Democrat Has Wide Lead In Kentucky Race

Anti-Sales Tax Candidate Apparently Elected Governor; For "New Deal"

Balancing against Eastern Republican victories, Kentucky last night counted a wide majority for its anti-sales tax Democratic gubernatorial nominee, A. B. ("Happy") Chandler.

As the tabulation of ballots, east Tuesday, proceeded, he swung far into the lead over King Swope, Republican, despite the backing given the latter by the present Democratic governor, Ruby Laffoon.

With 905 precincts reporting, Chandler piled up 132,586 votes to 104,672 for King.

Prohibition Trails

With Chandler, a proposal that Kentucky repeal its prohibition amendment also held an early lead, as did a proposal to establish state-maintained old age pensions.

Safely in control of the New York and New Jersey state assemblies and victorious in electing a mayor in Philadelphia and a superior court judge for Pennsylvania, Republican leaders claimed voters in those states had repudiated the new deal.

"The boon-dogglers are on their way out," exulted Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican National Committee. "The Republican party is on its way back to power."

Chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic National Committee, saw it otherwise. He asserted that popular vote totals in New York would give Democratic candidates a plurality of some 500,000.

"Accepting that the new deal was the issue," he added, "New York state voted in favor of it by the large majority of 500,000."

Farley insisted that Republican gerrymandering had made it impossible for the Democrats to elect a majority of the assembly except in landslide years.

Adding to the complexity of the Democratic factional fight in the Kentucky campaign, the new deal issue was very emphatically raised by some Democratic spokesmen, who appealed for Chandler votes as ballots endorsing the Roosevelt administration. Swope avoided any mention of the new deal in his speeches.

Baptist Church In Wilkesboro Adds 10 Rooms

Contractors Engaged In Adding Ten Sunday School Rooms To Church

The Wilkesboro Baptist church is taking a forward step in adding ten Sunday school rooms to the church building.

Pardue Brothers contracting firm was awarded contract for the addition and have already started work. The rooms will be of brick veneer construction.

The building committee is composed of J. H. Johnson, chairman, C. A. Lowe and T. E. Story, members.

The church is also planning the installation of a steam heating system throughout the building.

SPECIAL OFFER LAMPS ENDS SATURDAY, 9TH

The special offer on Mazda lamps by the Duke Power Co. will end on Saturday, November 9th. Manager M. G. Butner stated this morning. Sales have already been splendid, and the North Wilkesboro branch office stands right at the top of the list of branches located in this state and South Carolina.

With sales continuing through the week as they have already started, the North Wilkesboro branch may well be expected to lead all other branches in percentage of sales. Patrons may purchase their lamps, paying the cost with their December and January 1st, light bills.

In the iron campaign which has also been in progress for the past several weeks, the local branch has also been near the top and has done an even better job than such large cities as Winston-Salem, Charlotte and Spartanburg.

"I think Uncle Jack is going to take us for a ride. You'd better go upstairs and wash your face."

Strategic Sections Pile Up Majorities Against Democrats

Republicans Declare New Deal Is Repudiated; Farley Denies Claim

Decisively leading in New York's state elections, Republican leaders quickly filed a claim last night that the Empire state had repudiated the new deal.

Ousting at least eight Democratic incumbents, they apparently regained control of the state assembly, by a margin estimated at five to six seats. The Democrats had a majority of four in the last assembly. A Republican trend was apparent too in the state's mayoralty elections.

Melvin C. Eaton, Republican state chairman, hailed the balloting as plainly marking "a trend away from the new deal."

Irving M. Ives, Republican assembly leader, declared the result outright repudiation of the Roosevelt administration.

Farley Denies Claims

Such claims, however, were quickly contested by Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and of the New York Democratic state committee.

The result, he said, "ought to be a sufficient answer to the question of the continued popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt." He asserted that Republican gerrymandering had made it impossible for the Democrats to elect a majority of the assembly except in a landslide election.

Farley saw his own district go Republican, as did President Roosevelt, so far as the assembly elections were concerned. In Hyde Park, however, a Democratic supervisor was elected for the first time in years.

Elated neighbors formed an impromptu torchlight procession to the Roosevelt home. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt greeted them, smiling, on the porch. Several of the ladies kissed the President.

Meanwhile, returns were coming in slowly from state legislative elections in New Jersey. They showed the usual Democratic sweep.

Price adjustment payments to Warren County cotton growers will run to approximately $125,000 this year, the county agent estimated.

GIRL SCOUTS' CORNER

Mrs. Overcash's girl Scout troop met Tuesday, November 7, at the Scout hut. At the meeting we elected officers. On the map side Annie Ruth Gidger was elected patrol leader, Jackie Fraser, assistant and Reba St. John treasurer. On the dogwood side Yolande Kerbough was Patrol leader, Hatt Hudson, assistant, and Betty Hill, treasurer. Then the whole troop elected scribe, since she wasn't there, Betty Sue Pierce was asked to do it. Everybody had a delightful time. We repeated our laws and sang songs and took up some money in the process. We will be glad to have any guests or new members say these:

Marjorie Blevins Is Music Club Hostess

Miss Marjorie Blevins entertained the members of the Orpheus Music club at her home in Wilkesboro Tuesday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Winifred Carlton, Charlie Proffit occupied the chair for the business period.

For the first part of the program the members engaged in a general discussion of current musical events and a study of prominent radio stars.

A radio broadcast featured the second part with Elizabeth Neel as announcer, who was very original and entertaining in presenting her numbers. Piano solos were played by Violet Johnson, Carolyn Sue Linney, Peggy Somers and Charles Proffit. Norma Smoak played two numbers on a Spanish guitar and Pauline Church gave a delightful reading.

To close the afternoon dainty refreshments were served during the social hour. The next meeting is scheduled to be held with Winifred Carlton.

SCORES ARE INJURED AS HURRICANE HITS MIAMI

Miami, Fla., Nov. 4.—Reported to have taken the lives of three persons, the second disastrous hurricane of the year lashed Miami, swung through the Everglades and tonight passed into the Gulf of Mexico.

The Jacksonville weather bureau said the storm moved into the gulf at 8 p. m. (e.s.t.), slightly north of Cape Sable, about thirty miles south of Everglades City.

The storm's track was some sixty miles north of Key West and all danger was believed gone for the lower keys area.

At Everglades City, the barometer was 29.63 at 8 p. m., and rising while winds were subsiding.

Miami at the same hour, had a 24-mile-an-hour wind.

May Regain Strength

Gordon E. Dunn, meteorologist, said the hurricane might regain the strength it lost moving across the southern end of the peninsula in the gulf. Passing over water again, Dunn said the storm likely would turn northward.

Everglades City apparently had escaped without damage.

Signal rockets were sent up tonight by an unidentified ship off Miami Beach about three-quarters of a mile. The boat was almost immediately opposite the fashionable Roney Plaza Hotel. Persons at the hotel said the craft appeared to be a combined freighter and passenger steamer.

Good weather has been a big help to the terracing program in Rowan county this fall.
