Y. M. C. A. here after the war.
Preliminary estimates say a building would cost about $50,000, and it certainly would be an asset to the city.
Dr. A. C. Chamberlain first brought the matter up in directors' meeting.
The movement has been started and we urge the citizenship of the town and county to get behind it and carry it out.

AFTER THE WAR
(Statesville Daily Record)

The good will of those who insist upon immediate formulation of detailed post-war plans should not be questioned. Their strategic wisdom and their sense of timing, however, are not above reproach. It might well prove that they were shorter sighted than those who want to let well enough alone for the time being.

There is one thing, and only one thing, upon which Americans, British, Russians, Chinese and our allies are unanimous—that Germany and Japan must be beaten. Upon one further point we are so nearly unanimous that no dangerous differences can arise—that Germany and Japan must be annihilated as military powers.

Beyond these fundamentals, there are differences among the United Nations and differences among the peoples of each nation. If idealists insist upon forcing the issue, they can create internal bitterness among and within any or all of the great anti-axis peoples that might be of very practical help to Hitler and Hirohito.

In our own country, among utterly loyal Americans, sentiment ranges from those who advocate a United States of the World to those who hope that we can perfect a self-contained economy and thenceforward write the rest of the world out of our books. Both, in our opinion, are unsound in their extremism. But in between them are millions on either side of an imaginary line dividing "isolationism" from "internationalism."

The idealists believe that under pressure of the emergency, stimulated by the necessity for national unity, they can put across agreements which would be impossible when the war has been won.

It is entirely possible that instead, they may provoke a dihard opposition that will divert attention and energy from the one thing of supreme importance—the winning of the war.

LIFE'S BETTER WAY
WALTER E. ISENHOUR,
Hiddenite, N. C.

DON'T THROW YOURSELF AWAY
I used to hear my mother talk about people throwing themselves away. She meant that they undervalued themselves, or didn't care whether they amounted to anything or not, therefore went with the wrong crowd, went to the "dogs," and just eked out a mere existence without aim, plan or purpose. Such folks don't value their precious time, their golden opportunities, their talents, their lives nor their souls. It is pathetic; it is deplorable.

Sometimes a man may commit a crime, get the ill will of the people, go to the chaingang or penitentiary, and because he seems "all down and out," get to the place where he doesn't care whether he ever amounts to anything or not. He feels that people are against him, look down on him, scorn and scoff at him, and that he is nothing but a miserable failure. Maybe he goes from bad to worse. This is exactly what pleases the devil, and just what the devil would have him do.

However, no man should throw himself away, regardless of what has happened to him in life. If he has committed some awful crime, and has served out a sentence, or is serving one; or if he has had downfalls and setbacks, and people have lost confidence in him and it seems that he is doomed to nothing but failure for life and hell at last he should realize that the way is still open. God is yet upon His throne and hears the penitent cry of sinners, forgives their sins, comes to their rescue, and will lift them up, bless them and make them a blessing, therefore he should approach God and make his earnest appeal to Him. God can lift a man up that is down, and down to stay forever, so far as the world is concerned. God can save him, clean up his guilty life, uplift him, then start him on an upward career, make of him a Christian gentleman and a man of great worth. That's true. If you are down, come to Jesus. If you have thought yourself worthless, and have thrown yourself away, go and find yourself, pick yourself up.

Abnormal Absurdities
By DWIGHT NICHOLS, et al.

WE'RE AGIN IT
Some time ago an article written by a business executive was copied in numerous papers, possibly this one. The title was "I Want To Go Back," and in the article the writer painted a philosophical picture of the desirable things in the "good old days," all of which we agreed to.

We would not mind going back were it not for the fact that we would have to give up many things worthwhile and take on many unpleasant things which the "I Want To Go Back" writer naturally failed to include.
We were born almost a third of a century ago. We came into this world without our consent and doubtless will go out without our consent.
But in that almost one-third of a century we have seen more so-called progress in civilization than a person would have if he had lived the 1,000 years just previous to that important event in our life 33 years ago.

Just to be contrary, we are writing this yarn entitled . . .

I DON'T WANT TO GO BACK
I don't want to go back and have the measles, whooping cough, chicken pox and mumps all over again.
I don't want to go back to straining my eyes in the dim light of an old kerosene lamp.
I don't want to go back to the fear of a smallpox epidemic, or the deadly danger of typhoid every summer.

I don't want to go back to peck-leg trousers with cuffs too small to get your feet through (but the way may bring 'em back).
I don't want to go back to use of the little house that inspired James Whitcomb Riley to write a famous poem.

I don't want to go back to nine days of pneumonia before the "cries!" and having to try the remedies proposed by every neighbor—if the pneumonia didn't kill, some of the remedies would.
I don't want to go back to finding out that sulphur in your shoes would not keep you from taking the flu.

I don't want to go back to scolding flies from the table with a limb from a yellow-bell bush (wouldn't mind the work, but do hate the flies).

TIME FOR BLACKOUTS
Civilian Defense headquarters, not here but for the Wilmington district of many counties, sprang a surprise blackout Thursday night.
Noticing that some were inconvenienced, we have been interviewing people as to what night to have blackouts, and find that no night is suitable to anybody except high school boys and girls, and they say any old night is o. k. with them.

Here are some of the answers to "What night for blackouts is most convenient for you?"
Colored minister: "Any night but Sunday night. Suppose the blackout comes during the offering, what is to hinder Deacon Jones from swiping from the collection plate the price of a —?"
Air raid warden: "Any night but Monday night. Monday is a hard day anyway and I don't want any work on Monday night. Some dumbbells wouldn't blackout if bombs were falling all around."

Lodge member: "Any night but Tuesday night. The blackout would be about the time for refreshments and I don't want to miss 'em."
Church member: "Any night but Wednesday night. That is prayer service time."
Local resident: "Any night but Thursday night. That is when I enjoy reading my Journal-Patriot."

Lion: "Any night but Friday night. That is when we meet."
Young farmer: "Any night but Saturday night. In a blackout I would get lost going to see the girl. I go late and stay the same."
The boss: "Not Monday or Thursday night. That is when you are supposed to be mailing out papers and I can't stand to see you loaf."

FORMER HITLER BAKER SEIZED

New York.—Adolf Hitler's former baker, who concocted pastries for the Nazi Elite guard and storm troopers at Hitler's retreat at Berchtesgaden, Germany, has been apprehended by F.B.I. agents as an enemy alien. It has been announced.
E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the F.B.I., said the 40-year-old baker told him he came here from Berchtesgaden in 1937 and had been employed in a well-known West 42nd street restaurant.
He described in detail to agents banquets he had helped prepare for the Nazis and said he had seen Hitler on several occasions.

Men 18 to 26 Can Enlist In Air Arm

Men between the ages of 18 and 26 can enlist in the Army Air Corps as aviation cadet appointees. Orders for handling those men were received by the U. S. Army Recruiting Trailer which was stationed here in the interest of recruiting women for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.
Application blanks will be sent anyone that requests one from the U. S. Army Recruiting Office, Post Office Building, Charlotte, North Carolina.

Young men desiring to join the Army Air Force should apply for the application blank and preliminary instructions. Then he must go to Charlotte for his mental test. He will be required to present his birth certificate and three letters of recommendation to the Aviation Cadet Examining Board at this time. He will be given his mental test here and if he passes successfully will go at his own expense to a flight surgeon for his physical examination. If he goes to Charlotte for the mental test, the applicant can take his physical at the Army Air Base there. After the physical examination, the applicant returns home.

If he passes all the tests, the applicant is sent a letter which he will present to his draft board to get immediate voluntary induction. He must be inducted within 90 days or his aviation cadet rating is cancelled.

After induction, the candidate will go to a basic training center for two months. Following this, he will be sent to a college for pre-aviation training of 5 months. This will include 60 hours of English, 60 hours of modern history, 60 hours of geography, 60 hours of mathematics, 180 hours of physics. In addition, he will be allowed to fly 10 hours.

After completing this course, the candidate will be appointed an Aviation Cadet and forwarded to a classification center for training. If he fails in any phase of the program, he will be reverted to the rank of Private in the Air Corps or if he was an enlisted man he will be given back the rank he formerly held.

Although the entire training course will last 7 months before flight training, men with educational background will be sent to flight training at the end of each month in the beginning to keep the training program moving.

All enlistment procedure for Aviation Cadets must be completed before the candidate is called for induction by his draft board. If he is called before the procedure is completed, his aviation cadet standing will be cancelled.

Men 17 years old can enlist under the same setup and will be placed in the reserves to be called when they reach their eighteenth birthday. The same enlistment method will apply to men in the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

Qualified men interested in the Army Air Corps program should apply at the U. S. Army Recruiting Office, Postoffice Building, Charlotte, N. C. Application blanks and other information can be had from the Army Recruiting Office, Postoffice Building, Winston-Salem, but no examinations will be given there.

The olive branch is recognized throughout the world as a symbol of peace.
