Government Needs Temporary, Part-Time Physicians

The expansion of the army creates a need for about 600 civilian medical officers in various grades for temporary and part-time service. The duties of full-time officers will be to act as doctors of medicine in active practice in hospitals, in dispensaries, and in the field. The duty of part-time officers will be to report for sick call at a fixed hour each day and to be subject to emergency call at all times.

The Civil Service Commission in making this announcement calls particular attention to the fact that part-time officers will be able to continue their regular practice. In order that this may be done, appointments to the time positions will be made of medical officers in the vicinity of the place of duty.

Information concerning these positions may be obtained from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at any first- or second-class post office, or from the United States

Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. Physicians are urged to apply at once. This work is of the greatest importance to the success of the National Defense program.

Questions Answered By State College

Question: When should I apply ground agricultural limestone to my land?

Answer: The best time to apply lime is from three months to one year before seeding legumes. If lime is spread on this far ahead, it will have sufficient time to contact acid in the soil particles and counteract it. The application of lime to cultivated land should be made after plowing, and the material should be mixed with the topsoil. Little benefit may be expected if the limestone is plowed under before being mixed properly with the topsoil. On pastures it is necessary only to scatter the lime on top of the sod. However, better results will be secured if it is worked in with a light harrowing.

Question: Does it pay to fertilize winter cover crops? Answer: Fertilization of cover crops pays by increasing the yield, by increasing the feeding value of the crop, and by increasing the fertility value of the cover crop. Experience has shown that by using fertilizer under winter legumes and plowing the legume crop under in the spring, using no fertilizer on the following crop, good yields have been secured. In fact, the yields were greater than where no fertilizer was applied to the cover crop but an equal amount of the same analysis fertilizer applied after the unfertilized legume was plowed under.

"Those Happy Marriage Experiments That Blew Up." The "researching" wife mixed this with that until the explosion threw her and her broad-minded husband into court, along with an advocate of "the mere abundant life" and a rhumba teacher. Read of this startlingly modern matrimonial mix-up as told in The American Weekly Magazine, with next Sunday's Washington Times-Herald, now on sale.

Pen Points For Parents-Teachers

"Children in a Democracy" is the title of the 1340 bulletin published by the officers of the White House Conference on Child Welfare which met in Washington last year. This publication is seasonal reading at any time of year for parents and teachers. It is especially timely now in view of many American homes opening their doors to refugee children from the war-torn countries. It contains essentially the same material that formed the ground work of the recent Parent-Teacher Institute held at Chapel Hill.

Doctors, nurses, teachers, and social welfare workers, all prominent in their respective fields, have collaborated in writing the eighty-six page report. Their findings upon the varied factors having influence upon the well-being of children in the United States are submitted "to all the people for all the children."

A few of the subjects discussed are family income, child labor, character training, influence of the radio, the press, and the motion picture, guidance of adolescents in choosing their life work, and children of migrant farm farm families. One third of a million farm families are now migrant in the U. S. according to this report.

The White House Conference maintains that the first interest of the Nation should be its voteless citizens, that is the nearly forty-one million people of the United States who are under twenty-one years of age. It calls attention to conditions hazardous to the juvenile population. It defines the problems that face and surround present-day children. How may adults help children to grow into self-reliant dependable citizens who will uphold the American ideals of democracy? The Conference recommends methods by which children may be guided to grow up happily adjusted to life and prepared to live in an ever-changing world.

This report is written with force and clarity. It contains the experiences, opinions, and judgments of specialists in child welfare problems. Any interested person ought to profit from reading it. The publication can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.
