Official Of County Explains Old Age Aid Is Not Ready; Apply After First

Welfare Officer Says Old Age Assistance, Children Aid Not Yet Available

INVESTIGATE CASES Opportunity to Make Application at Any Time After July First This Year

Charles McNeill, county welfare officer, states that all those expecting old age assistance or dependent children aid should know that no blanks will be available for application for aid until after July 1, and even then that there will be time to take care of everybody without any rush since the help will be given out on a basis of real need and not age. According to Mr. McNeill, only limited funds are available and there will be no set amount of money given each family. The aid will be given after thorough investigations and only where the need is actual. The case worker will recommend the budget but it will have to be approved by the county commissioners and the county welfare board. Mr. McNeill makes this announcement because of the fact that her office is being swamped with those who consider themselves eligible and are ready now to begin benefitting by the social security laws. Not, however, before July 1 will any work begin on giving assistance and then she is anxious for the public to remember that each case will be investigated and funds awarded on a basis of need. Mr. McNeill further stated that it is not necessary that an applicant call at the office on July 1 but that the opportunity to apply will be open from that time on and it is not desired that every one desiring to make application call on that date. Application on the first date that applications may be made will not be an advantage to the applicant as each case must be thoroughly investigated to ascertain whether or not real need exists.

The inspector was here to acquaint the county welfare superintendent and members of the staff with rules and regulations prescribed by Major A. L. Fletcher, state commissioner of labor, to govern the administration of the new statutes, enacted by the last legislature and effective July 1.

The Hour Law

The hour law provides a maximum work-week of 48 hours for women and 55 hours for men employed in certain North Carolina industries. The maximum work-day is nine hours for women and ten hours for men. This act also requires time and payroll records of employment and enforcement features that are particularly progressive in nature. The Division of Standards and Inspections of the Department of Labor will be in charge of its enforcement.

New Child Labor Law

This new law provides a minimum age limit of 16 for the full-time or regular employment of children, with exceptions made for employment of children in the home or the farm. All minors under 18 are required to have an employment certificate before engaging in any type of employment. Features of this statute also permit 12 to 14-year old boys to sell or deliver papers or magazines under certain restrictions. Children 14 to 16 are allowed to work in non-manufacturing jobs when school is not in session. Employers who desire to acquaint themselves with full regulations contained in the new statutes may call the Welfare Officer for information of this nature.

Wilkes Schools To Open 1937-38 Term August 30; Books Be Furnished Free

Superintendent Wants To Know If Starting Date Suitable

PLAN UNIFORM OPENING Be Much Easier To Handle Book Problem If Schools Begin Same Date

Monday, August 30, has been tentatively set by the Wilkes county board of education as the date for beginning the 1937-38 school term, it was learned today from C. B. Eller, county superintendent of schools. However, if there is any widespread dissatisfaction concerning this date it may be changed later, Mr. Eller said, and those who do not believe that August 30 is the logical starting date will be heard. By starting on August 30 half of the eight-months term would be completed by Christmas and would insure a comparatively early closing date in the spring. The county board of education and Supt. Eller desire that the schools have a uniform starting date, a system which promotes efficiency in the school system and which will be very practical in distribution of textbooks. In this connection Mr. Eller remarked that textbooks in the elementary grades will be furnished without cost this year and that basal textbooks in high schools will be rented as during the past year. He said, however, that the free textbooks in the elementary grades one through seven would include only the basal textbooks and will not include supplementary readers or any individual supplies. Further commenting on the coming school term he urged that parents make up their minds in advance to send their children to school on the first day, in order that no valuable time be lost in securing textbooks or finding their proper place and environment for the term.

Attorney Eugene Trivette, of this city, and Attorney J. E. Houshouser, of Boone argued the case before the high court in Akron Monday and were advised by wire Friday that the court had sustained the judgement of the lower court, which tried the case a few months ago. Funeral Service For Auto Victim

Last rites were held Tuesday at Union church for Otis Yates, who succumbed to injuries received Sunday afternoon when hit by a car on highway 421 near Cricket. J. Q. Yates, father of the child, said that reports that the child ran ahead of him into the path of the car driven by A. F. Holliman, of Leonor, were incorrect in that he was standing on the side of the road and was holding the child's hand when the child was hit by the car. Rev. J. E. Hayes conducted the last rites and burial was in the church cemetery. The many beautiful flowers were carried by the church and neighbors of the family.
