How To Obtain Best Service From Newspaper
Name of Writer Must Accompany Any Article Submitted for Publication

In order to get the best service from your newspaper—The Journal-Patriot—there are certain things to be remembered. Only last week we received two or three pages of neatly written and well constructed correspondence from a certain community but there was no name accompanying the article. Following a rule which cannot be violated, the items found their way to the wastebasket. Please remember to put your name on anything submitted for publication.

Plans are under way for enlarging your paper within the next few weeks and there will be additional space to fill. May we have the news from your community to add to that from others to the end that The Journal-Patriot will be giving all the news of interest in the county? If your community is not represented in the news columns call to see or write us so that we may be able to secure a correspondent to represent the happenings of your locality. The biggest asset to a newspaper is the items about people you know.

Number of Rural Homes on Power Lines Increases

Now Exceed Number Served in North Wilkesboro and Wilkesboro

750 JANUARY FIRST
Line Extensions Add Customers; Many New Homes Are Constructed

North Wilkesboro branch of the Duke Power company is now serving more rural homes than urban, according to information gained today from M. G. Butner, branch manager.

On January 1 this year there was a total of 1,500 homes on the branch system and of this number half were outside the corporate limits of North Wilkesboro and Wilkesboro, which have a combined population of more than 5,000.

Although urban homes have been connected this year at a rate of an average of one every two days the number of rural homes with electric facilities at the end of the present calendar year is expected to exceed urban homes by around 200.

This increase in number of rural homes with electric facilities is being brought about mainly by over 40 miles of rural line extensions with 300 new customers. However, residential construction along lines constructed previous to this year has further added to the number. It is estimated that 100 new homes will have been constructed in the county along the main highways during 1936.

The longest rural line under construction this year is 15 miles along the Yadkin between Wilkesboro and Ferguson, with several branch lines along the route. Nine miles will be constructed along highway 18 northward. Six miles are being constructed from highway 421 into the Congo community and a branch line has already been completed southward from Mountain View toward Roaring River. Three branch lines were approved in the Gilreath and Pores Knob communities on the Brushies.

Much interest has been shown by rural people in their efforts to obtain power facilities and Duke Power company has cooperated by approval of all proposed lines where reasonable returns could be realized from the investment.

C. C. C. Members Doing Road Work

Completing Road Into Mt. Zion Community; 50 Members In Camp

Members of the Civilian Conservation camp located near Purlear have been engaged during the past few months on completion of the road from the Boone Trail on the Blue Ridge into the Mount Zion vicinity, a project started before the James camp was discontinued and converted into a branch of the camp near Morganton.

The branch camp during the past few weeks has been operating with a very small membership but officers expect a full quota of 50 men following the current enlistment. Several of the members had resigned to accept more profitable employment with private industry.

In addition to the road project, the camp force has been used extensively in fighting forest fires and in doing fire prevention work on the Blue Ridge and smaller mountain ranges in Wilkes and adjoining counties.

MOUNTAIN LIONS WILL FACE FIRST TEST FRIDAY AGAINST LENOIR AT FAIRGROUND

The Mountain Lions, North Wilkesboro's entry in the western high school athletic conference, will face their first test of the 1936 football season here Friday afternoon when they play Lenoir high on the fairground field.

An energetic group of more than 30 youngsters are out to try out their abilities for the various positions on the squad and preliminary indications point to a goodly number of creditable reserves in addition to the first string squad, which is made up principally of letter men seasoned on last year's gridiron.

The team this year outweighs last year's offering by an average of about 20 pounds. Only one of last year's first string was lost through graduation and the Lions will begin this season's schedule with good prospects of furnishing plenty of competition to any other teams who may aspire to finish at the top of the heap. In addition to the letter men there is no scarcity of new material that has been moulded into shape during the workouts the squad has been put through this week by Coach Ralph Barker and his assistants.

In order to give the team the proper moral support, attendance of local football fans at the opening game is essential. Prospects for a winning, scrapping, team is best in years and no doubt lovers of the gridiron sport will be on hand Friday afternoon to back the home team.

The schedule this year does not contain a single setup or pushover for the North Wilkesboro high school team, all of its competitors being in the conference with the exception of Wilkesboro and Elkin. The annual classic with Wilkesboro will close the season.
