

Recount Reverses Johnston Figures

Smithfield, June 16.—The Johnston county board of elections tonight certified returns which reversed results previously announced in the race for nomination for the state senate.

This action followed a recount of votes asked by two candidates who were unsuccessful on previous returns—J. R. Young, candidate for senatorial nomination, and E. J. Wellons, candidate for the senate.

By tonight's action Wellons was given 4,932 votes to 4,858 for his opponent, J. B. Benton.

Previous tabulations gave Benton a 23-vote majority.

The recount was conducted by the county board under the supervision of the state board of elections.

The county board certified Young's vote as 2,083 and that of the incumbent, C. C. Canaday, as 7,527. A previous certification had given Canaday 7,683 and Young 2,005 votes.

The state board announced it would conduct a hearing July 13 into the Democratic solicitor primary and that a hearing previously set for June 21 would not be held. It said it would not summon witnesses but would proceed on affidavits.

Urges Prevention Of Many Diseases

County Sanitarian Issues a Statement and Cafe Ratings For June

G. S. O'Dell, Wilkes county sanitarian, today issued the following public statement and his regular report of cafe inspections:

"We are hearing a great deal about the various forms of security, but what is of more value than our health? In order to protect our health, we need to use every precaution against diseases. In the rural section we need safer water supplies, protected from surface pollution and safe sewage disposal. We have this in North Wilkesboro and Wilkesboro, and under regulations every home or business must have water carried sewage approved or a sanitary privy approved by the State Board of Health. By having a safe disposal of sewage and a safe water supply we can almost stamp out filth born diseases, such as Typhoid Fever, Cholera, Dysentery, Intestinal parasites and many other diseases, and this is very important in making our county a more healthy place in which to live.

"Also we should use every effort in eliminating fly breeding places and also screening our houses to keep the flies and other disease carrying insects out of our homes and away from foods. "So let's clean up and keep our homes sanitary as possible and help fight off Old Man Disease."

Chief John Walker Urges Courtesy

(Editor's Note: The Wilkes News, in cooperation with the Governor's Hospitality Committee of Wilkes County, is publishing a series of articles by local officials and civic leaders emphasizing the need for hospitality to visitors.

This third of these articles appears below, by J. E. Walker, North Wilkesboro police chief.

While there has been a decided improvement in the methods, manners, and attitude of police officers in most cities of the country during recent years, still the average person continues to expect that an encounter with an officer, or even a casual contact with him in his official capacity, is something not wholly pleasant. Consequently, members of our department have an unusual opportunity to express cordiality and hospitality to our visitors that will vividly impress and lastingly please them. It is a kind and sympathetic attitude coming from an unexpected source, and therefore, all the more to be remembered by visitors.

A visit to a town by a traveler is often remembered favorably or unfavorably as the direct result of treatment received by an officer in that town. Since this is surely true, we in the police department are undertaking to be more and more alert to our opportunity to sell North Wilkesboro to our visitors. It is our desire to offer them such consideration and personal interest that they will be highly pleased with their welcome here. Thus can the members of the department while maintaining law and order, do more than that, and create in the minds of visitors the satisfying conviction that North Wilkesboro and North Carolina greet them in hospitality and are pleased that they came.

I wish to say now to the men of the department publicly what I have often said to them here at headquarters, that we in the police department should always keep appropriate in our minds the charge that is offered in our contact with tourists and visitors to impress them with our friendliness and understanding cooperation.

We have a real problem in the summer when North Wilkesboro is full of visitors, keeping traffic moving orderly, and handling our work in general, but that is the time of all times for us to hold to good humor, to show our visitors every possible consideration, and to do it in an unassuming, human way that will impress them for a long time to come. We are in contact with our visitors on the streets constantly; of necessity their attention is frequently focused upon us; we are expected to give them information. We have an unusual opportunity to make friends for North Wilkesboro and I am glad to say that we are continuing to work with increasing effort to do a good job in extending hospitality to visitors.

Photographer (taking pictures of father and college boy son): "Perhaps it would make a better picture, my boy, if you were to stand with your hand on your father's shoulder."

Father: "The picture would be more natural if he stood with his hand in my pocket."
