WAVES Coming Thursday

Two Ensigns Coming Thursday For Recruiting

Ensign Mary Frances Ivey, senior WAVE officer in North Carolina, and Ensign Elva Mills, Navy Nurse, will be in the Post Office in North Wilkesboro all day Thursday, July 8, to interview young women interested in enlisting in the WAVES or interviewing possible women officer candidates, it was announced today by Navy Recruiter J. E. Huffman.

Miss Ivey was in civilian life professor of English at Winthrop College, and after completing her period of training at Smith College was assigned to the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, State College, Raleigh, and together with Lieut. Hartley has directed the procurement of WAVES in North Carolina.

Recruiter Huffman pointed out that WAVES were rapidly replacing Navy men at shore stations, and that only last week six men were replaced in Raleigh by WAVES who will do work formerly done by yeomen. Physical requirements have been lowered considerably in the last few weeks, especially insofar as weight and vision are concerned. Educational requirements for enlisted personnel are two years in high school. For officer candidates a minimum of two years in college is required.

One of the most interesting jobs now being done by WAVES is teaching Navy men how to fly. This is done on the ground and the WAVES operate the Link Trainers that give potential Navy men aviators the "feel" of flying in all sorts of conditions.

Wilkes county women between the ages of 20 and 49 are invited to see Ensigns Ivey and Mills for full information.

Judge Hayes Is Speaker At Meet Of Kiwanis Club

"Declaration Of Independence" Timely Subject Discussed by Jurist Friday

"The Declaration of Independence" was the subject of an inspiring address delivered by Judge Johnson J. Hayes at the Friday noon meeting of the North Wilkesboro Kiwanis club.

John Leyshon was program chairman and presented Judge Hayes. The speaker said it was his opinion that the Declaration of Independence was the greatest single document ever written. "Its language is superb, its score is all inclusive and its charm persuasive," he said.

Judge Hayes read parts of the Declaration of Independence, with explanations and background for each particular statement. He said that as God created all men with equal rights, this document proceeds to establish and express these rights for the citizens of the United States. He also expressed the view that at the conclusion of the present war in which the world is now engaged that there would be great opportunity for development commercially and otherwise and that this nation will be in a position to offer to the suffering peoples of the world the principles set out in the Declaration of Independence. The address was received with rapt interest.

At the meeting Friday Lenoir Wyn. of Waynesville, was a guest of E. G. Finley and Gordon Forester was a guest of J. B. Carter.

Wounded Raiders Flown From Behind Jap Lines

Despite wounds and jungle sores, Pvt. John Yates, a British raider, (left) manages to smile as he is flown from Burma. He was one of the raiding party that blew up railroad lines, supply depots, and disrupted communications 200 miles behind Japanese lines in that area. At center, raiders board that airplane which flew them back to India. They may be distinguished from RAF fliers by their bedraggled condition. A raider suffering from dysentery (bottom right) hangs onto a rope as he drinks water inside the plane.

Howard Osborne In Lifeboat 11 Days After Ship Was Sunk

Howard Osborne, Wilkesboro man who has been in the navy several months, is home on a 30-day leave after his ship was torpedoed and sunk on the Atlantic and he was rescued after spending eleven days in a lifeboat.

Osborne, a navy man assigned to a supply vessel, was a member of a crew making the return trip when one end of the ship was completely wrecked by a torpedo from an enemy submarine. The ship did not immediately sink and no lives were lost, although several men were injured. The men took to life boats, and a calm sea enabled them to make their way to an island, where they were later picked up by another ship and carried to New York City.

Osborne lost all of his clothes except those he was wearing, and all other personal possessions. He was one of the last three to leave the ship and he spent the last few minutes searching the ship for one missing crew member, whom it was later learned had gone overboard and had taken refuge on a raft. The lifeboats were well equipped with emergency rations and water and the men suffered no great hardships during their 11 days afloat.

Osborne, before volunteering for naval service held a position in the lumber plant of his uncle, P. E. Brown. Since enlisting in the navy he has received three promotions and has an excellent service record. His wife, the former Miss Helen Riggsbee, nurse with the county health department, makes her home in Wilkesboro.

Little Grill Has Doubled Space

The Little Grill, which is owned and operated by Pete Antonakos, has doubled its space and other improvements have been made during the past few weeks.

The Little Grill is now one of the most up-to-date cafes in this part of the state.

Constant increase in business made it necessary that the cafe be enlarged to take care of a rapidly growing patronage. The adjacent building, which was formerly occupied by Right-Way Shoe Shop, was leased and remodeled.

This enabled Mr. Antonakos to double the space of the kitchen and to add additional equipment. Space was also provided for a private dining room, which will accommodate a considerable group and other tables were also added.

Interior of the building was completely renovated and repainted, which adds greatly to the appearance of the cafe.

The improvements made by doubling space and adding equipment makes it possible for The Little Grill to meet the highest sanitation standards.

Family groups, dinner parties, club meetings and various other groups can now be accommodated at The Little Grill.

Allied Planes Blast Many Enemy Bases

AXIS WRECKS SICILY DOCKS AS SAFEGUARD

Allied Headquarters in North Africa.—Adding to destruction caused Saturday by the heaviest aerial attack on Italy's island airdromes since the fall of Pantelleria, Axis defenders of invasion-blown Sicily have begun blowing up port installations that might be used in an Allied landing, it was disclosed yesterday.

An official announcement said aerial photographs showed that the enemy was destroying his own quays at Trapani, on the northwest tip of Sicily, with demolition charges.

(The Rome radio said in a broadcast recorded last night by NBC that the big air and naval base of Palermo, Sicily's capital, has "ceased to exist" under the pounding of Allied bombers.)

The Italian Sunday communique, broadcast from Rome, stated that Allied planes bombed Ostia and Fiumicino at the mouth of the Tiber southwest of Rome last night and repeatedly flew over the outskirts of Rome itself, drawing anti-aircraft fire from the capital's batteries.

American forces captured Vangunu village on the island of Vangunu, killing 30 Japanese, the noon communique said.

Allied Headquarters, Australia.—Allied forces, directed by General Douglas MacArthur who has joined them at the front, have crushed all Japanese ground resistance in the Nassau Bay region of New Guinea and Viru Harbor, New Georgia, and are now preparing to launch final assaults on Salamaua and Munda, it was reported yesterday.

At a Lady Leatherneck Training Camp

In snappy theory cadence a unit of women marines (at top) march smartly to their classes at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C. The lady leathernecks are wearing their raincoats. At lower left two women marines check the water and oil of a jeep. This is part of the toughening up course which these girls go through before they relieve a male marine so that he can get into a more active post. As part of their course, women marines must take lessons in sailing. A group is shown at right in sailboats. One of the most pleasing experiences for the girls at Camp Lejeune is being served by male waiters in the mess halls.
