

President Says People Do Not Realize Danger

Washington.—By quoting Abraham Lincoln and drawing a parallel, President Roosevelt said indirectly but nonetheless clearly yesterday that the people do not realize this nation has a war to win, and that "hard, tough fighting" will be necessary to win it.

Moreover, he said that the war would, if necessary, continue through 1943 and he disclosed that a new survey of prospective defense deliveries as contrasted with the needs of England, Russia and China had been ordered.

The Chief Executive was holding his first press conference since his sea meeting with Winston Churchill, the British prime minister, and the first since the House, by a bare one-vote margin, approved the idea of keeping draftees and others in the army beyond the period for which they were originally inducted.

Perhaps reading during the idle moments of his recent cruise, perhaps because an aide had drawn it to his attention, Mr. Roosevelt had run across the Lincoln quotation. Obviously it, and what he considered its aptness to the present situation, had impressed him deeply because he had had it copied and made ready for distribution to the correspondents.

Excerpt From Sandburg
It was an excerpt from Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln—the War Years," and told of an interview between Lincoln and a group of women, led by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore of Chicago. It happened a year after the Civil War began. The excerpt follows:

"I have no word of encouragement to give," was the slow, blunt, reply (of President Lincoln). "The military situation is far from bright; and the country knows it as well as I do."

"The women were silent. They knew it was a heart-to-heart talk, that he was telling them what he could not well tell the country, that he was frankly relieving the burden of an over-weighted mind. It was a silence of a moment, but 'deep and painful,' said Mrs. Livermore.

"Strategy" Is Not Way Out
"The President went on: 'The fact is the people have not yet made up their minds that we are at war with the South. They have not buckled down to the determination to fight this war through; for they have got the idea into their heads that we are going to get out of this fix somehow by strategy! That's the word—strategy! General McClellan thinks he is going to whip the Rebels by strategy; and the army has got the same notion. They have no idea that the war is to be carried on and put through by hard, tough fighting, that it will hurt somebody; and no headway is going to be made while this delusion lasts!'"

E. E. Eller Produce Company Is Moved

E. E. Eller Produce company, one of this city's best known firms for more than one-third of a century, has moved from the corner of Tenth and D streets to the large Phillips warehouse building on Forester Avenue. The former location has been leased for another type of business.

The new location for the firm affords ample space for all departments. The many patrons of the company in Wilkes and other counties are asked to remember the new location and to call there when they have poultry, eggs and produce for sale.

TRUE WORTH
True worth is being, not seeming in doing, each day that goes by. Some little good, not in dreaming. Of doing great things by and by; For whatever men say in their blindness. 100% Compliance Farmers Notify The County Office

All farmers who have earned all their soil-building units under the AAA Program, for instance, tilling under soybeans or cowpeas, making terraces, any seedling practice, or any other reasonable practice, are requested to notify the county office when this practice is completed and the application for payment will be promptly prepared in order that it may go to the Washington office prior to the first day of November. It is anticipated that all these cases will receive their soil-building checks prior to December 25th.

The Unhappy Young Rancher and His Volcanic Bride—Or Is She? A marriage license pinned to a corsage persuaded her to marry him, she says, but the flowers faded and so did the bridegroom, when she found he had forgotten he had another wife. Austrian Winter Peas For Farmers

It was learned today that Lawrence Miller, secretary, Wilkes C. & O., that winter peas that have been ordered up to the present time cannot be furnished by the Soil Conservation Association, but may be secured on assignment, through local seedmen on Saturday, August 30th. All producers who have not been notified to the contrary will receive their Austrian Winter Peas and Italian Rye Grass immediately after this date. There are a few hundred additional pounds in this order that will be issued to the first farmer who file applications.

Teach Bookkeepers Hospital Course Lees-McRae College

Banner Elk.—Dean Leo K. Pritchett, of Lees-McRae College, announced here today that a new curriculum for the training of hospital bookkeepers will be added to the courses of study offered for the present academic year. Three young ladies have already registered for the course, the enrollment for which will be limited to a very small number of selected students of a very high type. Both young men and young women will be admitted to the new course of study.

In making the announcement, Dean Pritchett said: "There is a need for trained, qualified bookkeepers for small hospitals today. It is necessary for students to receive specific technical training to become efficient hospital bookkeepers. While the traditional course in bookkeeping is nothing new, yet preparing students specifically as hospital bookkeepers is new. Lees-McRae College and Grace Hospital (both departments of the Edgar Tufts Memorial Association) recognize this need." Lees-McRae is probably the only institution in the South offering such a course at present.

CALVES
Fifteen 4-H Club members of Edgecombe county have started feeding one or more baby beef calves; which they will show at the Rocky Mount Fat Stock Show next March.

THIS DECISION WILL VITALLY INTEREST EVERY USED CAR BUYER!

Every Used Car Buyer Should Read This Important Message From Yadkin Valley Motor Co.

You have no doubt read, in recent weeks, that used car prices are rising. There is even considerable discussion as to whether prices are developing "run-away" tendencies. In view of this trend, many dealers are said to be holding their used cars, to take advantage of the anticipated further increase. THIS COMPANY IS NOT. We consider this policy of holding used cars against a price rise as inflationary, and a dangerous form of business gambling.

We are having fine sales of new cars and have decided to keep our used car stock down — price them low — and sell them.

So — our used car prices are revised downward, not upward — for immediate clearance. This is your opportunity to get a real bargain — perhaps the best for years to come.

Come in today — while they last. A fine selection of makes and models.
