Women Wanted For Course In Making Planes

Aircraft Course At School Here Can Train Many for Jobs With High Pay

Aircraft production classes being conducted at North Wilkesboro school have vacancies for several additional trainees. It was learned today from W. B. Collins, vocational educational supervisor in the city schools.

Since the aircraft sheet metal and riveting courses were started here, more than 100 workers have been trained. Practically all of them are now working in plane factories at high wages.

Authorities explain in connection with the classes that no charge is made, all expenses being paid by the government, and new students are wanted now.

Especially attention is called to the fact that millions of women will go into war plants during the next year and that those who are trained will have advantage over those who do not have training.

Application to enroll may be made at the employment office or at the class in operation at North Wilkesboro school.

2 Boys Make A Record With Victory Garden

Smith Richardson Hudson, 10, and Dan Hudson, Jr., 14, have what looks like a victory garden record in North Wilkesboro for 1942. They produced a garden which netted a profit of over $100 for the family. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Hudson. (Photo by Dwight Nichols).

Smith Richardson Hudson and Dan Hudson, Jr., sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson, of North Wilkesboro, made a victory garden record in the past season for others to shoot at.

Smith, 10, and Dan, Jr., 14, had a "victory garden plus" on a small garden plot and a dead end street.

Now that the gardening season is over, it is possible to sum up their production:

Produced 35 bushels of Irish potatoes and 20 of sweet potatoes; had corn, beans and tomatoes for table use all summer; raised 100 chickens, cared for cow and hog; sold some of the chickens and kept 25 for layers.

In the basement of the Hudson home are numerous jars of canned foods, row on row of vegetables taken from the garden produced by the two boys.

W. J. Hudson, their older brother, helped them get their garden started in the spring and later enlisted in the marines. He is now serving somewhere in the combat area in the Pacific.

With the exception of breaking the land and the help by their older brother, the two boys did the work of making the garden with a push plow and hoes.

Their garden was so profitable and pleased their father so much that he purchased for them a $35 war bond each. He said the boys easily earned their bonds and that (Continued on page eight)

Tire Stores Now Have 'War' Tires

Year After Beginning of War Tire Dealers Stock Up to Furnish Tires to Motorists Under a Mileage Rationing Plan

North Wilkesboro tire dealers are again stocked up with new automobile tires.

One year after America's raw rubber supply was cut off by Japan's grabs in the far east, new tires are again offered to the motoring public.

But the fact that the dealers have stocked up on tires does not mean that just anybody who wants to buy a tire can get one.

Uncle Sam has given assurance that tires will be provided for essential uses and that tires may be purchased through the rationing boards.

But under the new rationing plan of rubber and gasoline eligibility rules are not strict.

All a motorist has to do is abide by the rationing regulations and not waste gasoline or rubber.

Grade 3 tires, war tires, are available for those who have A and B ration books and who must have new tires in order to continue operating their cars. They are issued only in case a tire fails so badly that it cannot be recapped.

However, all tires and recapping is allotted countries by quotas each month and no boards can exceed their quotas, regardless of the number of applications.

A motorist must have a tire inspection by an authorized tire inspection station before making application for new tires or recapping. Recommendations of the inspector will be followed if possible under regulations and if the quotas contain sufficient tires or recaps to fill the applications.

Anyway, the dealers have tires to sell, and the best news of all is that motorists who must have tires for essential driving are going to get them.

Persons who exceed the 35 miles per hour speed limit are not eligible for new tires or recapping.

Want to Send Christmas Cheer? Call County Welfare Department

If you want to deal out some Christmas Cheer this year to people who need it, the Wilkes county welfare department will be glad to help you.

Some have already called the welfare department asking for the names of families in need of contributions to make Christmas real in their homes.

The welfare department appreciates those calls, a spokesman of the department said today, and cash contributions are especially appreciated in view of the fact that so many needy families can use money to buy what they need most appropriately.

Those who wish to help underprivileged families and who wish some member of the welfare department personnel to make delivery of food or other gifts are urged to leave them at the welfare office as soon as possible to assure delivery at the proper time.

No Major Action Is Reported

No Big News Today From Any Section Of War Areas

No major developments were reported from the many fighting fronts in the world today.

In Africa Allied troops and axis forces had reached a stalemate, which may be followed by a great Allied offensive on Tunis and Bizerte. Air fighting has been particularly fierce during the past few days.

Snow drifts and blizzards in Russia have slowed down the Red offensive, which was limited during the past two days to local operations at many points.

In New Guinea American and Australian forces continued to press toward Buna, Japanese held port, in the face of stubborn opposition.

1943 Auto Tabs Are On Sale, Buy Now, Avoid Rush

Auto Associate Store

It takes a third longer to get your state automobile license this year than it did last—which means those who wait until the "last minute" may expect to wait in line and make the best of it, is the warning issued by the Carolina Motor Club office here.

Those who want to get their licenses can do it now without waiting—for the sales are going slowly and will be bound to pick up considerably as time for the deadline approaches, it was pointed out.

This year motorists are retaining their old plates and are receiving small tabs to be attached to the old plates. This move was made by the state in order to save a great amount of metal, which can go into war production.

Attention is called to the fact that the Carolina Motor Club office here under management of J. W. Steele at Western Auto Associate store is issuing tabs only to those who have 1942 license pocket cards. Those who have lost their cards must secure duplicates from Raleigh before they can buy tabs.

Prices are the same as last year.
