Representatives from the district office here and the branch procurement offices at Charlotte and Raleigh, Columbia, S. C., and Atlanta, Ga., will soon call on ministers in their areas in an effort to interest those qualified in accepting commissions in the Naval Reserve. Application blanks may be obtained from any of these offices. The maximum age limit for chaplains entering the Naval Reserve has recently been increased from 44 to 50 years. Older ministers who have had previous naval experience will also be considered. Adherents of almost all Christian faiths will be considered. Commissions will be awarded in the grades of lieutenant and lieutenant (junior grade), which carry the corresponding pay and allowances of line officers of the same rank. To be qualified for an appointment as a Naval chaplain, an applicant must be a United States citizen, a fully ordained and active clergyman in the church he represents, a graduate of a theological seminary, if ordained and not less than 24 years old. He also must be nominated and endorsed by the official authorities of his church, and must have a bachelor of arts or divinity or doctor of sacred theology degree.

Want Preachers For Chaplains

State office of Civilian Defense has announced that within 30 days there will be a practice blackout covering the entire state. This will be a final test of the air raid warning systems and the efficiency of Citizen Defense Corps organizations before the army begins calling for practice blackouts without notice. North Carolina will be the first southern state to have a state-wide blackout. The Wilkes county civilian defense organization is now headed by Judge J. A. Rousseau with Police Chief J. E. Walker as coordinator and J. B. Norris assistant coordinator. The office of the Wilkes organization of Civilian Defense is located in the town hall building.

State Blackout Within 30 Days

Record-breaking volumes of winter cover crop seed, which will help farmers beat the threatened nitrogen shortage, are now moving into the South from production areas in the Pacific Northwest. An interesting number of Wake county farmers are becoming convinced that kudzu can be used to good advantage on rough, eroded land, says J. D. Thompson, assistant farm agent.

Winter Peas Raise Value Next Crop

If handled properly, every acre of Austrian winter peas should be worth $10 to $20 an acre in increased crop yields the first year, says E. C. Blair, agronomy Extension specialist of N. C. State College. Farmers are now planting these peas, many of which have been furnished by the AAA through its grant-of-aid plan. Blair said the seedings should be made in September, the earlier the better. He warned that peas planted in October and November will not be large enough to turn under until May. Austrian winter peas may be planted after corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, cowpeas, soybeans, and other crops. They may be turned under in time to plant corn, and in some counties in time for cotton. It is not advisable to plow them in for tobacco. They may be turned under for peanuts, soybeans, and cowpeas on sandy soils. Blair advised sowing 35 to 40 pounds of seed per acre on land where the peas have not been grown before. Twenty-five pounds per acre is sufficient when the peas are drilled in, or 30 pounds when broadcasting on land that is well-inoculated. The agronomist said the seed must be inoculated, unless they are to be sown on land that has already been inoculated. Land inoculated for garden (May) peas does not require inoculation for Austrian winter peas. County agents will furnish information to farmers on this treatment. Blair pointed out that it pays to fertilize the Austrian peas, using 200 pounds per acre of 0-10-10 in the Coastal Plain, and 200 pounds of 0-14-7 in the Piedmont and Mountains. The fertilizer application to the next crop may then be reduced by these amounts. Lime is needed on highly acid soils.
