

Abnormal Absurdities

By DWIGHT NICHOLS, et al.

HEARD FROM AGAIN

We thought perhaps that Harold, the Ick, had been silenced and hibernated for the winter after his gasoline alarm blew up in a senate investigation committee hearing, but on Friday we saw his name in print again.

Just in case you don't remember, Harold, the Ick, is the guy called the Secretary of the Interior, who couldn't think of any way to meet a threatened gasoline shortage due to lack of tankers except cut production of gasoline. It seemed to never have occurred to him that the problem might be solved at the other end and that means could be found for getting gasoline from the wells to the consumers.

FICKLE FEMALES

We carried two letters for a young lady to the post office and she said we might put the stamps on upside down. Naturally, being ignorant, we asked what that meant and she said it meant "I Love You" to the recipient of the letter.

Maybe that is some more of the "code of the hills."

HUSBANDS

(The Musings of a Happy Wife) A husband is a useless thing, he sits around and smokes; And when his wife is serious, why that's the time he jokes; But when his wife is playful and wants to see the town, Why then he grabs a paper and promptly sits him down.

A husband is a cussed male, inclined a bit to fuss; When things are very peaceful—the first to make a muss; When everything is tidy—and yet I'm frank to say; A wife is strangely lonesome when the dear old brute's away!

THERE'S A POSSIBILITY

Barner: "You are getting bald, sir, do you know what is causing it?"

Freddup: "I don't know, but I suspect that my hair falling out has something to do with it."

"I don't know whether to be a barber or an author." "Toss for it—heads or tails."

ROOM TO SPARE IN NEWEST DODGE

The "room-to-spare" interior dimensions of the newest Dodge—and the ease with which front and rear seats may be reached through extra wide doors—are convincingly demonstrated in the above picture. Tastefully upholstered chair-height seats are restful because they conform to the contours of the passengers' bodies. There are no visible running boards. Instead, the door panels are made to curve over concealed thresholds providing safe entrance and exit.

Fire Destroys Vestal's Mill

Yadkinville.—Historic Vestal's Mill, one of Yadkin county's oldest landmarks, was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. The mill had been in operation about 20 minutes when fire was discovered in the basement. A rubber belt carried the flames to the third floor and the entire building was afire before anything could be saved.

The mill was owned by Roby Shore and Marshall Chamberlain. However, D. A. Reynolds had leased Chamberlain's interest and was co-operator with Shore at the time of the mill's destruction. Approximately $5,000 had been invested in new equipment within the past five years. It was said. Several hundred bushels of grain had just been stored on the first and third floors.
