The members appointed by Mr. Swift are: James A. Poplin, farmer at Ronda; W. M. Absher, farmer at Halls Mills; Charlie Miles, farmer of Traphill; W. D. Half-acre, banker in North Wilkesboro; T. J. McNeil, farmer at Roaring River; C. E. Tharpe, farmer of Ronda; J. B. Snipes, County Agent for Wilkes County, Wilkesboro; Charles McNeil, Welfare Office for Wilkes county, Wilkesboro; and Martin F. Absher will serve on the subcommittee for the rural rehabilitation program. Mr. Charles McNeil and Mr. M. F. Absher are members at large to advise on the various phases of assistance to low income farm families.

The Tenant Purchase program provides funds for the purchase of family type farms by qualified farm owners. The Bankhead Farm Owners' Loan Act provides for this program. FSA rehabilitation loans are available to low income farm families, ineligible for credit elsewhere, for the purchase of livestock, workstock, seed, fertilizer and equipment. In accordance with carefully planned operation of the farm and home, about 250 farm families in Wilkes County have already been helped by this program.

The service of debt adjustment committees are available to all farmers, as well as to FSA borrowers. The committees will assist creditors and farm debtors to reach an amicable adjustment of debts based on the ability to pay. This service has been used by 75 farmers in Wilkes county.

Mr. Highsmith said better tenure arrangements is one of the most pressing needs in the rehabilitation of low income farm families. Farm Security Administration provides lease forms for long term leases to encourage conservation and better living on farms. This service is also available to all farmers in the county, as well as to FSA borrowers.

Farm Security Administration is the agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture which assists the low income farm families to take full advantage of the other services of the national agricultural program, such as soil improvement, diversified farming, and increased production for home use. Mr. Highsmith said, it enables the disadvantaged farmers to make use of the improved farming practices developed by the Extension Service and State Agricultural Experiment Station.

War News

The Red army reported today that Germany's offensive had been smashed back with severe losses on two vital fronts guarding Moscow and the Ukraine and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared American occupation of Iceland was aimed to prevent Adolf Hitler from coming to close grips with the United States.

While Churchill described President Roosevelt's action as assuring American and British cooperation to protect the Atlantic Ocean routes to British and as preventing Hitler from bringing pressure on the United States, the Nazis bitterly protested that the occupation was a "stab in the back" and that America had entered the "battle area, where shooting is sharp."

But official reports—and lack of specific German reports in some instances—from the eastern front indicated some of the most furious fighting since Hitler launched his unprecedented offensive against the Soviet Union.

Bad Man Charged With Murder Trys Escape on Monday

Jumped Through Rest Room Window At Stop On Way From Atlanta Prison

Everett Wiles, convicted moonshiner, thief, counterfeiter, all-round bad man and alleged murderer, was transferred from Wilkes jail to Statesville jail yesterday morning for safe keeping until the August term of court when his trial for the murder of constable Nathan Wyatt nine years ago is scheduled.

The board of county commissioners ordered the removal of Wiles to the Iredell jail at the request of Sheriff C. T. Doughton. Repair work in progress at the Wilkes jail increased Wiles' chances of escape, officers said.

Wiles was brought on Monday night from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., by Sheriff C. T. Doughton and Deputy George Holland. Although handcuffed, Wiles made a daring attempt to escape at Conover on the trip to Wilkesboro. He is said to have jumped through a rest room window but was recaptured after a short chase by the officers.

The murder of Nathan Wyatt, Rock Creek township constable and former police chief of North Wilkesboro, occurred on March 24, 1932, at the home of Wiles' mother, Mrs. Janie Wiles, in Traphill township. Wiles is alleged to have shot the officer as he was trying to arrest Wiles for the theft of some automobile parts. One bullet went through Wyatt's hat and the other into the center of his forehead.

Wiles' escape from the federal penitentiary was a surprise. The escape was planned by Wiles and a group of men in New York began trailing Wiles for passing counterfeit ten dollar bills and after one of the longest trails on secret service records Wiles was arrested one night at a cabin near Mount Airy. He was subdued in the cabin by tear gas. He had with him a large amount of counterfeit bills and a quantity of equipment for making spurious money. Wiles was heavily armed at the time of his arrest. Previously Wiles had exchanged a number of shots with Wilkes Deputy George Holland when the officer attempted to arrest him in a field near Hays in Wilkes county.

His seven-year sentence in the federal penitentiary expired Sunday and Sheriff Doughton was there to take him under arrest for the nine-year old murder in Wilkes. It is expected that the state will ask a verdict of first degree murder when Wilkes court convenes in August.

The arrest, and forthcoming trial of Wiles in Wilkes have served to revive memories of Wiles' escapades and crimes before the murder of Wyatt.

F. J. McDuffie, Wilkesboro attorney, tells an interesting account of the trial of Everett Wiles and a younger brother before two magistrates.

Attorney McDuffie at the time of that trial had been in Wilkesboro for a short time practicing law and was not well acquainted with a great number of people.

One day Luther Prevetie, of the northeastern part of the county, went into McDuffie's office with a request that he go out that day to prosecute two men whom had been charged with stealing parts of his sawmill. The lawyer did not anticipate much work and set his fee at ten dollars, which Prevetie paid immediately.

The lawyer drove to the appointed place for the trial, which he until that time had considered just another magistrate's hearing. But before the day was over he had had a most exciting time. The trial was set before W. A. Durham, who had called in W. W. Gambill to sit with him on the case.

The trial had been moved from the Durham home to the schoolhouse, which McDuffie said was literally filled with people he had never seen before and many he has not seen since.

Everett Wiles and his brother had no counsel and Everett had appointed himself a counsel of one to defend himself. McDuffie (Continued on page eight)

Chorus To Sing At First Baptist

Kennedy Home High School Chorus To Sing Here On Friday Evening, 18th

The Kennedy Home High School Chorus will sing at First Baptist church, North Wilkesboro, Friday evening, July 18. This group of singers is a product of a vocal laboratory experiment of six years' work, proving that anyone can learn to sing.

There are one hundred and thirty-nine boys and girls in the institution. By actual test the first year of the experiment, seventy per cent of the children admitted that year, could not sing in pitch or match tones with other voices. In a special demonstration of the results of the first two years of work in vocal experiment, every boy and girl on the campus was presented in a program before the State Baptist Convention in Wilmington.

The various choruses take part about in giving programs on the campus and other places. Each month during the winter the music of an outstanding composer is studied and a recital program presented. Dramatics and Directing Classes are also a part of the practical phase of study.

Pat Alderman, Director of the Kennedy Home Music Department, says, "Any person not mentally or physically deformed, can learn to sing. The earlier you begin to surround the child with tones, pitches, and melodies, the more apt are these inclinations to be formed in the child." The Kennedy Home Music Department does not get the child in the kindergarten years, which is the most formative period in the child's life. We have to overcome the lack of the right environment and influence of these early years and start the process of elimination, as well as construction.

Dr. B. W. Spilman says: "The music program has meant much to the life of the students at the Kennedy Home. I hope that the messages in song will mean as much to the persons so fortunate as to hear them, as these messages have meant to us."

Music is a character builder and a wonderful influence in helping personality find itself. We need more music for our young people, especially in the churches. What we are doing at Kennedy Home, can be accomplished in any church and community.

Come and hear these youthful singers Friday evening, July 18, at 8:00 o'clock at North Wilkesboro Baptist church.

John H. Finley

John H. Finley, who died on March 7, 1940, was one of the nation's great pedestrians. He walked mile after mile through the city streets, which in his mind became the highways and byways of distant lands. When Borough President Isaac broached the project of the walk last year, he referred to Dr. Finley as "a great walker who would have loved to ramble along this new stretch of pedestrian highway."

A memorial to Dr. John H. Finley in the form of a promenade atop the East River Drive will be dedicated informally this morning at 9:30 o'clock by officials including Mayor La Guardia, Borough President Stanley M. Isaacs of Manhattan and Park Commissioner Robert Moses.

The ceremonies will take place at Eighty-first Street and the Drive. The memorial section, comprising the stretch from Sixty-third to 126th Street, will be known as John H. Finley Walk.

Others present will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. S. Sulzberger, members of the Finley family and Edwin Marcus, a New York Times artist who designed two wrought-iron silhouettes of the former editor of The Times to be placed at either end of the new walk.
