Carbon Disulphide Controls Weevils

Weevils in dried beans and peas in storage will cause large losses this summer unless the insects are properly controlled by carbon bisulphide, says J. Myron Maxwell, in charge of Extension Entomology at State College.

He reports that these insects develop while the beans and peas are in the field and continue to develop in the seeds after they are placed in storage. For treating, the beans and peas should be thoroughly dried and placed in an airtight container, using one-half teaspoonful of carbon bisulphide to the gallon of seeds. The fumigating should be done when the temperature is above 70 degrees and the seeds should be left in the tightly closed container for from 24 to 36 hours.

Maxwell suggests that a tightly woven cloth be securely tied over the mouth of the container, while the seeds are being aired, to prevent other insects from entering. After airing for a few

Fat Stock and Wool Show At Elkin Planned

Planned as an annual event, a Fat Stock and Wool Show, and Sale, will be staged at Elkin October 14 and 15 under the auspices of the Elkin Kiwanis Club, Elkin Junior Chamber of Commerce, Elkin Merchants Association, North Carolina Bankers Association, and the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

Participating in the show will be the county farm agents of the following 12 Northwestern North Carolina counties: Alexander, Wilkes, Yadkin, Surry, Ashe, Watauga, Iredell, Caldwell, Forsyth, Alleghany, Stokes and Davis. Fat stock and wool are expected to be shown from all of these counties during the two days of the event.

The show is to feature the exhibition of adult beef cattle, baby beef, swins and shorn wool, and cash premiums for the prize winners will amount to a large figure. There will also be county, district and state awards, which will be in the form of War Bonds.

On Friday, October 15, following the judging of the various entries, the sale will be conducted.

This show is expected to further stimulate interest in the growing of more and better cattle, sheep and hogs throughout this section of the state, and to place the area in position to meet the rapidly increasing and serious demands for more adequate supplies of beef mutton, pork and shorn wool.

A catalogue listing general rules, regulations, premiums and other information, as well as an entry blank has been prepared, and will be mailed to all interested parties at an early date.

Get Cotton Ready for Smooth Ginning

Cotton picking and ginning are just around the corner now and it is a good time to remember that neither 'green' nor 'damp' cotton can be ginned without lowering the quality of the lint, says C. L. McCaslon, extension gin specialist, at State College.

Every year our North Carolina growers lose many thousands of dollars early in the season by not allowing their cotton to 'ripen' before it is carried to the gin. It's poor policy to raise good cotton and then have it damaged in the ginning process, because it has not been allowed to thoroughly dry out and get in condition for the best job of ginning.

hours, place the seeds in tightly woven sacks for storage. He further suggests that the fumigation process be repeated at the first signs of insect presence and that the stored sacks be examined every month.

The entomologist warns that carbon bisulphide is explosive and inflammable and that it should not be used around fires, or sparks, or near lighted tobacco.

Shop Early For Men Overseas In Army and Navy

Atlanta, Ga.—The Army Postal Service not only believes in doing that Christmas shopping and mailing early, but is pointing the way by announcing that September 15 to October 15 will be "Christmas Mailing Month" for gifts to soldiers overseas, according to Lt. Colonel Hartley B. Dean, Chief of Postal Section, Headquarters 4th Service Command.

These Christmas packages must conform to present limitations as to weight and size which are not over five pounds in weight, 15 inches in length and 36 inches in length and girth combined. Packages mailed during this period must be packed tightly in metal, wooden or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard boxes and should be marked "Christmas Gift Parcel". Only one package will be accepted for mailing by or on behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee during any one week. This is important, Colonel Dean emphasized, and checking by postal officials will be in effect.

For Christmas package mailing, restrictions are relaxed to make it unnecessary for the mailer to present either a request of an envelope bearing an OPA cancellation at the time of mailing. Perishable articles cannot be mailed. The sending of parcels under the classification of "fragile" is discouraged, Colonel Dean stated. Intoxicants, inflammable materials, or any article which might kill or injure another or damage the mails cannot be accepted.

Addresses must be legible. Parcels addressed properly should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A. P. O. number of the addressee and the post-office through which the parcels are to be routed.
