Now that Spring has definitely arrived, one should certainly make a trip to the crest of the Blube Ridge mountains in Wilkes, Alleghany, Ashe or Watauga counties, to see the mamileth machines working upon the Scenic Parkway. All the latest types of road building equipment will be found in use here from shovels taking 3 cubic yards of dirt at one bits to giant scrapers picking up and hauling away over 20 tons of material at a time.

The parkway is being constructed upon an approved location along the creat of the Blue Ridge mountains and intervening peaks for a distance of 55 miles between the Low Gap in Alleghany county and the Deep Gap in Watauga county. Six grading projects have been let, and one structures contract, involving an eventual expenditure of two million dollars.
