FEWER COUNTY HOMES

Raleigh, Nov. 2.—Mrs. W. T. Bost, state welfare commissioner, disclosed today the department of public welfare was considering the ultimate elimination of county homes through the substitution of social security benefits and district institutional care.

"There will be no spectacular sweeping out of county homes," she said, "but we hope through old age assistance and consolidation into district homes to reduce the number of county homes in the state, and possibly to eliminate them."

Last Rites Held For Mrs. McGlamery

Funeral services for Mrs. F. E. McGlamery, who died Friday afternoon, October 29, were held at Charity Methodist church, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. J. C. Gentry in charge, assisted by Rev. A. W. Eller.

A large crowd attended the last rites to pay tribute of respect to the life of Mrs. McGlamery.

Although she had been in ill health for some time, the news of her passing created an occasion of sadness among her many relatives and friends. Historic Novel By Charles Ford

Recently off the press of New York book publishers is a full length historical novel entitled "Death Sails With Magellan" by Charles Ford. Mr. Ford, a native of New York state and a World War veteran, is known in Wilkesboro and Ronda to relatives and friends of his wife, the former Miss Antie Sprinkle Crouch, of Mayodan. He worked at one time in the advertising department of Vick Chemical Company, of Greensboro. Also he wrote the press notices of the widely read "Story of Philosophy" of Will Durant. Mr. and Mrs. Ford now reside in Montclair, New Jersey, where Mrs. Ford, a graduate of Woman's College, Greensboro and the Liberty School of Columbia University, is a member of the library staff of Montclair Schools.

Mr. Ford, the author of several magazine articles, has written his first book about the expedition of the Portuguese navigator, Don Ferdinand Magellan, in the year 1519, a romantic subject to which previous writers have given little attention. Interest is centered upon the Spanish youth, Gonzola, the actual hero of the perilous venture. The book contains much lore of sea faring and sailing craft and the narrative is placed in a stirring period of Spanish and New World history.

Couple Featured In State Magazine

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Beshears, of the Walsh community, this county, are featured in a lengthy article in the State Magazine, written by Lula M. Weir, in the Nov. 6 issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Beshears attribute their long life, 86 and 82, respectively, to the fact that they have 600 direct living descendants.

Married sixty-six years, they had twelve children, who live also in nearby communities, also rearing large families. Hard work, plain food and no dissipation is credited with contributing to the health and happiness of the couple.
