Will Bask in Center of Fistic Spotlight During 1936

NEW YORK . . . Louis against Schmeling in June; the winner against World Champion Braddock in September. That is the heavyweight menu for 1936, both battles staged here in the open at one of the ball parks. Century Sporting Club and Madison Square Club have reached an agreement and will jointly promote the bouts, both fifteen rounders.

Cupid's Business In Holiday Boom

Twenty-one Licenses to Wed Issued by Register of Deeds During Week

Christmas holidays were an occasion for a sensational boost in Dan Cupid's business in Wilkes county, there being 21 licenses to wed issued by Old Wiles, register of deeds, during Christmas week. Following are names of 18 of the 21 couples, there being three requesting no publicity: Lennis Triplett and Vera Ellis, both of Purlair; Herman Dula and Bertha Mae Dula, both of Ferguson; George Shumate and Effie Billings, both of Absher; Carl Adams and Ruby Wilson, both of Millers Creek; Clyde Gryder and Ruby Anderson, both of North Wilkesboro; Carl Harris and Flossie Mae Myers, both of Ronda; John McCann, Benham, and Faye Lyon, Traphill; David Cothren, Roaring River, and Vergie Mahaffey, North Wilkesboro; Charlie Prevette, Lomax, and Lona Queen, Wilkesboro; Beeche Stokes and Hazel Holloway, both of Cycle; Royal Rhoades and Pauline Blackburn, both of North Wilkesboro; Marvin Bureham and Leona Reynolds, both of Elkin; Lay Lowe and Edith Kilby, both of Pores Knob; Andy Reavis Gilreath and Annie Mae Cook, Harmony; Russ Blevins, Blackstone, Va., and Pansy Morrison, Wilkesboro; Carter Triplett, Maple Springs, and Rozell Johnson, Wilkesboro; Harry Hall Pearson, North Wilkesboro, and Joyce Weiborn, Wilkesboro; Carmel Shepherd and Faye Harris, both of Roaring River.

CHICAGO . . . There is a style angle to a livestock show, believe it or not. . . Above is Miss Marjorie Frye, 18, of Peoria, Ill. in her Farmerette show togs as she exhibited 2-year old "Amos" in the International Livestock Exhibition.

Oliver F. Blevins

Oliver is gone but his works do follow him. He was born a reformer, a restorer of truth. Oftentimes I have heard him say that he would do nothing for which he had not the whole world for his reason. I can not explain his life better than to quote his neighbor and friend, the late Jim Wilborn, who said in part that Oliver Blevins came in to the courthouse as register of deeds a poor cripple, at which time his majority for the Republican party in Wilkes county was only a few hundred. Oliver Blevins carried such an atmosphere of love, friendship and goodwill into the courthouse that within a few years the majority of his party numbered several thousand. He goes into the court house as register of deeds as noiseless as an angel's wing, and by his kindness, by his hospitality and lasting friendship made the big majority of Republicans of Wilkes county. He was an advocate of everything that was right and opposed to everything that was not right. Ofttimes I have heard him say that the money we are spending for courts and prisons is very ill laid out, that we make by distrust the thief and the burglar and by the harsh treatment by courts and jails we keep him so. His idea was to work institutions by the sun and not by the wind, that every child that is born must have a chance for his bread. You will please allow me to quote Mr. Wilborn again as saying that Oliver Blevins was a mystery, that everybody loved Oliver and he loved everybody, that of all the officials that ever come in to the courthouse Blevins exceeded them all. Not in money, silver or gold, but a fine brain well developed and a fine education for every child. No greater honor can be conferred. Oliver and Sarah Ann have given to the world such a fine bunch of intelligent children. Some of the neighbors say that cooking and waiting on so many people have been hard on Sarah Ann. But Sarah Ann does not think so. She now can lay the wreath of victory on Oliver's grave with the proud exultation that no deceit or hypocrisy ever entered their bowels. All the hardships she has endured stand before her today in a blaze of glory. The children can pass around and lay some flowers on their father's grave, which grave crowns the eternal hills, a plain white shaft, deep cut into its shining side, is a name dear to them which they do honor as nothing else on earth. The heritage he left them they would not exchange for all the wealth which can be mentioned. We all remember Presley, the preacher, and he was a preacher too, no greater preacher ever graced our pulpits. Let us believe that Peasley and Eugene met Oliver with multitudes that no man can number.

BORAH ISSUES GAIN NATIONAL ATTENTION

Washington, Dec. 18.—Luck having a lot to do with political fortunes, the situation in which Senator Borah finds himself just now through circumstances over which he could have had no control, is worth noting. Two of his long-cherished pet issues are much to the fore or soon will be. Assuming, as many political writers do, that the Idaho senator is far more interested in framing the issues of the coming campaign than in achieving a presidential nomination himself, this would seem to be a break for him. Certainly he could not have definitely anticipated any such development in the Italo-Ethiopian situation as the Franco-British peace gesture to dramatize in such striking fashion Borah's die-hard opposition not only to American entry into the League of Nations; but to any intimate co-operation with European political arrangements. Against the background of President Roosevelt's plans for a new neutrality act and his original request for discretionary powers, that might become an important matter of the campaign. Apparently Senator Vandenberg thinks so. He broke an unusual spell of silence to issue a statement approving Roosevelt neutrality acts, but disapproving any extension of presidential powers.

The other Borah issue clearly destined to have an increasing tempo in debate is his anti-monopoly stand. The overthrow of NRA codes which were based on the Roosevelt government-and-business partnership idea, followed now by an open rebellion in business circles against Roosevelt policies generally, is expected to bring that monopoly issue out sharply soon or late. Borah himself had a monopoly on it for quite a while. The point is this: If the "new deal" business-and-government partnership is definitely dissolved, what attitude of government toward business would logically succeed it? A return to the role of anti-monopoly policeman for Uncle Sam would seem in order. That might imply not only restoration of anti-trust laws softened by the recovery act, but putting new teeth in them and a rigid enforcement program. And that, be it noted, would be right down the legislative alley Senator Borah had all to himself for a time.

The sun, apparently the largest and brightest of all stars, actually is one of the smallest of all the stars that are visible to the naked eye.

EXTENSION WORKERS STUDY NEW PROGRAM

Agricultural authorities agree that the complexity of modern civilization has given rise to farm problems unlike any that have been encountered before.

To aid in the solution of these problems have been called the philosopher and the sociologist, as well as the scientific research worker and the farmer in the field.

The broader social and economic aspects of rural life must be considered in the development of an adequate long-time farm program, said Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the State College agricultural extension service.

With this in view, North Carolina's extension workers made a special study of the deeper implication of present conditions while holding their annual conference at State College last week.

In working out a sound program, the dean said, they must encourage farmers to cooperate in balancing their farming schedules so as to maintain their own self-sufficiency while producing the commodities needed by society.

"Not only must we promote better cultural practices," he declared, "but we must also study the markets to determine the best production schedules."

"We need to give careful consideration to the welfare of the farmer and his family, to the development of better living standards and a more vital, wholesome community life."

"In fact, there is hardly a phase of rural life that does not come within the scope of the long-time agricultural program now being set in motion by the extension service."

YOUTH ADMITS HE SHOT HIS FATHER

Tarboro, Dec. 29.—Moses Jefferson, 17, was released under $1,000 bond today on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying last night of his father, Wright Jefferson, 40, at their farm home at Crisp, seven miles south of here.

The youth was quoted by Dr. J. G. Raby, Edgecombe county coroner as saying: "I meant to kill him. He was beating my mother."

JUDGE'S SON DIES OF MONOXIDE POISONING

Kinston, Dec. 29.—Alton Frizzelle, 20, son of Superior Court Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, of Snow Hill, died at a hospital today after he was found suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning and exposure in his stalled automobile.

Side applications of 100 pounds of nitrate of soda to corn in Stokes county this year gave increased yields of 20 to 25 per cent over where no nitrate was used in this way.

Jim Parker Is In Toils of Law

Arrested on Warrant by Deputy Marshal on Liquor Charge; Bond Filled

Jim Parker, resident of the Call community of Wilkes county, was arrested Saturday by W. A. Jones, United States deputy marshal, on a warrant charging dealings in illicit liquor.

Issuance of the warrant resulted from recent investigations by investigators of the federal alcohol tax unit. Parker was granted a hearing before J. W. Dula, commissioner, and released under bond of $500 for appearance at the May term of federal court in Wilkesboro.

Our oldest oceans were formed about 1,300,000,000 years ago, according to noted scientists.
