Scrap Metal Canvass To Be Saturday

People In Towns Are Asked to Pile Scrap Near Street

Trucks will canvass North Wilkesboro and Wilkesboro on Saturday afternoon, August 15, to collect scrap metal. Decision to have a canvass for scrap metals in the towns was reached in a recent meeting of the Wilkes County Salvage committee. All people in the towns are asked to collect all available scrap metals from their premises and to place the scrap on the lawn at a convenient place for loading to the truck. Those who desire may have the metal weighed when the truck arrives and they will be paid the prevailing prices. Those who do not ask payment may donate the scrap metal to the government. Meanwhile, the scrap metal campaign throughout the county is progressing and large quantities of scrap are being purchased daily by scrap dealers here. The WPA truck is also collecting large amounts of scrap metals in rural communities.

Deserter Tries Jail Break Here

James Grimes, Army Deserter and Ronda Wallace, Drunk, Saw Jail Bars

James Grimes, an army deserter from Fort Jackson, S. C., and Ronda Wallace, charged with being drunk and with a previous jailbreak, attempted to break out of the city jail here last night. Police early this morning found that Grimes and Wallace had sawed their way out of their cells and had made much progress toward sawing out of the jail enclosure in the basement of the city hall building. Wallace, who lives near Pores Knob, was promptly tried today before Mayor R. T. McNeil, was given 12 months on the roads for breaking out of jail on April 16 this year, 30 days for being drunk, and 12 months suspended for malicious injury to public property. Grimes, who was picked up here this week on a call from Army authorities at Fort Jackson, is being held until called for by military police. Wallace, who had broken out of the city jail before, was thoroughly searched before he was locked up Wednesday night. Today he said that Grimes had the hacksaw in his cell. Police Chief Walker said that the hacksaw, which had been stolen from the city truck, had probably been smuggled into Grimes' cell by some of the several people who visited him since he was locked up.

There was a large crowd present to enjoy the program, which gave evidence of splendid training given the children at the orphanage. The children spent the night in homes of members of the Masonic lodge here.

English Seamen Enjoying Visit In North Wilkesboro

Two British seamen are enjoying North Wilkesboro hospitality this week. They are Ted Rose, 29, formerly from Dover, England, and Jack Farrant, of London. On July 22, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. (Buster) Grayson were vacationing at Wilmington. On the way to the beach from Wilmington they picked up two seamen in blue uniforms. An interesting acquaintance developed and the seamen also made the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Jones, who now live at Wilmington. Later from Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Farrant and Rose got the address of Mr. and Mrs. Grayson and when their ship docked at another eastern port this week they obtained their first ten-day leave in a year and set out for North Wilkesboro to see the town and the country they had heard the Graysons describe. On Tuesday night they arrived at the Grayson home here, after getting 14 rides on the way from the coast. They said they had longed for months to see some of the United States except the eastern coastline, which they considered uninteresting. But it is different as far inland as North Wilkesboro. "This is a fine country. You have a nice town. The air feels great. We are enjoying our visit very much," Rose, the older and more talkative of the two, said yesterday in an interview here. They find the hills of the Piedmont section not unlike their native England and our mountains they think are really wonderful. Although only about 300 miles inland, their trip here from the coast has given them a conception of about how big this country is as compared to England, which is only one third as large as the state of Texas. Banker 50 Years

R. W. Gwyn With Bank Fifty Years

R. W. Gwyn this month has rounded out fifty years of continuous services with the Bank of North Wilkesboro, of which he has been cashier for almost as many years. Few men, anywhere, can match that record of more than fifty years in one institution. Mr. Gwyn came to North Wilkesboro from Elkin in July, 1892, and accepted a position in the Bank of North Wilkesboro, at the request of the late J. E. Finley, who was president of the bank. He came with the intention of staying only a month. Mr. Gwyn then went back home in a short time, but Mr. Finley sent for him to come back to the bank, and he has been a resident of the city since that time. Mr. Gwyn's decision to come back has meant much to North Wilkesboro and all northwestern North Carolina during the past half a century. There are few, if any, men who have transacted business dealings with more people in this section than has R. W. Gwyn, and there are few, if any, who have made fewer mistakes in business judgment. During half a century Mr. Gwyn (Continued on page 8)

Victory Letter Stationery Is Now Available

Postmaster J. C. Reins Has Letter Forms For Mail To Go Overseas

Postmaster J. C. Reins Has Received a Supply of V-Mail Stationery at the North Wilkesboro Postoffice.

The stationery received by Postmaster Reins is supplied by the government, and is the correct form for writing letters to men in the service who are overseas. No charge is made for the letter sheets, which are a combination of letter and envelope, but only three sheets may be given to any one person in one day. When transmitted by V-Mail, a miniature photographic film is made of the letter and the film is sent to the destination country, where it is used to make a photographic enlargement almost as large as the original letter. The purpose of the plan is to save space and weight in transmitting mail to men overseas. Thousands of the films can be sent in the space and amount of weight which would be necessary for a fraction of the number of letters in the original form. On one side of the V-Mail sheet complete instructions are given for using the stationery, and users should follow instructions closely for best results.

Marketing Plans Made For Apples

Maps of Apple Growing Section Will Be Distributed To Truckers This Fall

Brushy Mountain Fruit Growers association has adopted tentative plans to expedite marketing of a bountiful fruit crop this season. In a meeting held Friday night at the research laboratory on highway 16, a committee named at a previous meeting outlined several plans. A map of the fruit growing section, containing the location of orchards and names of orchardists, will be made and copies will be placed at information points on highways leading into the Brushies on all sides. Signs will be placed stating that apple information may be obtained and truck operators who stop will be given copies of the map. Orchardists will send to the county agent each week a card telling the number of bushels of the several varieties they will have for sale the following week and information obtained from the cards will be distributed with the maps.
