Guests were restricted to family members and a few close friends.

All through the home the bridal motif of green and white was carried out very effectively with a profusion of white roses, white carnations, and white candles. In the dining room a lace covered table was centered by the wedding cake, on which was a veiled bride and groom. The cake, which was cut for the traditional tokens of fortune, white tapers burned in silver holders. In serving fruit cake and coffee Mrs. Wellborn was assisted by Miss Landa Hendren and Mrs. John Cashlon. In an attractive booklet the guests were advised to the bride and groom.

Wellborn, to Harry Hall Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rom H. Pearson, of North Wilkesboro, was solemnized in the presence of a host of friends and relatives of the bridal couple.

The quaint old church was simply but beautifully decorated with a background of Southern trailing cedar, Boston fern, and pine. Two beautiful baskets of white carnations and white roses were gracefully arranged at either side of the altar. Shading a mellow light over the nuptial scene was the glow of white cathedral tapers in branched candelabras. Beautiful nuptial music rendered while the guests assembled was part of the impressive service. Mrs. R. E. Prevette presiding at the organ played "Traumeri" by Schumann, and Schubert's "Serenade." Two vocal selections, Brown's "All For You" and "O Perfect Love" were beautifully sung by Mrs. G. T. Mitchell, soprano. Mrs. Prevette and Mrs. Mitchell were dressed in green with corsages of Tailsman roses.

The wedding party entered to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. The ushers, James Pearson and Clyde Pearson, brothers of the groom, Thomas Wellborn, of Raleigh, nephew of the bride, and Eugene Michael, of Greensboro, were followed by the bridesmaids: Miss Manie Brewer, wearing a gold dress, Miss Beatrice Pearson, in turquoise blue, Miss Lucy Pearson, in emerald green, sisters of the groom, and Miss Alice Mackie, of Granite Falls, gowned in Coral Belle. The gowns of the bridesmaids were of chiffon velvet fashioned floor length with cow necklines and long fitted sleeves and on their muffs of the same material were lovely Joanne Hill Roses and sweet peas. Next came the lovely flower girl, Little Miss Frances Mitchell, cousin of the bride, dressed in a dainty yellow chiffon organdie and she carried and old fashioned nosegay of sweetheart roses.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was beautiful in her exquisite gown of ivory white chiffon velvet made with a full neckline caught with seed pearl and long sleeves pointed at the wrists. The gown was fitted at the waist and the skirt which was plain in front, was fashioned into a bark panel which fell in a circular train. Her veil was arranged in a halo caught on either side with orange blossoms. She carried a graceful showered bouquet of white roses and valley lillies.

The bride was met at the altar by the bridegroom attended by A. J. Smith, of Greensboro, best man. Their vows were spoken to Rev. Avery Church, pastor of the Baptist church of Wilkesboro, pastor of the bride. During the ceremony Mrs. Prevette at the organ played McDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and for a recessional she used Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Immediately following the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Mitchell received at their home for the wedding party and members of the immediate families. Mrs. Mitchell was assisted in serving by Misses Margaret Hubbard, Helen Bumgarner, and Landa Hendren and Mrs. Eileen Phipps. The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth, the centerpiece of which was a crystal bowl of white roses and on either side, were glowing white candles in silver candleholders. Miss Ross Billings presided at the bride's book. During the evening the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to points south. They will be home after January 3, at 711 Kensington Drive. For traveling Mrs. Pearson wore an ensemble of Kent Green with black accessories and a corsage of Joanne Hill roses.

Death Total In Cold Wave Climbs To 220

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Fresh billows of snow from the northwest tonight spread a warming blanket over zero nipped areas of the nation.

Accompanied by generally rising temperatures, it smothered most of the severity from the two-day frigid wave which brought chilblains to all but four—Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada—and caused, directly or indirectly, upwards of 220 fatalities in 23 states.

The snow began falling with daybreak in the Dakotas, flurried over Minnesota, laid fresh layers of white in parts of the Rocky Mountain states, united with sleet to give Bartlesville, Okla., an annoying mixture. More snow was forecast for most of the Great Lakes region from Illinois and Wisconsin as far east as Ohio.

H. A. Morrison Dead

H. A. Morrison, of Roaring River, died December 18 and funeral rites were held at Roaring River Dec. 20, with Rev. N. T. Jarvis and other ministers in charge. Having been born April 25, 1875, he was 60 years, 7 months, and 23 days of age. In 1893 he was married to Miss Amanda M. Jenkins, who survives.

Of the ten children born to them, he is survived by eight as follows: Mrs. A. J. Smith, Lexington; H. A. Morrison, Elkin; G. D. Morrison and Miss Brett Morrison, Winston-Salem; W. M. Morrison, the popular depot agent; Mrs. G. L. Simpson, and J. C. Morrison, all of Roaring River. He is also survived by his aged father, Mr. R. A. Morrison, of Roaring River; and three brothers and four sisters: Mrs. C. M. Reeves, Ronda; Mrs. R. L. C. Hubble, Bluefield, W. Va.; C. P. Morrison, Wilkesboro; J. F. Morrison, North Wilkesboro; D. H. Morrison, Elkin; and Mesdames M. N. Hedgecock and L. L. Saunders, both of Greensboro. There are also 24 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren.

In 1894 Mr. Morrison professed faith in Christ and was baptized with Bethel church, later moving his membership to Brier Creek church, where he remained a member until death.

The great popularity in which Mr. Morrison, familiarly known as "Budd" to many of his friends, was held was attested by the unusually large throng present for the obsequies. The students and teachers of the Roaring River school attended in a body. Besides being a prominent farmer and outstanding citizen of this part of the county, he was an amateur veterinarian and had cured many cattle. Mr. Morrison, as well as all his kindred, was greatly liked in his home community and will be remembered and missed by a host of relatives and good friends. But "Beyond the farther sea where time is not" God has probably taken him to rest in a happier place than even his earthly home with its love and "sunshine" of kind looks. A FRIEND.

It is also worthwhile to remember that he labored under physical handicaps for the past 35 years because of an accident which caused him to lose one of his legs.

Mr. Blevins was of a genial, friendly, and considerate nature. His disposition was such that he desired to treat other men as he would have them treat him, therefore, he numbered his friends by his acquaintances. His family, with his other relations and friends have suffered an irreparable loss in his going.

Crossing the Bar
Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me
And may there be no moaning at the bar
When I set out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep,
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell
And after that the dark
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

For though from out the bourne
Of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.
—Tennyson.
