W P A Institutes Sewing Rooms To Give Women Jobs

Miss Ila Holman Heads Work in Five-County District; Headquarters Here
HAVE THREE IN WILKES
Sewing Rooms Now Located at Maple Springs, Congo and Wilkesboro

Three sewing room projects have been started in Wilkes county to provide jobs in relief families where there are no employable men. It was learned today from C. H. Smith, district branch manager for the works progress administration in five counties.

Miss Ila Holman, of Wilkesboro, formerly connected with the emergency relief administration office here, heads the sewing room work in the five-county district, composed of Wilkes, Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe and Watauga counties.

These projects will be of inestimable benefit in furnishing employment because of the fact that 35 per cent of the priority relief cases are women and because of the large number of destitute families which do not have among their number men that are able to work.

The three sewing rooms projects already under way in Wilkes are at Maple Springs, Congo and Wilkesboro while two are being maintained in Ashe county.

As yet there are only six WPA work projects for men under way in Wilkes but others have been approved and will be started as soon as possible. The projects now going on and which are providing jobs for more than 350 men are road jobs and a street improvement.

Hog Pens To Be Outlawed Here

City Fathers to Publish Ordinance Establishing Zones For Hog Pens

Aldermen of the town of North Wilkesboro in regular November meeting Tuesday night authorized the city clerk to draw up and have published an ordinance prohibiting the raising of hogs in certain zones.

The ordinance, which will set out the zones in which it will be unlawful to raise hogs, will be published at an early date.

Mayor McNeil and members of the town board are advising the people in the city who raise hogs not to buy others to be raised when the ones they now have are slaughtered. It is understood that they will be given until March 1 to dispose of the hogs that are now being kept in the zones to be affected by the new ordinance.

Progressive, Resourceful People

(Charlotte Observer, November 5)

The Journal-Patriot which announces itself, and truly, as having "blazed the trail of progress in the 'State of Wilkes' for 30 years" lives up to that ambitious record in the publication of a "Progress and Merchandising Edition."

It is a handsomely completed bit of journalistic enterprise with three sections of its special issue given over to an eloquent recital of the epic of progress which has been written by the people of that community during the past 25 years.

In workmanship the edition is creditable to a much larger urban center than North Wilkesboro; the editing is of superior talent and the display of both news articles and pictures is of attractive technique.

The Journal-Patriot is in the leadership in helping along in the program of progress of Wilkes county.

It fittingly represents the new spirit of agricultural and industrial development that has seized the citizens of that community, a newspaper of enterprise, of progressive temperament and of patriotic purpose.

And it is the hustling organ of a generation of North Carolinians who have taken hold of their natural assets with a will to realize thereupon and to make the best of the happy and fruitful assets which nature has kindly laid in their laps.

And above all, as one will quickly find who no more than makes a snap-shot visit among these aggressive people, they are not yet covered over and masqueraded behind the mere rouge of modernity, with all of their up-to-dateness.

Neither are these neighbors of ours so brutally under the mania of mere money-making that no time is taken out for the social amenities, a clever, cordial, home-loving, entertaining people who are building for themselves and posterity a civilization better than the base, cynical and unsocial coupon-clipping culture of the larger centers.

Life with them is meat, to be sure, but it is more than raiment. Attention is paid to more sustaining resources than bread and bank accounts—they are not living on the mutable materialisms alone.

Life is rhythmic there with the measured treads of an old-fashioned, regal dignity and a quality of character that it is refreshing to fall amid once in awhile.

A YOUNG PIONEER

When several hundred families were sent to Alaska from the middle west to settle the Matanuska Valley, the Red Cross sent a nurse, Madeline de Foras, to remain with them for a year to help protect their health. Among the first friends she made were the little pioneer, Arthur Hack, 4 years old, and "Prince," the pup who went with his young master to Alaska.

Mr. Absher states, and are worthy of good homes and a decent livelihood.

Anyone interested in furnishing a home for one or more of these children is requested to get in touch with Mr. Absher or Charles McNeil, county welfare officer.

To Be Started In Wilkes Nov. 18th

Transfer of Rev. H. K. King Causes Delay In Starting Annual Drive

Although the dates throughout the country for the annual Red Cross Roll Call are Armistice Day until Thanksgiving, the drive in Wilkes will not actively begin until Monday, November 18, it was learned today.

This delay is due to the fact that Rev. H. K. King had been appointed annual roll call chairman for this year and he was transferred by the Methodist Conference to the eastern conference. This left the local organization incomplete but it will be perfected in time for the work to get well under way by the 18th. Attorney J. H. Whicker is general chairman of the Wilkes county chapter.

The American Red Cross is known throughout the nation as the greatest humanitarian organization and the mother in times of distress. Always ready for any call it has responded in a great way during times of disaster in every section during the past year and the time is at hand when the people of the nation are asked to contribute to its treasury by their membership fees.

With the improvement in economic conditions and knowing that the rural people have been blessed with bountiful crops, it is expected that Wilkes will give its full quota this year to this great cause.

Plan Sanatorium

Raleigh, Nov. 5.—The architect's plans for construction of the new western North Carolina tuberculosis sanatorium near Asheville were described as "95 per cent complete" here today by Lee L. Gravely, of Rocky Mount, chairman of the board of trustees, who said "work is expected to start on the plant by December 15."

Clarence Gregory Is Taken At Still

Revenue Agents Make Raid in Eastern Part of Wilkes Monday

To Rush Work On Scenic Parkway In This Section

Contracts Let On Scenic Road For Construction To Mulberry Gap

WORK IS UNDER WAY
Virginia Line To Deep Gap Constitutes First Main Sector of Parkway

Bids on the construction of the fourth segment of the scenic park-to-park highway in North Carolina, will be opened by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads December 5, Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission has just been advised. When these bids are opened, they will bring to a total of 43 miles of parkway on which contracts have either been let or bids opened, the first from Virginia line in Alleghany county to its intersection with State Route 21. Bids were opened some weeks ago on Projects B and C, extending from Route 21 to Air Bellows Gap and from Air Bellows Gap to Mulberry Gap and construction on these two segments, totaling more than 17 miles, is expected to start just as soon as the contracts have been awarded.

This fourth segment extends from Mulberry Gap to Horse Gap, about 12.5 miles and will bring the parkway to within 12.5 miles of its intersection with N. C. Route 60 at Deep Gap. It is expected that bids on the fifth and last segment from Horse Gap to Deep Gap and Route 60 will probably be opened about January 1. Chief Locating Engineer R. Getty Browning of the State Highway Commission said today. When all these projects are let and under construction, the first main sector of the parkway totaling some 55.5 miles will be under construction.

For the time being, it is not planned to build this northeastern portion of the parkway beyond Deep Gap and its intersection with Route 60, but to follow Route 60 into Boone and then on into Blowing Rock over Route 28, since these existing state roads are already paved and offer almost as short a route as the proposed parkway route.

The parkway from Airbellows Gap to Deep Gap will follow closely the main ridge formation of the majestic Blue Ridge and several short sections of the scenic road will be in Wilkes county. This section of the parkway will offer unexcelled panoramic scenery because it will follow the main ridge, alternating on each side around the higher peaks.

The next main link in the parkway to be constructed will begin at Buck Gap on Route 104, and extend around Mount Mitchell and the Craggies to its intersection with Route 694 just north of Asheville.

Civil Docket To Follow Criminal

Judge Phillips Will Preside; Grand and Petit Jurors Summoned For Term

The first of the extra fall terms of Wilkes superior court created by the 1935 general assembly will convene in Wilkesboro Monday morning with Judge F. Donald Phillips, of Rockingham, on the bench.

The term will be for two weeks and will be for trial of both criminal and civil cases. Jurors sufficient in number for grand and petit juries have been summoned for the first week.

It is expected that the grand jury will complete its task in a very few days because of the fact that a grand jury functioned in the regular August term.

The first three days of the first week have been set aside for trial of jail cases on the criminal docket but due to the fact that there are several defendants in jail awaiting trial, including two charged with murder, it is expected that more than three days will be consumed with trial of criminal cases if the jail docket is cleared.

The two defendants in jail on charge of murder are Ornaville Love, who is alleged to have killed Phin Atwood in Jobs Cabin township a few months ago, and David Cook, charged with the murder of John Robinson in North Wilkesboro only a few weeks ago. Several other homicide cases are awaiting trial but the defendants are out under bond.

The bar association met recently and made out a calendar of civil cases to be tried after the jail cases are disposed of. Cases continued during the last civil term and set for trial in the term beginning Monday will be called first. Other cases will follow in the chronological order of their origin.
