Ration Points Lower

Points Good For More

Washington.—The Office of Price Administration last night announced the full list of sharply reduced point values schedule which took effect at midnight on frozen fruits and vegetables and all rationed soups.

Drastic cuts ranging from 25 per cent to more than 50 per cent were ordered on these items Tuesday to speed movement of retailers' stocks that have been accumulating because of abnormal low sales volume since point rationing was instituted.

The new values follow:

Frozen fruits and juices:
Strawberries, eight-ounce can, three points; 12-ounce can, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; over 31 ounces, four points per pound.

All other frozen fruits, eight-ounce can, three points; 12-ounce can, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

All other frozen juices, eight-ounce can, two points; 12-ounce, three points; 16-ounce, four points; 23-ounce, five points; 31-ounce, seven points; all over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

Frozen vegetables and vegetable juices:

Asparagus, eight ounce tin, three points; 12 ounce, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; all over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

Beans, green and wax, eight-ounce can, three points; 12-ounce, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; all over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

Lima beans, eight-ounce can, three points; 12-ounce, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; all over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

Corn, eight-ounce can, three points; 12-ounce, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; all over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

Pears, eight-ounce can, three points; 12-ounce, four points; 16-ounce, six points; 23-ounce, eight points; 31-ounce, 10 points; all over 31 ounce, four points per pound.

Fred Lottes Rites To Be On Friday

Fred Lottes, age 46, died Tuesday night at the Oteen government hospital near Asheville after an extended illness.

Mr. Lottes, a native of West Virginia, had been a resident of North Wilkesboro for the past several years and for two years he was employed at Kannapolis. His health failed and he was a patient at the government hospital at Johnson City for some time before being moved to Oteen.

Mr. Lottes was a veteran of the World War. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mable Lottes, and one daughter, Helen, of this city, two brothers and one sister who reside in West Virginia.

Funeral service will be held Friday afternoon, two o'clock, at the First Baptist church here. Dr. John W. Kincheloe, Jr., pastor, will conduct the service and burial will be at Mountain Park cemetery in Wilkesboro.

In Yeoman School

Bryce Eugene Sebastian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sebastian, of Halls Mills, is now in naval yeoman school at Newport, Rhode Island. He entered the navy in December and was first in training at Bainbridge, Md.

Birthday Ist Time On Easter

Miss Florence E. Miller on Sunday will have her first birthday on Easter Sunday, since she was born on Easter Sunday, April 25.

Easter this coming Sunday on April 25 will be the first time that event has fallen on April 25 since she was born.

It is also interesting to note that another very unusual coincidence is connected with Miss Miller's family. Her sister, Mrs. W. H. H. Waugh, was born on April 25 exactly three years after Miss Miller was born and she will have her first Easter birthday on Sunday, April 25, this year.

Hall, Canadian Air Force Ace, Visits North Wilkesboro

Julian L. Hall, former ace of the Canadian air force, and son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. Roscoe Hall, of Wilkesboro, was a visitor to the city this week.

Mr. Hall, now a retired member of the Canadian air force, has been awarded five medals for bravery in action before being severely injured in a crash near Lyons, France.

The awards were as follows: Two Purple Hearts from the Canadian government for being wounded in action; Croix De Guerre by France; Distinguished Flying Cross by the Canadian government; Congressional Medal of Honor by the United States.

Home Front Edition Journal-Patriot To Be Published Soon

Over 5,000 copies of The Journal-Patriot's "Home Front" and "Food for Freedom" edition will be issued soon, and as time draws near for the publication of this special paper which is dedicated to all in Wilkes county who are taking part in the war effort, interest in its appearance increases.

The finest co-operation ever accorded the publishers of The Journal-Patriot has been in evidence since work on the special edition was started several weeks ago—both from Jap Execution Of Fliers Angers U.S.

Penalties For Guilty Promised

News that the Japanese war lords have executed some American flyers who participated in the raid on Tokyo a year ago has overshadowed news on the fighting fronts during the past two days.

The news has stirred the American people as nothing else during the war and the American government is determined that the guilty Japanese leaders will pay for the outrage at the end of the war.

IN NORTH AFRICA
The battle to exterminate Germans and Italians from Tunisia has been well under way this week and the British Eighth army has been very successful, making advances and taking several fortified positions.

Latest reports today were that German counterattacks had been repulsed with very heavy enemy losses.

IN RUSSIA
Germans continue their fierce attacks in the Caucasus despite heavy losses and they have made no appreciable gains against the rugged Russian defenses.

Russians have destroyed 95 German planes during the past two days in that sector while losing only 42, Moscow reports today said.

GERMANY BOMBED
American and British bombers continue large scale assaults on German objectives against greater fighter resistance, indicating that Hitler has pulled some of his air strength from Russia in a vain effort to protect war industries in the homeland.

Court Term Will Begin On Monday

ONE LESS

A thoughtless high school student goes in the door of the drug store with a quarter in his pocket. He sits down and plunks the quarter on the counter—"A chocolate milk shake please"—and two nickels go into the piccolo, "Black Magic" and "You'd Be So Nice To Come Home To" blares away. On the soda counter there is a poster "Buy bonds with that quarter," but it is too late now, so there is one less stamp bought—one less.

One less quarter goes to the United States Treasury. One less clip of bullets is turned out on the production front.

Somewhere in the South Pacific on an island a United States Marine stands in a fox-hole with his rifle trained on a line of Japs, slowly proceeding up the hill—eight—nine—not many Japs. A Marine's match for an even fight. The Marine is tense as his steady finger searches for the trigger in the dark fox-hole. Above, the sun shines down on a world at war, and scattered clouds dance across the skies. The Japs come closer—closer—closer—'til the Marine is just a hundred feet or more in front of them. He thinks of home—back in the good old U. S. A. He thinks about Mary—and Bobby and of the day he would walk up to the gate again and be greeted by Mary.

He pulls the trigger and the first slug finds its place in a Jap's belly—five minutes pass and two Japs are left.

One is behind a tree—one is on the ground, both with gleaming slant eyes shinning with the blood of Pearl Harbor. The Marine murmurs—"This one's for Pearl Harbor"—as he fires the last shot of the fourth clip of cartridges. Another Jap falls face down in the mud—where all Japs belong.

One Jap is left—the Marine reaches into his pocket for the next clip—but it isn't there—one less clip is there—one less clip was turned out of the factory—one LESS war stamp was bought—one MORE milk shake was bought . . .

The Jap stands up, his eyes blazing with MURDER and he sends two slugs into the fox hole.

Blood runs down the Marine's face and his hand clutches his throat as a painful frown grasps his face—his jaws tighten as the blood—red and warm—gushes out between his fingers. He turns and falls . . . and he draws his last breath because one less stamp was bought.

Back in the drug store in America somewhere, the piccolo blares with "You'd Be So Nice To Come Home To"—but there is a Marine's body in the South Pacific lying dead in the mud—with cold blood surrounding it. He will never come home . . . YOU killed him in cold blood . . .

Let the piccolo blast . . . let one less War Stamp be bought . . . let one less clip be made . . . and there is one less Marine, to come home. YOU KILLED HIM . . . YOU . . . YOU!

School Has Big Bond Day

Hitler's Birthday Celebrated With Big Lot of Sales

North Wilkesboro school on Tuesday, April 20, Hitler's birthday, sold a total of $1,205 in bonds and stamps.

The students celebrated the birthday of Hitler in a big way, breaking all records at the school for one day's bond and stamp business.

The school sells bonds and stamps to students two days each week and since bonds and stamps went on sale the volume has amounted to a very substantial sum.

Mount Pleasant High Finals On Monday, Apr. 26

Class of 29 Seniors To Graduate; Dr. Kincheloe To Preach Sunday

Mount Pleasant high school will close a successful year Monday night, April 26, when diplomas of high school graduation are presented to a class of 29 seniors.

Dr. John W. Kincheloe, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist church in North Wilkesboro, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at Mount Pleasant Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, three o'clock.

The program Monday night will be a combination class day and graduation and members of the class will carry out the program.

The commencement plans were announced by P. W. Greer, district principal.

Sales Bonds Upped

$150,000 Is Needed

In order to reach the goal of $374,100, war bond sales in Wilkes county during the remainder of this month must total approximately $150,000, W. D. Halfacre, war finance campaign chairman for Wilkes, said today.

Mr. Halfacre stated that bond sales to date were approximately $225,000, but that the sum included the purchases by the heavy investors and that the balance must come from persons who can buy only the smaller bonds in denominations from $25 to $1,000.

It is interesting to note that Tuesday, April 23, the birthday of Hitler, was a banner day in bond sales in Wilkes county and that many people called at banks and other issuing agents to buy bonds and asked that the date, Hitler's birthday, be stamped on the bond. Thus they paid their respects to Hitler by furnishing money with which to pay for the implements of warfare to defeat Hitler and all he stands for.

Yesterday Mr. Halfacre received a letter from Duke Power company in Charlotte stating that $20,000 had been allotted by the company to purchase bonds for which Wilkes will get credit in the campaign. Previously $10,000 had been received from the International Shoe company, which operates a wood extract plant here.

The war finance organization is making a strong appeal to all the people who have money to invest it now in war bonds in order that the national goal of $13,000,000,000 may be reached before the first of May.

District Meeting Of Junior Order Here On Monday

Interesting Meeting Planned For North Wilkesboro On Monday Evening

Seventh district meeting of the Junior Order will be held with the North Wilkesboro council as host on Monday, April 26, 7:30 p. m.

A number of state officers and district leaders are expected to attend the district meeting. Following the district meeting the North Wilkesboro council will put on degree work and serve refreshments, to which all Juniors are invited.
