fell in his experimental tubes in the winter of 1809. By a mixture of salomoniac, salt and snow, he was able to reproduce this same degree of cold, and he supposed it to be the minimum.

One of the principal features of Fahrenheit's invention was his division of the tube into degrees so that the exact rise and fall could be determined. Two of his contemporaries, Reaumer and Celsius, did the same thing, but they took the freezing point—or the melting point of ice—as their zero—the equivalent of Fahrenheit's degree 32.

Reaumer's scale, like Fahrenheit's, was a rather arbitrary one, but Celsius, having determined the freezing and boiling point of water, divided the temperatures between them into 100 degrees. His scale, called the centigrade—a hundred steps—has come into general use in continental Europe and is much used for scientific purposes elsewhere.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SCRUB DAIRY BULLS ALWAYS EXPENSIVE

A hard-headed business dairyman once said, "You pay for a good bull whether you have one or not."

"If you have a good one, the profits from the herd enable you to pay for him.

"If you keep a scrub, the lowered efficiency of the herd will cost you more than a good bull."

So if dairymen are going to pay, one way or another, for a good bull, there is no reason why they should not have one, said John Arey, extension, dairy specialist at State College.

The herd sire represents 50 per cent of the future of the herd, Arey pointed out. A few poor cows may do some damage to the herd, but a scrub sire will ruin the best of herds in a few years.

The term "good bull" is used to mean a purebred bull of good type with a continuous production record through his ancestry, Arey explained. Such a bull will transmit both his type and his high production strain to his offsprings.

The transmitting capacity of a good bull has been proven beyond a doubt, Arey stated. Even when bred to poor cows, the offsprings will have comparatively high milk production ability.

A dairyman with a herd of comparatively poor cows can, in two generations, breed up a fairly high producing herd by always breeding to good bulls, Arey said.

If the herd is small and the dairyman feels he cannot afford a good bull, Arey continued, the least he can do is have his cows bred to good bulls from near-by herds.

State Vital Statistics

A decrease in both the death and birth rates in North Carolina in September is noted in the report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The number of deaths, 2,397, was lower than in September, 1934, which had 2,664. The birth rate dropped from 26.8 to 25.7 with the number of births in September 7,147.

Automobile accidents ranked third among the causes of deaths, being topped only by cancer and tuberculosis respectively.

Everyone has the desire at times to drive recklessly. It is as such times accidents most often happen.

First Aid Fallacies

How some traditional first aid remedies may do great harm to victims of accidents is explained in a recent Red Cross publication. A few examples may be mentioned:

Rolling a person apparently drowned over a barrel only forces water out of the stomach, where it does no harm. But laying the patient face down and alternately applying and releasing pressure at the small of the back often induces respiration and recovery.

Rubbing frost-bitten parts with snow is also a bad practice. Let the frozen tissues thaw out gradually in a temperature a little above the freezing point.

Some persons put spider webs, cuds of tobacco, soot, salt pork and the like on cuts or infected wounds, "to draw the poison out." These substances only increase the danger of infection.

Whisky, ammonia, permanganate of potash or the application of a freshly killed chicken to a wound caused by snake-bite are all old-time remedies of no value. The modern course is to tie a bandage between the wound and the heart, cut a gash across the blood marks and suck out the blood and poison as quickly as possible. The venom of a rattlesnake taken into the mouth is harmless, even if it is swallowed.

Many other fallacies are enumerated and warned against in publications of the Red Cross and medical societies. Every person should have some knowledge of what to do and what not to do in emergencies. A more widespread diffusion of such knowledge would no doubt be the means of saving many lives, through giving proper first aid until a physician can be called.

Peacemaker Killed

Jake Gwin and Hayne Surratt, Cleveland county negroes, Saturday engaged in a scuffle over the ownership of a gun at the home of Surratt and in attempting to quell the fighters, Lula Gwin, wife of Jake, was mortally wounded. Both men were arrested and placed in jail at Shelby.
