Mrs. Gordon Finley Feted Holiday Visitors

To honor three holiday visitors, Mrs. Gordon Finley was hostess at an informal Christmas party at her home on E Street Monday evening. The visitors were Mrs. J. B. Clements, of Greensboro, who was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Finley, Mrs. S. P. Mitchell, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Kate Finley, of New York, both of whom were visiting their parents here, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Finley.

The fourteen guests enjoying Mrs. Finley's hospitality were entertained with various amusements and in one of the games Mrs. Mitchell was awarded an attractive prize for scoring high. The home was artistically decorated in keeping with the Yuletide season and at the close of the evening all kinds of Christmas eats were served by Mrs.

Annual Event At Penney's Anticipated By Many Homes In This Section

The January White Goods Event at Penney's store is annonnced elsewhere in this newspaper in a page advertisement.

The event announced today is termed "the White Fleet" and is something that is annually anticipated by the people of Wilkes and even in adjoining counties. Only a few of the values offered in the event are listed in the advertisement but they are typical of the values to be had throughout the store. Although a large and complete stock is offered, early buying is suggested in order that the customer may have a wider selection to choose from. The merchandise for this event was made by reputable manufacturers for Penney's stores and the low prices quoted do not indicate low grade merchandise the management said.
