Drought Broken In All Sections Of Wilkes County

General Rains Last Week Revive Wilted Crops in Dry Area

General rains last week broke the drought in several communities in Wilkes county where there had been little rain during the summer months. However, the drought damage was not considered very great even in the driest sections of the county and in some localities it is reported that enough rain has fallen for an ideal growing season, although truck and garden crops were curtailed to some extent everywhere due to a very dry May, when no sections had as much as one inch of rainfall during the entire month.

Early planted upland corn is said to be somewhat curtailed in the sections not visited by June and July showers. Drought damage is reported in Onslow, Salisbury and Walnut Grove townships and in some few other communities.

The wheat crop in the county was quite good, considering the dry weather which accounted for short wheat and a small amount of straw. However, it is thought that the wheat crop is somewhat below average due to the drought in May, the principal growing season for wheat.

According to information obtained by Coroner I. M. Myers who investigated the colored woman's death thoroughly, Ida fell into the well while attempting to fix the rope on a pulley. She was practically blind and had suffered some with high blood pressure, and it is probable that she became dizzy while working with the rope, and could not see well enough to keep from falling into the well.

The well was about 70 feet deep and contained about 12 feet of water.

Business Conditions Still Move Upward

Survey of Dun and Bradstreet Shows Developments in Many Industries

New York, July 31.—Business conditions this week gave multiplying evidences of improvement, the weekly review of business conditions by Dun and Bradstreet said today.

"Even in the areas affected most severely by the drought," the agency reported, "retail distribution widened steadily, as prices of farm products reached upward and relief payments spread.

Wholesale buying stayed close to the peak of the previous week, due to more markets opening formally their fall season. Instead of preparing for August vacation shutdowns, most manufacturers set their schedules ahead to meet the earlier delivery dates specified.

Noting electric power production fell slightly below the record output of the previous week, the leading industries indices "were too minor to retard the general trend."

On the upward march were bituminous coal production, freight car loadings, steel output and lumber shipments. Bank clearings showed a decline of 7.0 per cent.

Florence, S. C., July 31.—A one-eyed, three-month old kitten stood victor today after a battle to the death with a two and one-half foot rattlesnake in the backyard at T. J. Carter's home yesterday.

The reptile coiled several times and struck at the kitty, but the agile animal evaded each thrust and each time retaliated with a lightning-like paw, ripping wounds in the snake's head. Finally the kitten, with a last desperate leap, landed upon the rattler and, sinking its teeth deep into its enemy's head, brought the duel to an end.

Women Slow In Car Test

State College, Pa.—Women automobile drivers are slower than men in reacting to emergencies on the highways, scientific tests at Pennsylvania State College revealed today.

Of five tests—color blindness, reaction speed in applying brakes, glare resistance, ability to estimate speed, and steering coordination—women were superior in only one. They scored higher in the color test.

More than half the men moved their feet from the accelerator to the brake pedal in a half second, while only 18 per cent of the women attained that speed. Forty per cent of the women—and most of the men—required three-quarters of a second, slower than the average time, which is five-eighths of a second.

Extensive Plans Are Being Laid

Greensboro Station Seeking Radio Talent From Its Territory

AUDITIONS PROMISED

Journal-Patriot Can Arrange For Auditions For Entertainers

Singing has been given credit for aiding in the winning of the World War, and nothing has done as much to banish the nation's cares and bring happiness to countless thousands as the revived popular pastime introduced by radio, known to the listener as "Community Sing," or "Come on, let's sing."

The family of two or the family of twelve enjoy these community sings because they have a part in them. The lighthouse keeper on a lonely island or the light housekeeper in her apartment drops everything to join in the community sing.

Everyone likes to sing and old songs that bring back memories of happy days. Station WBIG, in Greensboro, has acquired the necessary equipment and is laying extensive plans to bring a community sing right into North Wilkesboro. Through cooperation with The Journal-Patriot, WBIG will endeavor to ascertain just how much talent is available for these broadcast programs. These programs are not for advertising or commercial use but will be broadcast for the public interest in an effort to make the Carolina communities better acquainted with their neighbors and help to create goodwill between them; and, of course, WBIG is looking for radio talent for this station and the network. All the affiliated stations are constantly endeavoring to secure new talent. Opportunities are never greater for those who have the proper musical talent to enter the field of radio than at this time.

With the event of fall and the school season, WBIG plans to bring to every progressive community in its area, units of high class entertainment, featuring some of the best radio talent in North Carolina. This entertainment will be available to schools, Colleges, clubs, societies, and civic organizations wishing to raise funds for specific charitable purposes.

Through these WBIG radio reviews or community sings, the city or community in which they are staged will receive valuable radio publicity and a splendid opportunity to get together with the rest of North Carolina via radio. WBIG is cooperating with The Journal-Patriot and every Tuesday and Saturday morning at 7:15, during the summer months, broadcasts "Our Neighbors," in which items about North Wilkesboro and Wilkes county are included. This program has received national publicity and is being copied in many sections of the country.

These new community sings will be broadcast weekly by a direct line from the various towns direct to WBIG's transmitter. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of The Journal-Patriot in Wilkes county to visit WBIG's studios in Greensboro at any time. If you have radio talent, or if you have friends whom you think would make good on the radio, The Journal-Patriot will be glad to notify WBIG and arrange for an audition for you.

VICTORY OF LANDON UNLIKELY, WHEELER

New York, Aug. 2.—Returning from Europe, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, said today that Gov. Alf M. Landon "hasn't an outside chance" of defeating President Roosevelt in the November election. "Landon seems to be a decent, nice sort of fellow," said Wheeler, "but he hasn't an outside chance, even if he is Mr. Hearst's candidate. The people will decide the issue."

One of three United States delegates to the inter-parliamentary union meeting at Budapest, the Montana senator commented: "There are now so many dictators in Europe that the union is not as important as it used to be."
