Marlow's Men's Shop Remodeling Finished
Marlow's Men's Shop, owned and managed by W. C. Marlow, has been enlarged twice its former size and all interior decorating has now been completed. The addition of double floor space, new fixtures and a new arrangement of the store makes it one of the most attractive mercantile establishments in the city, and expansion is due to increased patronage enjoyed by the store.
Entrance to the store is now from B street, and the remodeling not only made more floor space possible but extra window display space as well.
Marlow's invites its many customers and friends to pay its newly-remodeled and enlarged store an early visit.

With The CHURCHES
(Editor's note: The Journal-Patriot regrets inability to publish last week the items below, which were prepared for the Thursday issue and have been serviced into a review of Sunday activities in the churches.)

Union Services Have Begun In City
According to the custom of the past several years, the Presbyterians, Baptist and Methodist churches of North Wilkesboro are conducting Union Sunday evening services for the last six weeks of the summer.
The service Sunday evening at eight was held in the auditorium of the First Baptist church. Rev. Sidney Crane, pastor of the Presbyterian church, preached the sermon for the occasion. The public is urged to attend the union services.

Baptist Service Flag Was Presented Sunday At First Baptist
Sunday at the 11:00 a. m. worship service in the First Baptist church, a service flag was presented in honor of the men from the church who are now in the armed services of the United States. A special invitation to the service was extended to relatives of the service men. Members of the immediate families of the men occupied a reserved section in the auditorium.
The service flag included a star for each man in service from the church. At the time of presentation the flag had 66 blue stars and one gold star. The flag measures 3 by 5 feet, and is made of white taffeta with a red border, and gold fringe.
"In Which We Serve" was the pastor's sermon subject for this special program in honor of the men in service.

Presbyterian Church Rev. SIDNEY CRANE, Pastor
Communion of the Lord's Supper was observed at the morning service, and every member of the church was urged to be present to renew his vows to the Lord by partaking of this sacrament. The subject of the brief communion was, "Jesus, Our Savior." This was the second in the series of sermons by the pastor on "The Names of God."
The Young People's League met at 7:15 in the evening. Now that Sunday evening union services are being held, there will be no meeting of the adults of the church until fall.

First Methodist Church Rev. A. C. WAGGONER, Minister
7:00 Tuesday—Regular monthly meeting of board of stewards at home of Mrs. P. J. Brame.
8:00 Wednesday—Prayer service and third quarterly conference conducted by district superintendent, Rev. A. C. Gibbs, Elkin.

Wilkesboro Baptist Rev. HOWARD J. FORD, Pastor
"Why Christians Suffer" was the subject for Sunday morning's sermon at the Wilkesboro Baptist church. Sunday evening the pastor continued a series of evangelistic messages.
The mid-week prayer meeting will continue throughout the summer months.
Visitors are given a hearty welcome.

Woodlawn Bible School Is Success
A most successful vacation Bible school was held last week at Woodlawn community house with leaders from the Methodist, Presbyterian and First Baptist churches here participating.

Wilkesboro Drops First Contest Of 2nd Half Softball
Wilkesboro, the team which completed the first half schedule in the churches' league with a commanding lead, dropped the last game of the first half Tuesday to the Methodists by the score of four to three.
The Methodists did everything right in the game and were as happy over beating the league leaders as if they had captured the pennant.
The Baptists wound up the first half by defeating the Presbyterians 11 to three.
Wilkesboro lost only two games in the first half schedule, which consisted of 12 contests.
Wilkesboro lost the first game of the second half Thursday to the Presbyterians by the score of four to three in a well played game.
The Methodists, who had tough sledding during the first half, got off to a good start by defeating the Baptists 11 to 3.
According to reports from Baptists and members of the Wilkesboro team, the weather was too hot.
Standing for the second half now is as follows:

TEAM	W.	L.
Methodists	1	0
Presbyterians	1	0
Baptists	0	1
Wilkesboro	0	1
