Mis Florence Phillips Bride of Virgil Adams

Ingalls, June 30.—Miss Florence Phillips, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Phillips, of Ingalls, became the bride of Mr. Virgil D. Adams, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Adams, of Newport News, Va., in a five o'clock ceremony of beauty and simplicity Wednesday afternoon, June 30th, at the home of her brother, Frank W. Phillips, at Ingalls. Rev. T. W. Clapp, Presbyterian minister and pastor of the bride, officiated.

The fireplace wall was effectively decorated with small white pines and branches, seven branched floor candelabra holding white tapers and baskets of the wedding flowers, daisies and Queen Anne's lace. Centering this arrangement was an arch of clematis vine under which the vows were spoken. The entire setting was reflected by a large mantle mirror softly lighted by white tapers and centered with a crystal basket of wedding flowers.

Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered, the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" by Wagner was used as the processional.

Mr. Frank W. Phillips attended Mr. Adams as best man. Ushers were Mr. A. Frank Arnold, brother-in-law of the bride and Dr. William Davenport of Spruce Pine.

Mrs. Bret Lomax, of North Wilkesboro, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a triple-sheer blue and white flowered dress, a corsage of sweet peas and swansonia, and daisies in her hair.

Master Tony Phillips, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer, and carried the ring in a calla lily. He wore a white garbordine suit.

Little Misses Mary and Martha Lomax of North Wilkesboro, twin nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They wore yellow organdy dresses and coronets of daisies and white ribbon. They carried hand-made lace baskets of daisies.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a sheer-crepe two-piece dress of ashes of roses, a small halo shaped white hat with shoulder length veiling. She carried a small white prayer book topped with a purple throat white orchid and showered with stephnotis and gypsophylla.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Phillips, wore a rose print triple sheer dress with white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of sweet peas and swansonia.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Phillips for the wedding party and members of the family. The table was covered with a lace cloth centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped by miniature bride and groom, flanked by crystal candelabra holding white tapers. Mrs. A. Frank Arnold, sister of the bride, served at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Ben Meyers, of Mars Hill, and San Francisco, Calif., twin aunt of the bride. Following the reception the couple left for a short wedding trip to Little Switzerland and Asheville. For travel Mrs. Adams wore a two piece crepe suit of gray and red with beige accessories. She wore the white orchid taken from her prayer book. Mrs. Adams is a graduate of Cranberry high school and received her B. S. degree from Western North Carolina Teachers' College. She has taught for a number of years in the Crossmore school and at present is employed at Hilton Village school in Newport News, Va.

Mr. Adams is a graduate of Newport News high school and Washington School of Interior Decorating, and is now connected with the Newport News Ship Building and Dry Dock Company. Mr. and Mrs. Adams will be at home after July 4th at 36 Woodfin Road, Hilton Village, Va.

Following the engagement announcement many nice courtesies were shown the bridal couple, including a lovely tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Phillips, June 27th, four until six o'clock.

Reds May Need Invasion Help

London.—The Russia report of a sharp German offensive hitting perhaps toward Moscow gave a quick lift to invasion talk with the possibility that a large-scale Nazi drive might precipitate major American-British operations to forestall any chance of losing their great Soviet ally at the last minute.

A new spark to invasion speculation was added also by disclosure of the bold British jab into Crete, which is one of the main bulwarks guarding the southern flanks of the Axis.

An Allied operation to relieve the Russians would also take advantage of any heavy Nazi commitment of forces to the eastern front.

Almost certainly if the Germans maintain hard pressure against the Red army in their new move it will result in an insistent renewal of Soviet demands for opening a front in western and southern Europe — demands which have been reiterated in the past few weeks by the top men of Moscow. While withholding news of the British commando-penetration of the vaunted defenses of Crete and acknowledging only fighting of "local importance" in the east German propaganda attempted to convince the invasion-menaced people of Europe that the Allies are losing planes at a prohibitive rate in a vain effort to soften Italy for landings.

"Surveys" of the Mediterranean situation as put out by the Axis International Information bureau and heard by the Associated Press reported 108 American and British planes had been shot down in the last 48 hours in raids on Sicily and on the Italian mainland. This report declared that this was 15 to 20 per cent of the attacking forces and "it remains to be seen how long the Anglo-Americans will be able to sustain such losses."

The Allies have reported no such losses.

Calling the Allies' "war of nerves" a "war of paper," the information bureau article boasted that Axis defenses were being strengthened greatly and reported that the German air chief, Baron Van Richtofen, had joined Field Marshal General Albert Kesselring at the latter's headquarters in southern Italy, adding that Richtofen's reputation for collaboration with the army "should be given some room for thought."

Meanwhile the Paris radio, as heard by the Associated Press, continued in the role of heavy-handed comedian for Axis propaganda revue by saying "we admit that nothing will occur before July 15—which will allow for the fourth French republic created in Algiers to celebrate the storming of the bastille on July 14."
